

An economic and political problem that requires political and economic solutions, such as fundamental changes in government and financial system.

Competent psychoanalysis or therapy.

Planned and controlled contact with the hated group. Unplanned, arbitrary contact can do more harm than good.

(Intergroup Relations Strategy)

Fundamental economic and political rearrangements to dismantle the internal colonial structure.