A BSN: The Next Crucial Step in Your Nursing Career

When it comes to the competitive field of nursing, a BSN is no longer a choice; it's a necessity. With a growing body of research linking baccalaureate education and lower mortality rates, many states are considering legislation that would require nurses to obtain a bachelor's degree within 10 years of licensure in order to keep working. Hospitals across the country are beginning to require nurses to return to school for a BSN or have one before even applying. A BSN also is becoming increasingly necessary for career advancement.
