I am ABC, born on April 2, 1999, and I am going to study Bachelor of Business Information Systems at XYZ College, Sydney, Australia. I am the daughter of Mr. BCA and Mrs. CBA, a permanent resident of Kathmandu 14, Nepal.

I want to pursue a higher degree in a subject that appeals to me not only on a theoretical level but also with practical skills and knowledge. I've always been interested in business information. The Bachelor of Business Information Systems at XYZ is a three-year academic course that has been designed to prepare students for careers in information and communication technology (ICT), focusing on managing information systems in organizations.

High-quality education, a high standard of living, cultural diversity, friendly natives, innovative and practical learning, and unique teaching methods are the main reasons international students choose Australia to further their studies.

I chose XYZ for my further career development to be qualified and acceptable in a competitive market. XYZ is one of the most innovative, dynamic, and richly diverse institutes in Australia. It has affordable tuition fees, allowing me to complete an accredited degree program. The programmes of XYZ will encourage me to use the skills required in the real world: problem-solving, critical thinking, communication, and collaboration.

After completing my bachelor's course, I will be able to cope with technical problems related to business and contribute towards the effective business sector of my country. I believe I can achieve a better education in Australia, which will help me get a good job in my home country.

So, after completing my academic education in Australia, I intend to return to Nepal to pursue a successful career and provide a comfortable retirement for my parents.
