MISSION STATEMENT

We, the people of Sacred Heart Parish in Pahoa, Hawaii, strive to be a community of faith. We believe we are called by God to be disciples of Jesus Christ and to be good stewards within the Church and our local communities.

We are called to praise and reverence God, to support one another on our journey of faith, to work for the salvation of our souls, and to labor for peace and justice. By the grace of God and the power of the Holy Spirit, we do this by, communal liturgical worship, faith sharing, ongoing faith formation, stewardship, outreach ministries, and by selflessly giving of our time, talent, and treasure.

+* November 30, 2025* The First Sunday of Advent+*
1st Sunday of Advent — Lectionary A (11-27-2016)
This Sunday we begin a new liturgical year. Advent is a season of penance as we prepare ourselves for the commemoration of Jesus’ birth at Christmas and at the same time cleanse ourselves in anticipation of Christ’s second coming and the end of the world. In this first week of the Advent season, we focus on hope for the second coming of Our Lord into this world. The readings for this first Sunday unmistakably concern the second coming of Christ. In the passage from Isaiah, we are presented with the rise of Jerusalem as a focal point for all humanity. The prophecy foresees a time when all humanity will look toward Mount Zion, the site of Jerusalem, as the source of salvation. As the world turns to Zion for instruction, an era of peace will begin. Isaiah tells the people that when this happens, we will all walk in the light of the Lord. Darkness and sin will melt away before the healing presence of God. As Catholics hope for the fulfillment of this as prophesied in the book of Revelations. Christ will appear and bring peace at the end of the world. In the reading from Romans, Paul urges us to be alert and attentive as the end at hand. Here, he calls the Christian community to wake up and smell the coffee. We need to change our lives and cling to Jesus, for in Him lies our salvation. The time for that change is now since either the second coming will end the world, or death will end our lives and bring us face to face with the Lord. Paul teaches that if we live in the light, we will be able to embrace God when our end comes. If, however, we shroud ourselves in darkness and sin, we ultimately become unable to approach Jesus. The Gospel passage from Matthew echoes the warning given in the previous reading from Romans. In the line which precedes this passage, Jesus reminds his disciples that no one knows the day or the hour in which the end will come. He presents an apocalyptic vision of disaster and death. He uses the story of Noah to describe how this will happen. The world will be taken by surprise. As in Noah’s time, most people will be unaware of the impending disaster and only those who listened to God and believed will be saved. Jesus urges us to stay awake for we do not know when the end will come. The passage concludes with an image of a thief in the night to accent the unexpected nature of the second coming. Throughout history many have proclaimed that they know when the second coming will occur. These people use fear to support their interpretations of omens, monuments, secret codes in the Bible, that they claim to indicate when the world will end. The Gospel passage for this first Sunday of Advent seems to contradict this. No one knows when the end will come. While we wait in hope for the second coming, we must stay awake. Paul tells us that we must turn away from the darkness of sin and walk in the light. Isaiah prophesied that in the end people from every nation will be drawn to God. If we want to be among these people, we need be attentive to the voice of God in our lives. We must focus more on the role God plays in our lives today than trying to decipher a specific date when the world will end. Salvation comes from our relationship with Jesus not our knowledge of the future.

First Sunday of Advent Year A

The Son of Man will come at an hour you do not expect. Good stewards know that they are accountable to God for all they have and are, and they strive to live in readiness for His coming

First Sunday of Advent

The first candle on the Advent wreath represents Hope. The first Sunday of Advent not only leads us to anticipate the birth of Christ, but also to celebrate the beginning of a new liturgical season as well. Purple is the primary color of Advent and a color symbolizing royalty. Sometimes call the “The Prophecy Candle”. The first candle harkens us back to Isaiah’s foretelling of the birth of Christ and the promises God gave us in the Old Testament that would be fulfilled by the birth of Jesus.

The Season of Advent

Both Lent and Advent are seasons of waiting, preparation, and penance. During Lent, we await Christ’s return from 40 days in the desert, His loving sacrifice for us, and Resurrection. In Advent, we prepare for His birth. The birth and resurrection of Christ are intertwined, and their connection is quite significant theologically. Yet, these seasons of waiting look different for us –

Advent is a uniquely joyous and hopeful season in the Church.

We light candles amidst the darkness. We find warmth in the cold, dark winter season. And we come together as friends and family to celebrate the coming of our Savior.

Advent is also the beginning of a new liturgical year. (This Advent season marks the start of Year A)

We begin the year anew, renewed by His birth.

Advent is a season of preparation, repentance, and regality. The color purple liturgically represents these spiritual themes for both seasons.

While they share the same liturgical color and many thematic similarities, our prayers and intentions vary in Lent and Advent. In Lent, we focus our meditation on the suffering of Christ’s 40 days in the desert leading up to His crucifixion and sacrifice of Love for us. In Advent, purple adorns churches as we await the coming of the true King.

Sacred Heart Annual Christmas Party
