

Dr. Allison Ottenbacher

Dr. Ottenbacher received her PhD in Epidemiology from the University of Texas Health Science Center at Houston and has expertise in research methodology, data analysis, and project management. She has made contributions and led teams within consulting, academia, healthcare, and big pharma. Dr. Ottenbacher is passionate about advancing research within the CIRS community and beyond. She is motivated by her own personal experience with CIRS and has hope that the next generation will be better equipped to identify and treat this syndrome.