

JOY F. JOHNSON, M.ED, M.S., BCBA, IBA

ABOUT JOY F. JOHNSON

Joy is an Autistic advocate, behavior analyst, clinical director, and adjunct professor. Joy personally experienced the harms of ableism, racism, and flawed social validity related to her own intersectional identities within ABA, educational systems, and society-wide. Joy’s own experiences have shaped the fervor of her advocacy and professional efforts. She is committed to identifying and helping to eradicate ableism and racism directed towards Autistic community members in therapeutic settings and beyond. Her overall mission being to assist in ensuring Autistic community members are being comprehensively accommodated, accepted, and supported in navigating the world without compromise of their Autistic identity.

FEATURED IN /COLLABORATIONS

16k joyfjohnson

JOY F. JOHNSON, M.ED, M.S., BCBA

FEATURED IN/ON

RUTGERS

Graduate School of Applied and Professional Psychology

Washington FAMILY

FORTUNE

Kahoot!

Teachers Pay Teachers

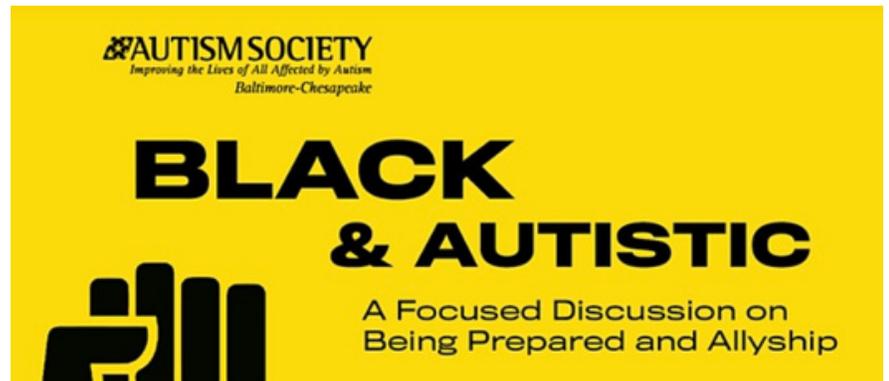

Hear Her Speak

JOY F. JOHNSON, M.ED, M.S., BCBA

PANELS, & BOARDS

Sesame Street and Autism: See Amazing in All Children Advisory

Racial Justice in Special Education: A Panel Discussion

JOY F. JOHNSON, M.ED, M.S., BCBA

CONFERENCES / CEU EVENTS

Vanderbilt Association for Behavior Analysis

Applied Behaviour
Analysis Ireland

Contingent Electric Skin Shock
How sloppy science has lead to abhorrent ethics

TEMPLE UNIVERSITY
SCHOOL PSYCHOLOGY, COUNSELING PSYCHOLOGY
AND ABA VIRTUAL CONFERENCE