"I am a freelance artist and illustrator with a fondness for animals, cooking, exploring, and good design. I design jewelry concepts, art for dinnerware, textile illustration for everything from home goods to fashion, editorial illustrations for magazines and the web, character design, and occasionally I like to do tattoo designs, children's book illustrations and poster art. My mission as an artist is to use my creativity and vision to bring beauty and unity into the world and make it a better place to live for all."

Lenox . Production Designer and Illustrator

I create digital versions of decal patterns using traditional techniques that are used in the process for the making of fine china and dinnerware, figurines, metals, ornaments, basic ceramics, and jewelry. I work with a group of production designers, creative directors, and copywriters to ensure each project is original and stays true to the Lenox brand. I also prep mock-up boards for project proposals and presentations for vendors that sell all products associated with the Lenox brand, as well as assist in the production and creation of products and dinnerware collections. I also design and collaborate on designs for trivets, ornaments, figurines, illustrations for fine and casual dinnerware collections, illustrating jewelry design concepts, and patterns for other various home items.

Designs I've done though Lenox can be found on products sold in places such as:

Lenox Store and online, Lenox Catalog, Kate Spade, Dansk, Gorham, Reed and Barton, Kathy Ireland, QVC, Target, Macy's, JCPenny's, Boscov's, Anthropology, Bed Bath & Beyond, and Bloomingdales.

Designed Pope Francis' Bowl Gift from the city of Philadelphia for his visit for the World Meeting of Families September 2015. Also designed the plate, teacup and ornament Lenox sold as merchandise for the event.

Designed 14th Dalai Lama's Gift from the city of Philadelphia for his visit to receive The Liberty Award October 2015.

Collaborated on projects through Lenox for The White House and for Sara Ferguson Duchess of York's personal line of dinnerware and home accessories.
