

Gavin Moughan

Gavin Moughan is a native New Mexican and 18-year veteran of the film industry. He began his career in 2005 working as an Art Director on an independent student project while he was taking film classes at the University of New Mexico and Central New Mexico Community College. Since then Gavin has been involved in over 45 productions and has consistently increased his roles, responsibilities and skill level, and is a prominent member of the local IATSE 480. Most notably, he has worked on Stranger Things, Outer Range, Echo 3, Breaking Bad, Wolverine, Independence Day, Rattlesnake, Briarpatch, and Better Call Saul all with multi-million dollar budgets. Gavin has directed three independent short-film projects and one commercial. Gavin is continually finding ways to expand his knowledge base and experience within the film industry. He has recently acquired a production warehouse in order to continue growing his production company into a self-sustaining and independent film studio based out of Albuquerque, NM.
