Fall Into Learning: New Partner, Webinars, and Resources!

Welcome to the Fall edition of the Adult Learning Exchange Virtual Community Newsletter! As we move into a season of reflection and renewal, we are excited to introduce our new consulting partner, Dr. Fatima A. Martin.

This season also brings a rich lineup of fall webinars designed to support your professional development and research journey. From navigating methodologies and unlocking quantitative and qualitative research tools to exploring AI's human-centered dimensions and reframing digital literacy for older adults, our webinars provide timely opportunities for learning and engagement.

Alongside these live sessions, don't forget to explore our blog series. Each forum is packed with resources, reflections, and practical strategies for today's educators, researchers, and lifelong learners.

New Consulting Partner

Dr. Fatima A. Martin brings a unique blend of expertise in social psychology, data science, and program evaluation.

data science, and program evaluation.

With her strong background in quantitative research design and practical experience across higher education, business, and life sciences, she will enhance our ability to deliver data-driven insights for teaching, learning, and organizational growth.
