

Dear DRB Community,

Dakota River Bend has officially closed as we take the time to reevaluate the scope and direction of the server and the DRB brand. This decision was not made lightly, but it provides us with an opportunity to refocus our efforts and explore new ways to bring a unique and different experience to the platform.

From the very beginning, our goal with DRB was to create something different—a project that would not only offer a fresh perspective but also help grow the RedM platform by attracting new players who might not have considered it before. We always aimed to innovate, crafting an experience that stood apart from others and brought something truly special to the community. Our new ideas will continue in this tradition, building something that is unlike other servers and offering a unique experience that players can truly enjoy.

In the coming months, we will be strategizing how to reimagine these experience. Our goal is to deliver a fresh perspective with DRB innovations and feature-rich content, creating a server that is more geared toward friends and gameplay, and less toward rules and moderation. We aim to craft an environment that encourages creativity, collaboration, and fun without unnecessary complexity.

This shift allows us to reflect on what made Dakota River Bend so special: the friendships formed, the stories shared, and the memories created. These have always been the heart of our project, and they will continue to guide us as we plan for the future. We remain committed to building a community where players feel welcome and inspired.

Thank you for your support, understanding, and the memories we've shared together in Dakota River Bend. While this chapter has come to an end, we are excited for what the future holds and hope you will join us on this new journey when the time comes.

Best regards,
Chris Austin
