Inspired by her surroundings and interest, her art style never stays consistent as her art style can switch from watercolor to oil to digital. She enjoys anime, and gothic like art. The idea of darkness is very interesting to her and she feels like she connects to it on an emotional level.

The Venue: US Pavilion Venice Biennale

The guest will walk in one way that sends them to every room in the exhibition. They get as much time as they want to look at the artwork and make assumptions about what the meaning behind it is. In the background will play some beautiful music by famous Japanese composer Joe Hisaishi with a mix of songs from classical ballets such as Balanchine Jewels.

A Deal With the Reaper

This is probably my most detailed piece and it took two weeks of working on paper then switching to procreate to finish it. I'm very proud of the out come.

Fin.

Thank You.
