

RAP 1 1/12/21 How are you feeling?

ANNOYED

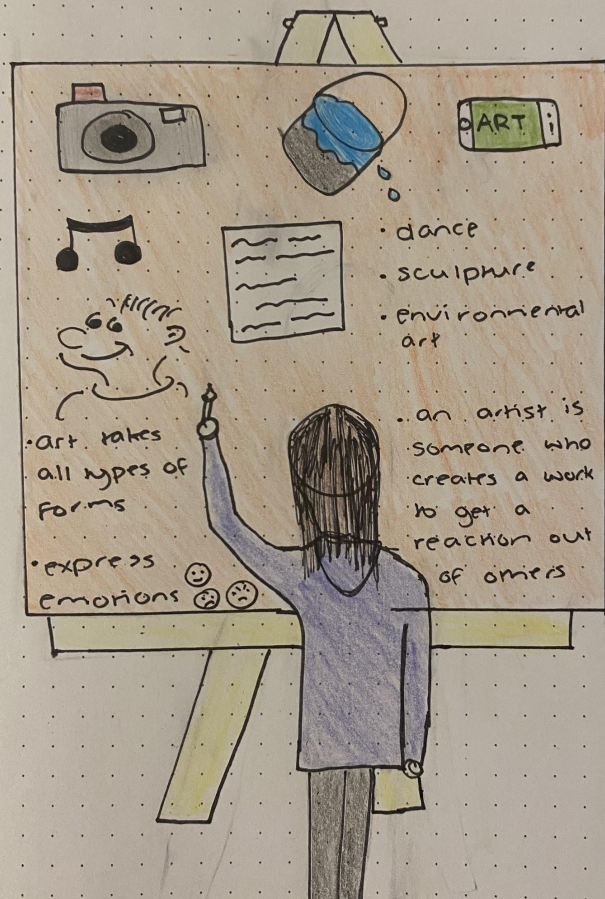

- Dayfriend has COVID
- School starting
- Riots @ capitol

ooo

RAP 2 What is an artist?

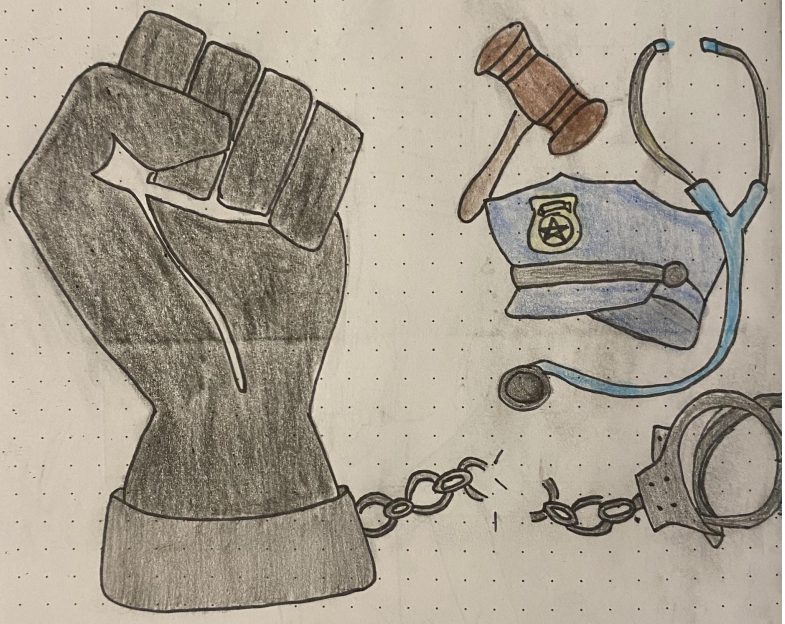

1/14/21

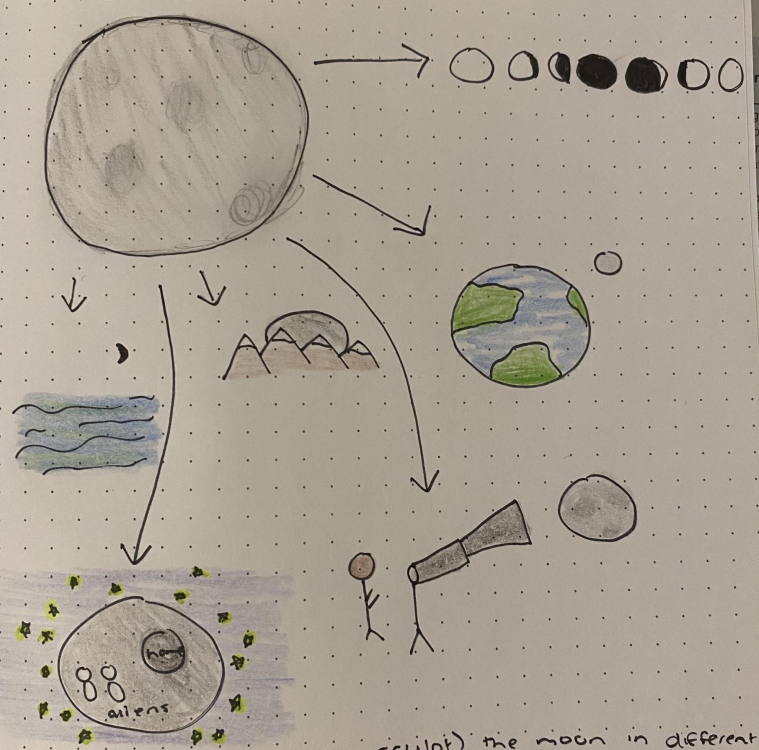

RAP 3 "Create history."

11/19/21

Hope to free black people of the systemic mistreatment they receive.
BLM.

RAP 5

*Plan to draw (possibly sculpt) the moon in different ways that we as teens see it today
*Based off Luke Jerram's installation art of the moon in different cultures

RAP 6

What should I draw???

Hmmm...

I CAN'T THINK OF ANYTHING.

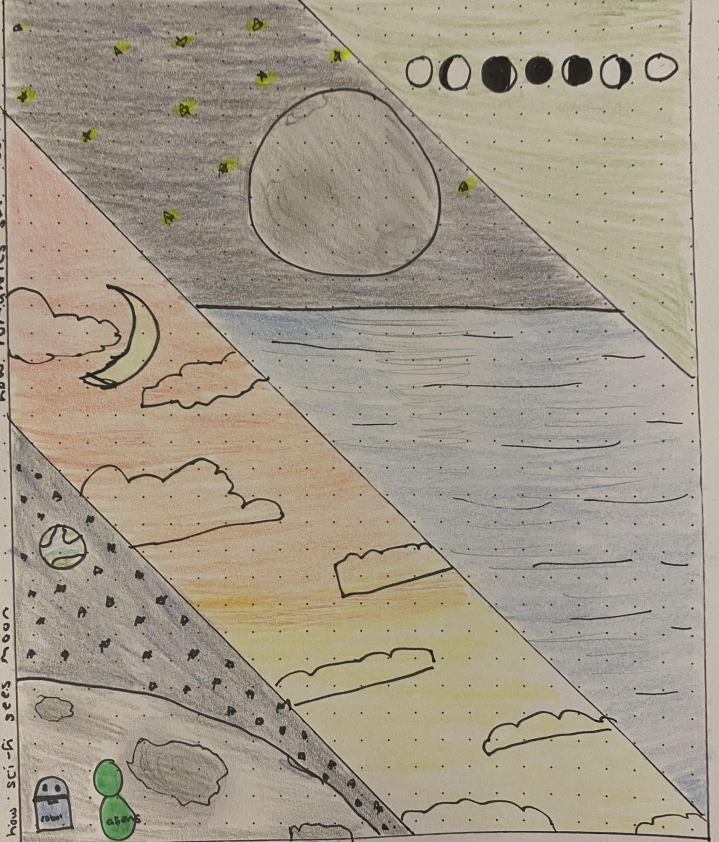

AHA!!!

RAP 7

how we typically see moon

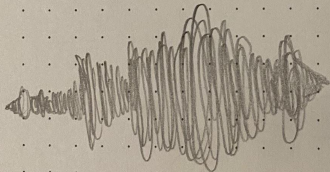

how science sees moon

paint on canvas

RAP 8

Even though Luke Jerram's works are very large, they're incredibly detailed. All his works appear textured, even the ones that are just light projections. For instance, his images of the moon show craters and colors that we normally don't see from so far away. His works are also strategically placed to get the most attraction. For instance, in his COVID installation work, large flags are placed so that people choose to walk up to them. Even though the whole image can only be seen from a sky view, he forces people to interact with the art. It's clear that his goal is to call attention to aspects of life that others typically ignore or take for granted.

Sketch for reference:
sculpture meant to accompany Japanese earthquakes; very textured + clean

RAP 9

I don't really think there's such a thing as fake artists. This is because we give celebrities their fame. We are the ones who either praise them or criticize them so much that everyone knows who they are. Even if they didn't create original art, they're still realistically famous and did recreate some art. I feel like an artist is only ever "fake" if they try to pass off original works as their own, but that's it. I think new apps circulating the media make it so easy for anyone or anything to be considered art.

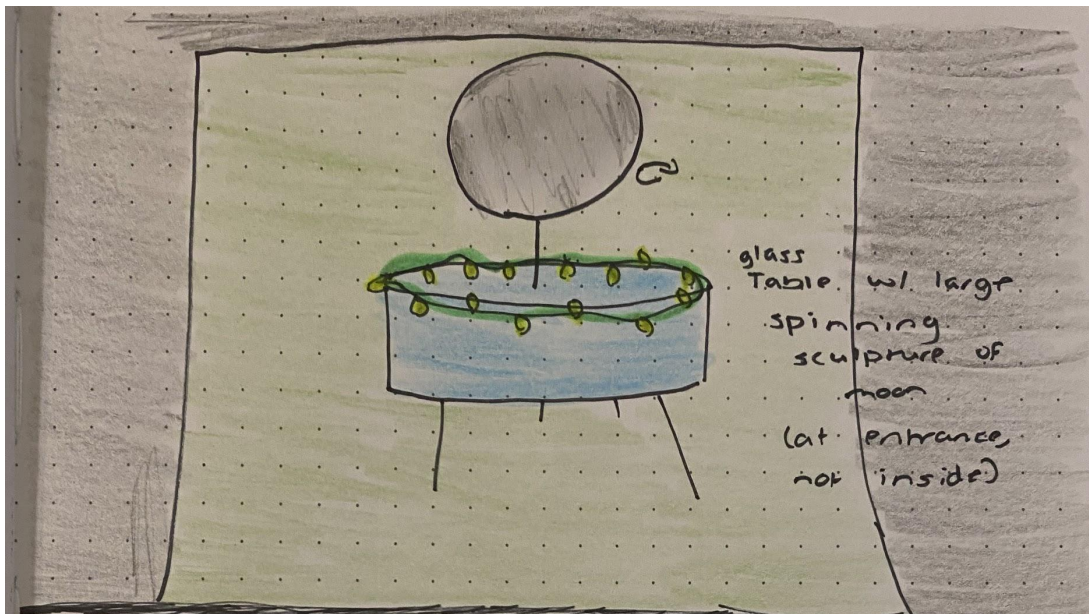

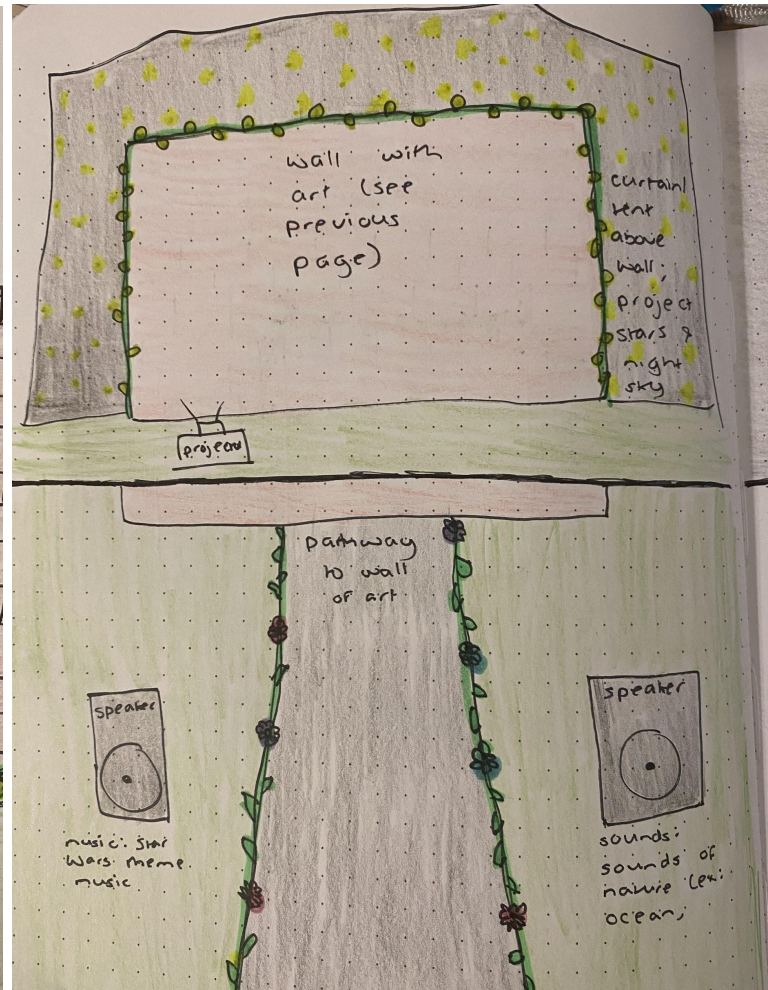

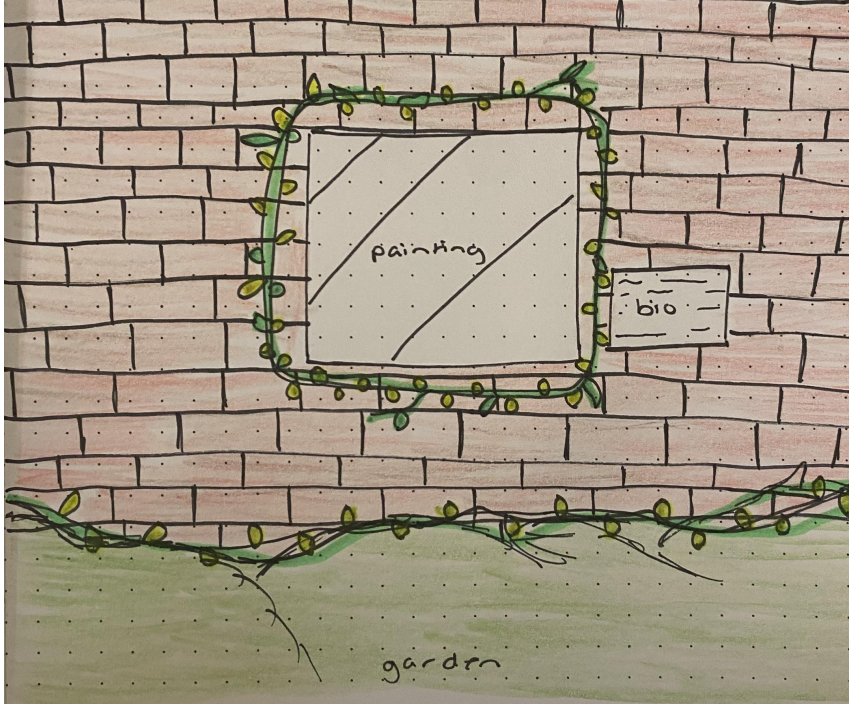

examples of apps

RAP 10

Against brick wall so there's contrast lights to highlight brightness of the moon
in garden leaves to highlight nature of the moon

RAP 11

I'm very bad at drawing hands, so I wanted to practice it.

RAP 12

RAP 16

RAP 17

Bunch of Rubix Cubes aligned to form a heart; shows one can be practical & orderly but still find love

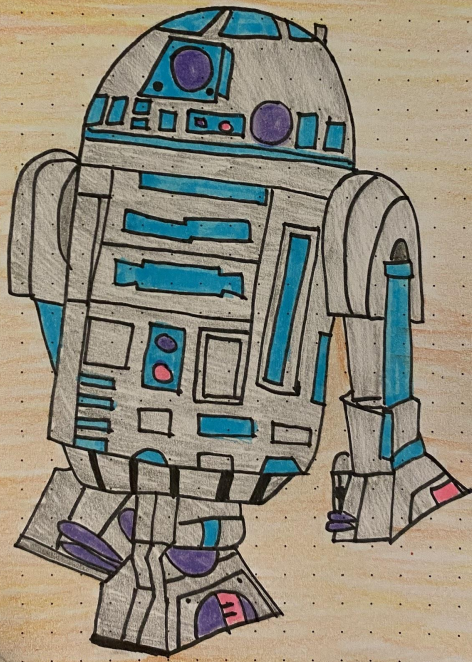

RAP 18

R2-D5

Function: Explore other planets.

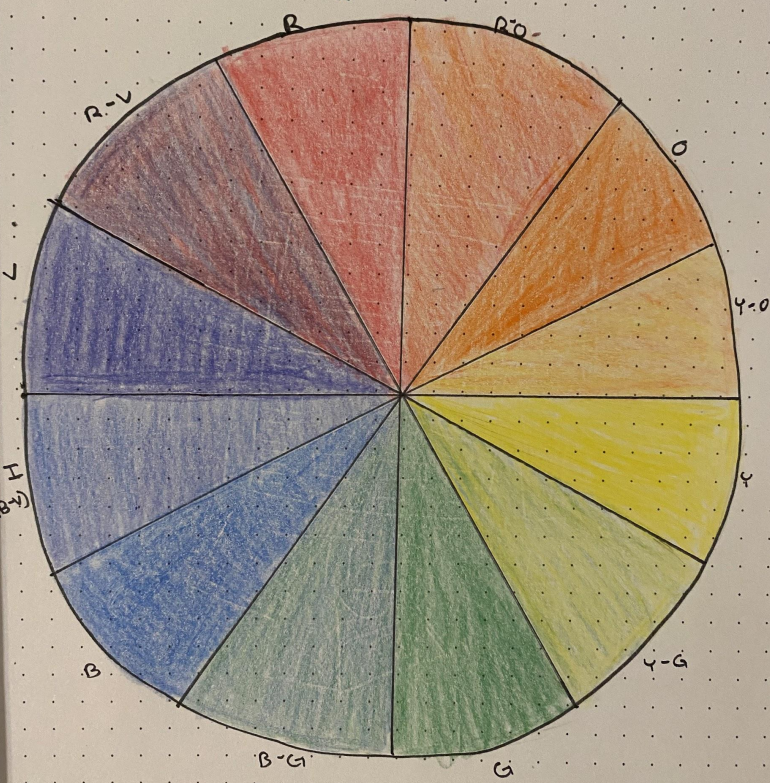

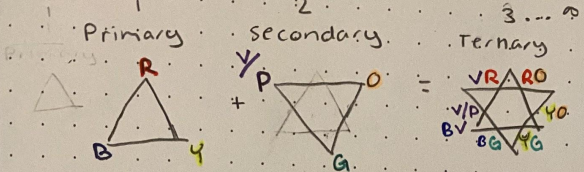

RAP 19

* I just think everyone would be happier if everything was vibrant.. No browns, beige, gray, white, etc..
* All the driveways are the same color b/c everyone is equally important / beautiful.

RAP 20

RAP 21

RAP 22

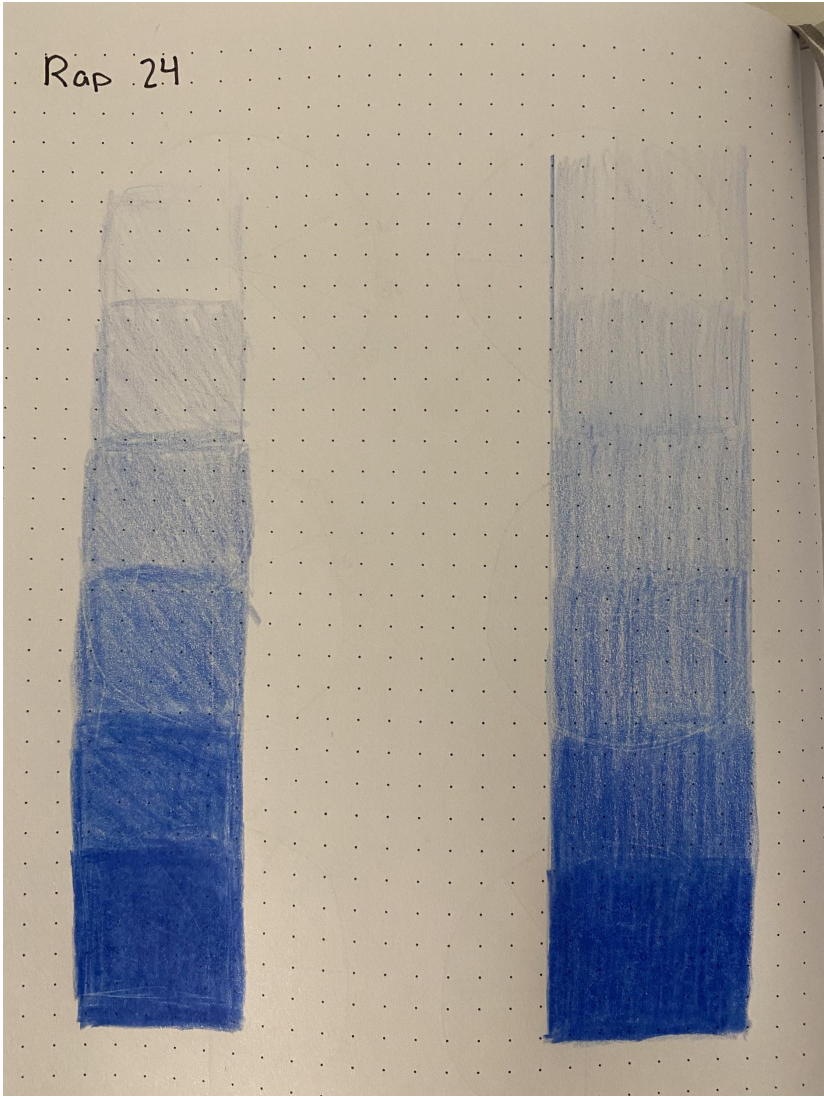

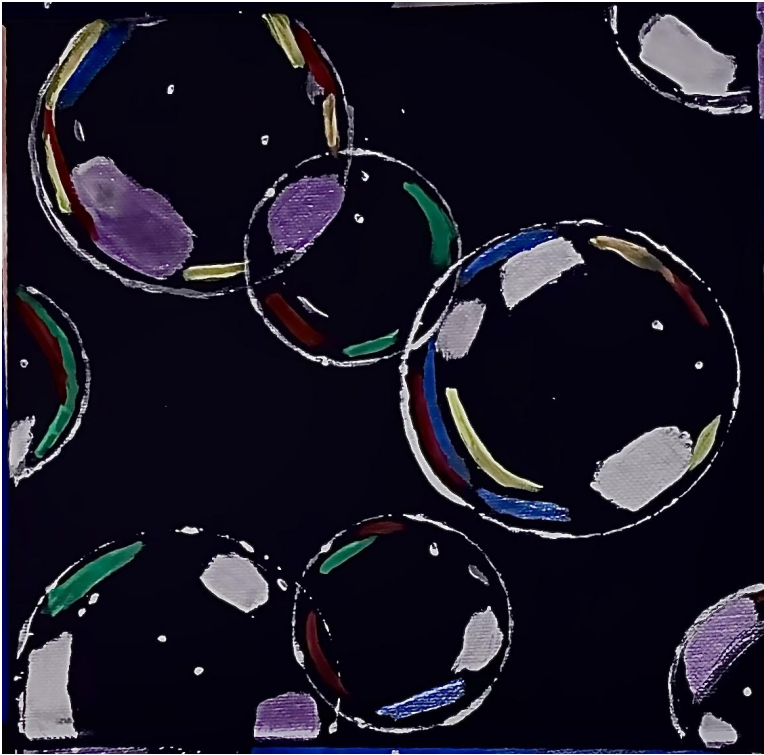

RAP 23

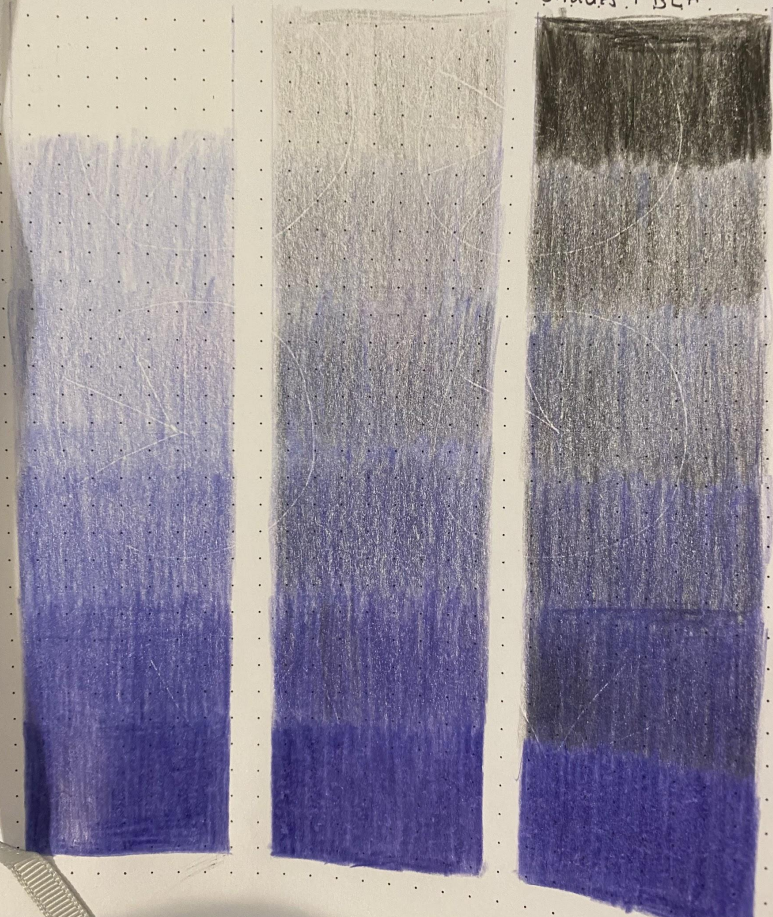

Rap 25

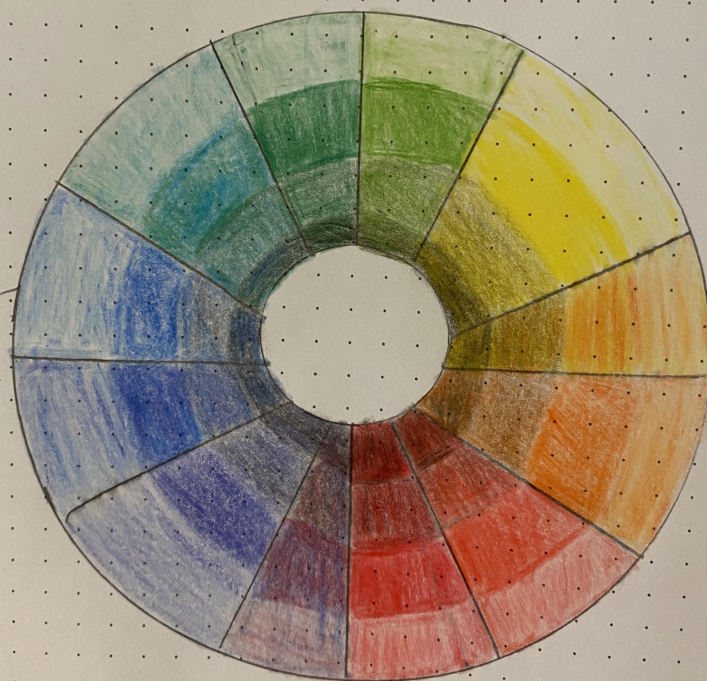

Tints + WH

Tones + GR

Shades + BLK

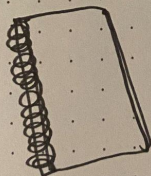

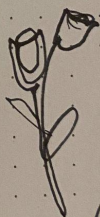

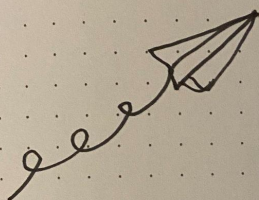

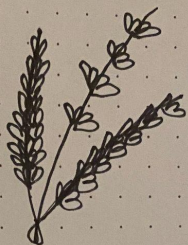

Rap 26

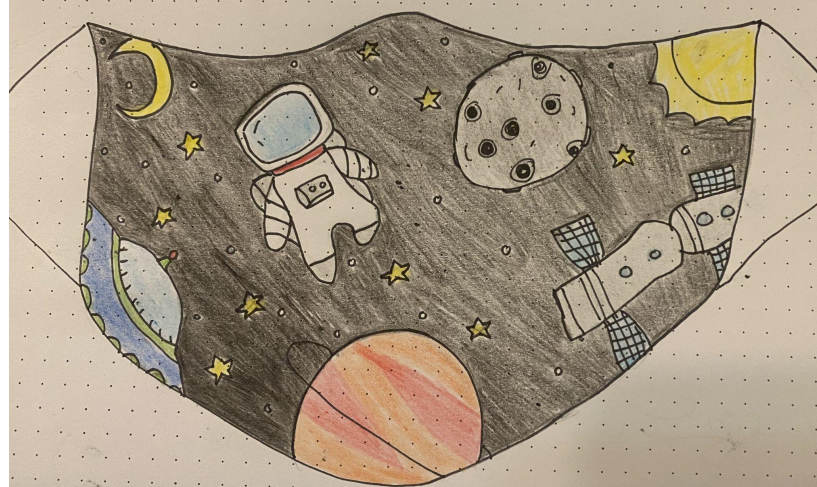

Rap. 27

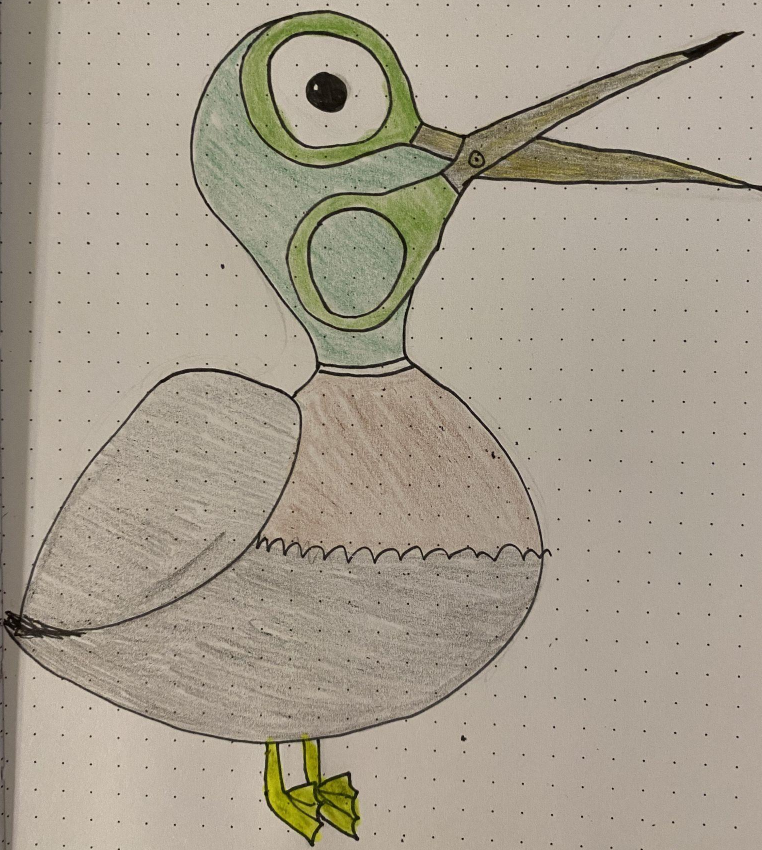

Rap. 28

Rap. 29

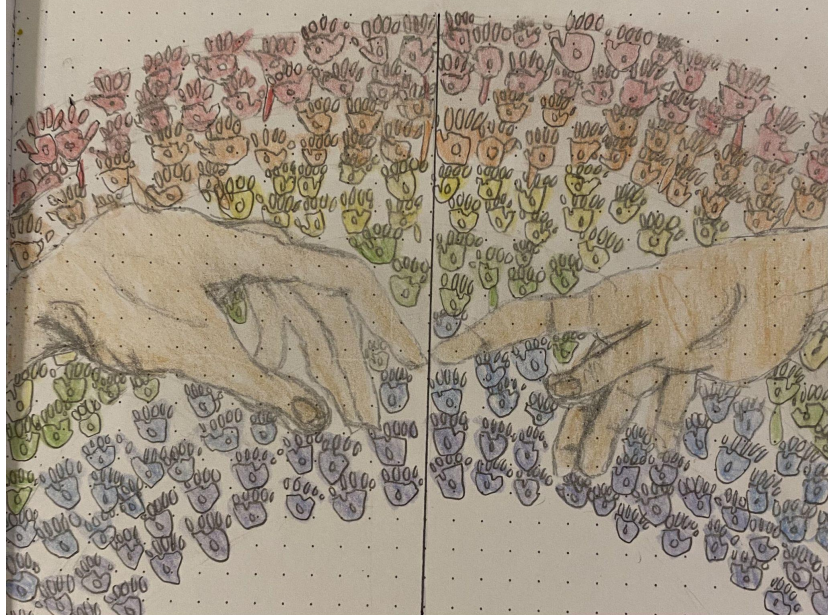

Rap. 30

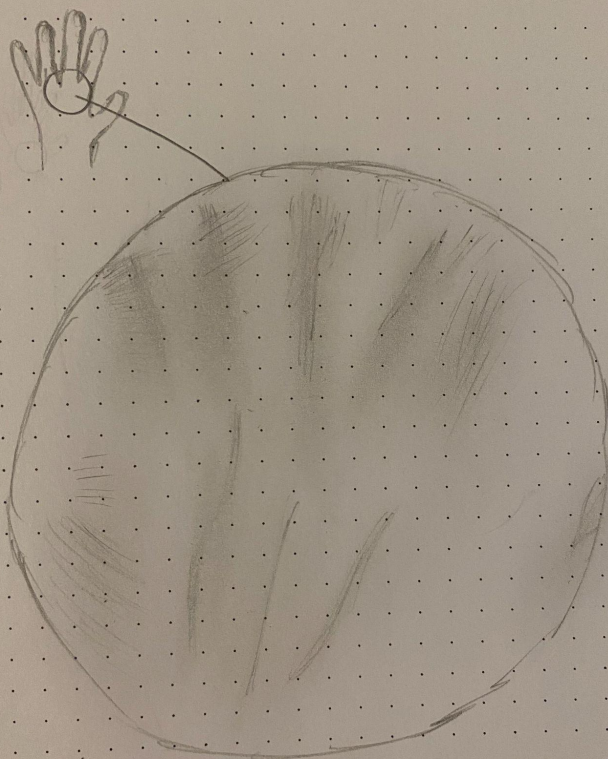

Rap. 31

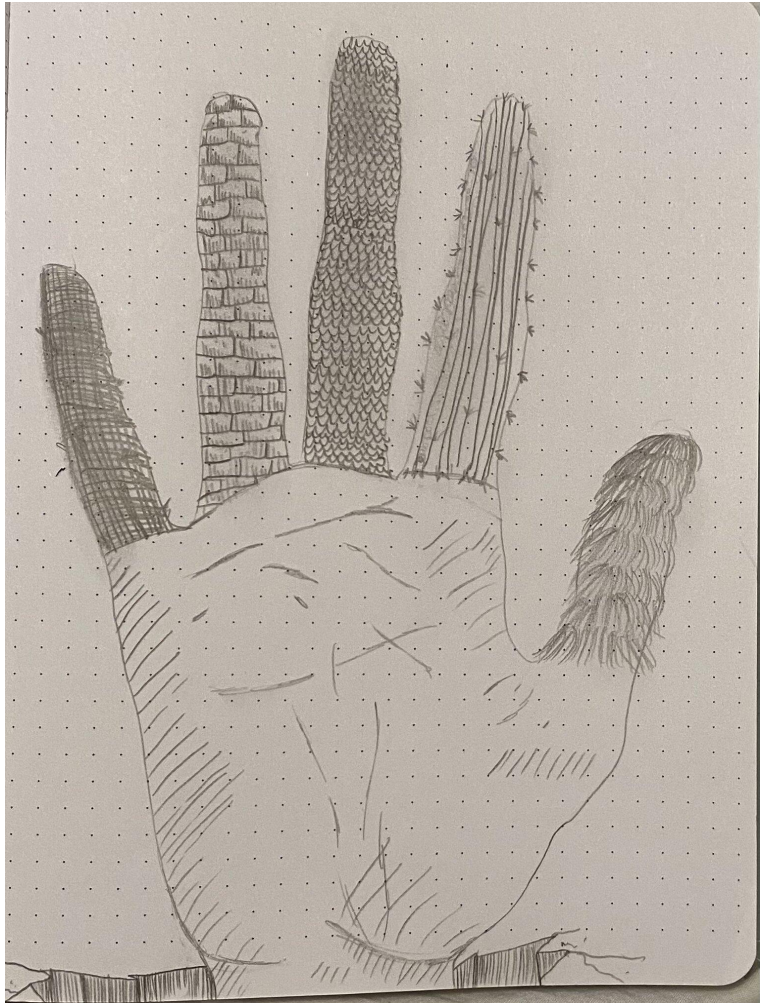

Rap. 31

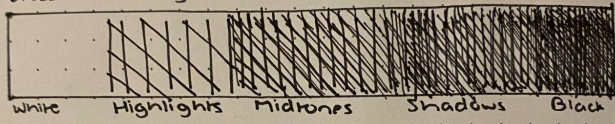

RAP 32

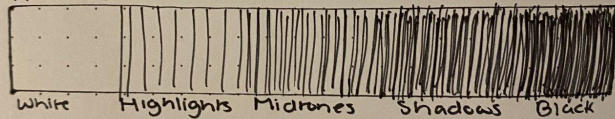

Rep 33

Cross-hatching

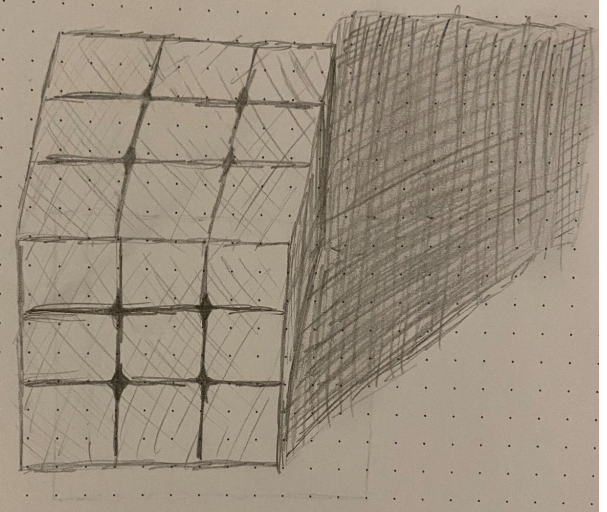

white highlights midtones shadows black

Hatching

white highlights midtones shadows black

light