Our Mission

Bring Judaism to life, unite the nation, and plant the seeds for our future Temple through education, design, and technology.

Our Team

We're a small team of Jewish activists, community organizers, technologists, rabbis, and investors from the largest technology, non-profit, and religious organizations today.

The Future of Nation-states

The mission of the Jewish people is to be a holy nation and a kingdom of priests. But today, the Jewish people are scattered, fragmented, and at risk of assimilation while the state of Israel, despite its many accomplishments, makes arms deals with countries involved in war crimes, is afraid to speak truth to power, and is seemingly confused about its purpose of being.

Technology is changing the landscape of what it means to be a citizen and a government. Technology companies are creating their own currencies and are becoming as powerful as nation-states - even influencing elections. The idea of true sovereignty is becoming a reality through modern technologies.

We're on a mission to leverage these changes in the world bring about the fulfillment of our people's historic dreams, build and holy nation, and bring down the Temple from the Cloud.

It start and ends with the Temple

At the core of the Jewish nation, the Israeli conflict, and Jewish practice as outlined in every prayer, wedding ceremony, Kaddish, and in the Torah of the ages, is our Holy Temple.

The temple serves as the seat of governance, council, personal accountability, and national decision making. Without the Temple, we aren't able to properly function as a people. Today, we only have the mini-temple in our hearts and in local synagogues. But as our sages teach, when we build our inner Temple, the physical one will be brought down from the clouds.

We intend to build the Temple in the cloud.

Building a truly Jewish homeland.

We're told of a time when our ancient homeland was ruled by prophets & holy men. When we were a nation driven by the pursuit of justice and righteousness lead by a government of those worthy to lead.

Synopsis

Showing gratitude for our privilege to be in the house of Hashem and to serve Him alone. A poem by our King David: Each day I give praise, honor, and recognition to our Source who sustains us through each generation. He is absolute Kindness, Knowledge, Justice. His kingship is the ultimate kingdom, He makes himself close to those who serve and love Him.

Take accountability for your actions in the world.

In ancient times, we understood the inherent need to give from what we've earned to allow ourselves to transcend our selfish ego. Aside from holding ourselves morally accountable, this process allows one to experience transcendence & feel a holy presence.

our ancient tradition.

Companies like Apple have showed us the power of language and design. Just as Ezra did after the first exile, help us rekindle the flame of Judaism by bringing new language and style to our ancient practice. Paving the way for liberation.

How it works

aside from the education, networking, data, and tools to help us build this future, there are some core mechanisms we will be introducing to help people continue to grow into their best selves.

We need the whole people to be holy and our Torah has the method and process for how to do it.

Grow into your true self.

Our ancient system of governance predates religion in its modern form and originally served as a way to bind our national community and liberate the individual from their inborn or learned negative traits and allowing them to become enlightened and connected to our collective Source.

Unlock all the different parts of yourself and learn to overcome trauma, anxiety, laziness, dishonesty and other aspects preventing you from living your full life and being one with the presence of our Creator.

Payments, tithing, charity - built in.

Ultimately the goal Ahava is to create a just and righteous society. As King David said, “Why did you create rich and poor?” If not to allow us to overcome our selfishness and give to those in need with an open heart. The Temple opens our heart, but then we must learn to give. We will build tools to automate charity, ensure transparency, and incentivize giving.

Together we can create a better humanity, world, and perfect creation itself as partners and physical embodiments of the living G-d.
