

The National Organization of Black Women in Law Enforcement, Inc. would like to take this opportunity to recognize pioneers whose shoulders we stand on today. We celebrate the warriors, fighters, and courageous women who have helped shape our country to make it a fairer and more just society.

Women's History Month is a chance to pay tribute to ordinary women throughout the world and is rooted in women's centuries-old struggle to participate in society on an equal footing with men. This day reminds us that while enormous progress has been made, there is still work to be done before women achieve true parity.

We celebrate our mothers, sisters, aunts, and best friends who spent time nurturing and going without so that we may have. Fighting battles and overcoming obstacles too numerous to count, so our daughters may stand tall in the face of adversity. We pay homage to our big sisters and mentors who knocked down walls so that we could sit at the table and make decisions about promotions, bonuses, and assignments to break glass ceilings.

We celebrate each Trailblazer who has made history and has contributed to our success.

We salute Vice President Kamala Harris for being an inspiration for generations of African American females who will come after her, believing that they can achieve anything that their hearts desire.

We salute Angela Alsobrooks, the first woman to hold the position of County Executive for Prince George's County, Maryland.

We salute Cherelle Parker, the first Black female Mayor of Philadelphia, PA

We salute Danielle Outlaw, the first Black female Police Commissioner of the Philadelphia Police Department.

We salute Pamela Smith, the first Black female Police Chief of the Metropolitan Police Department, Washington, DC.

We salute Reneé Hall, former Dallas Police Chief and former Deputy Chief of the Detroit Police Department, she continues to be long-term public servant who is passionate about ensuring security and protection for all Americans equitably.

We salute Estella Thomas, a leader in the Law Enforcement community with over (30) years of police experience, who continues to be instrumental in bridging the gap between law enforcement agencies and the community we serve.

We salute Charlotte Council (Retired), the first Deputy Commissioner of the Philadelphia Police Department who made it her mission to serve and encourage the up-and-coming minority officers under her command.

We salute Harriet Farr (Retired) Philadelphia Police Department Training Academy Instructor, whose wisdom, education, and philosophies have left her mark for generations to remember for decades.

We salute educators in our community, such as Dr. Katherine Norris, Howard University Department Chair of Curriculum and Instruction. An author, teacher, and educator, who excels in the field of education, helping minorities excel in education.

We salute entrepreneurs who give back to the youth in our community, such as Allyson Jankowski, who instructs our babies and young ladies to excel and reach for the stars.

We salute Gina Bullock, an activist, educating the community on the importance of health and self-care. A New Jersey cyclist honored for her work in the community traveling from NY, NJ, and DC to as far as South Africa.

We salute Mariko Bennett, an entrepreneur, author, and community advocate. Founder & CEO of Coco B. Productions. A leadership coach inspiring others through personal growth and development.

We salute and celebrate each member of this organization who has helped with the nurturing, encouragement, uplifting, and mentoring at our workplaces and within our communities. We celebrate all the mothers, caregivers, supporters and of this organization, THANK YOU for your dedication, commitment and service.

NOBWLE CELEBRATES EACH OF YOU