The anti-aging ad that I'd like to see, is a baby covered in cream saying, "Ah! I've used too much!"

A man and his dog go to a movie. During the funny scenes the dog laughs. When there's a sad part, the dog cries. This goes on for the entire film: laughing and crying all the right places. After the show a man who was sitting in the row behind them comes up and says, "that was truly amazing!" "It sure was," the owner replies. "He hated the book."

Low on gas while on a vacation trip to Las Vegas, I pulled my van into a service station. As I was turning in, I spied lying on the ground, a gas cap that looked like it might replace my missing one. I hurriedly parked by the pump, jumped out of the van, ran over, and picked up the cap. I was pleasantly surprised to find that it screwed easily onto my tank. A perfect fit! And then I noticed the keyhole in the top of the cap!

The other day a manager sent me a form letting me know that one of his staff was no longer employed here. In the reason for separation field, he wrote, employee deceased." Under recommended for hire he wrote "yes."

Interviewing the young Swede

for a job as teller, the bank president is amazed with the skill the applicant exhibits and handling money.

"So," the president says, "where did you get your training?" "Yale," the fair-haired youth replied.

"I see and what did you say your name was?"

He answers, "Yackson."

And, what's the difference between a pigeon and an investment banker? The pigeon can still make a deposit on a BMW.

According to the order form, if I wanted a school photograph of my first -grader, there was one simple rule I had to adhere to; "Your child must be present at the time the picture is taken!"

During a company held

On his first ever trip to San Diego, the Scotsman paused by one of the cages. "Lord," he said, "and what animal is that then?" Overhearing him, the keeper said "That sir is a mouse." "A mouse!" he said. "And I suppose ye've got rats the size of elephants then?"

Rob and Tom apply

for the same job. They take a written test. "You both got the same number of questions wrong," the HR person tells them. "But rob gets the job." "If we both got the same number of questions wrong, how come he gets the job?" Tom asks indignantly. "Well," says the HR person, "One of his incorrect answers was better than yours." "Whoa, how can that be?" "For problem #46, rob wrote "I don't know." You wrote, "me neither."

 FOR THE DAY

A nurse friend of mine took a 104-year-old patient for a walk in the hospital corridor. When she got him back to his room, he set him down he took a deep breath and announced that was great! I don't feel a day over 100!"

Purely by coincidence, I ran into my husband in our local grocery store on Valentine's Day. Tom was carrying a beautiful pink Azalea, and I joked, "That better be for me." From behind, a woman's voice: "It is now."
