SOCIAL MEDIA
		N/A
I am confident that I can post all of the content that I have created regularly and consistently.				I know what I want to post but quite often don't have time to post regularly and find myself going a number of days without getting chance to post online.
I know how to harness Social Media and am confident that it is adding value to my Marketing Strategy. As a result, my brand engagement is steadily increasing.				I know that Social Media can help my brand and is an important part of my Marketing Strategy but I'm not sure exactly how to be effective.
I understand the pros and cons of different Social Media platforms and focus my attention on those that are going to have the most impact for me.				I want to share my brand across a number of Social Media platforms but I'm not sure which are most relevant.
I have built myself a set of templates that make posting quick and easy and make sure that my brand and messaging is always consistent.				I post regularly but it takes me a long time and I'm not sure that my messaging is consistent.
I make sure that I am using hashtags consistently and have taken care to ensure that they add value to my brand and can be found.				I know that using hashtags within my Social Media can help more people to see my posts but I don't know how to choose the right ones for me.

If you find yourself with more ticks on the right than the left, then we can help you.
