Housing Market Trends

Inventory growth weakens as new listing activity stalls. Sellers on the Maryland Eastern Shore haven't been active in 2026. Following lower new listings in January, listing activity in February plummeted compared to last year, down 30.5%.

With sellers holding back, there were just 863 active listings on the market at the end of the month. Inventory typically expands during the spring market. Yet as we enter March, active listings on the Maryland Eastern Shore dropped 3.5% from January to February and were only 5.5% above last year.

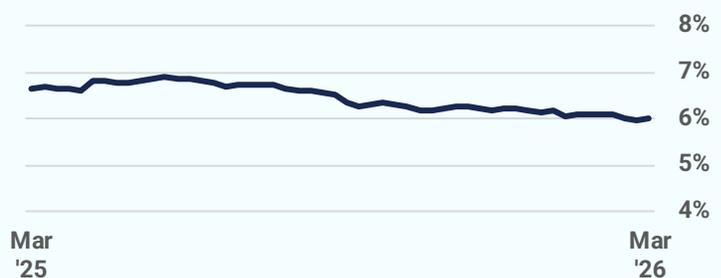

Buyers remain cautious but both closed sales (+2.3%) and new pending sales (+2.7%) were a bit higher in February 2026 than February 2025.

The median price was $399,950 which was a 9.3% year-over-year gain, the fastest appreciation in more than 12 months. Price growth is expected to moderate but if inventory tightens, there could be unexpected pressure.

Market Outlook

The Maryland Eastern Shore had a rough 2025 but early 2026 looks a little better. There are push and pull factors that will impact the spring market. Buyers will likely welcome the lower mortgage rates seen this year. However, fewer sellers in the market could reverse the move toward balance and lead to a restricted supply and increased competition.
