Dedications

I would like to dedicate this book to the loving memory of my father, Durvasula Venkata Sastry, who was my inspiration, my mentor, and my guide. His pioneering work in the Indian American community is as legendary as his involvement in founding, building, and running the iconic Shiva-Vishnu Hindu Temple in Livermore, California.

I also thank his brother Durvasula Chanti, and the memory of his father, Durvasula Venkata Subbarao, for inspiring my political activism in both the United States and India.

I would also like to dedicate this book to my father's brothers, Vedantam Durvasula and Prasad Durvasula, who guided me intellectually and spiritually, respectively.

I would also like to thank my mother's large family for all the support they have provided over the decades, both in the USA and in India. This includes the loving memory of my maternal grandfather, Krovi Balakrishnarao, and a special acknowledgment of my mother's siblings, Kama Kolluri and Badari Narayana Krovi, who nurtured and supported me throughout my childhood and served devotedly as my mother's assistants and right hand.

I must also honor the towering patriarch of our family — the proverbial eight-hundred-pound gorilla — my great-grandfather, Hota Veerabhadra Rao, the Zamindar. He spawned a glorious lineage that has given me hundreds of extraordinarily accomplished grandparents, aunts, uncles, and cousins — a family that, quite literally, helps run the world.

This book would not be complete without thanking all of my friends, both male and female, who have been doing God's work over the decades with extreme patience and without complaint.

Foreword

May 20, 2007 — Kakinada, Andhra Pradesh, India

We will explain part of the mystery of God sometimes in the first person, as the Mystery of God is a mystery that can be solved by only one person: the "Lion from the Tribe of Judah with the key to the Scroll." Thus, the entirety of what I narrate or explain cannot be found in any other reference source, nor confirmed by any theologian or priest of any religion, including the greatest Vedic pundits. Parts of the mystery can be confirmed or referenced by other sources, but the mystery is designed to confuse, distract, and lead astray all those who are not in possession of the key to the scroll.

Throughout modern history, various secret societies and the intelligence agencies descended from them have been sharing secrets about — and keeping watch for — the next incarnation of God: the Kalki Avatar, the Second Coming of Christ, the Son of Man, and the Lamb. They have also looked for a possible Prophet Elijah, the "child who rules the nations with an iron scepter," and the "Lion from the Tribe of Judah" with the "key to the Scroll," or "mystery of God."

The secret societies that emanated from the Vatican, in Vatican City near Rome, and from around the Mediterranean (beginning with the Council of Nicaea) — together with others later tied to Britain or the British East India Company — have been the most prominent and active in this regard. They have indirectly or directly founded, influenced, and in some cases completely infiltrated intelligence agencies, and even law-enforcement and military agencies, especially in the United States of America and some other large nations.

These groups have analyzed the Book of Revelation in the New Testament (the Judeo-Christian Bible); the Vishnu Purana, Padma Purana, and Kalki Purana of the Hindu faith; and the prophecies regarding the coming of a Messiah in the Old Testament. This study has also led them to examine various prophecies in Buddhism regarding the coming of the Maitreya, and in Islam regarding Judgment Day and the coming of Imam Mahdi. The Hindu Puranas are the oldest of these prophecies and revelations, and the Biblical Revelation is the most relevant and the nearest in time to modern Western societies. The Hindu and Christian revelations and prophecies are the most expansive, detailed, and applicable to modern times.

The British were in a prime position to understand the similarities between the Biblical Revelation and its predecessors, the Hindu Puranas. As the British conquered much of India, they learned that Gautama Buddha had recited the Kalachakra Tantra in Andhra Pradesh, India. This recital explained the cyclical nature of life on Earth and of various societies, and held that everything has been done before and that nearly every person has lived at least once — sometimes more than once — as the world was destroyed over and over again by floods and natural disasters, possibly burying lost civilizations. It is believed that the British also retrieved historical evidence that Buddha pointed to the coming of the next Maitreya — the avatar of God and savior of the world — in a place called Shambala, in Andhra Pradesh, India.

While ruling India, the British also came across the Nadi Shastra leaves. These leaves contain the life histories (past, present, and future) of nearly every person on Earth. They were considered to be a "Book of Life," like the "Lamb's Book of Life," and were confiscated by the British. Various Rishis (learned sages and wise men) wrote them several thousand years ago, and they describe the conversations between Lord Shiva and his wife, Goddess Parvathi. These leaves were found in Tamil Nadu and Andhra Pradesh as part of the collections of various Hindu dynasties. During this same period, Governor Elihu Yale — the future founder of Yale University — was Governor General of the Madras Province, which is now divided into the states of Tamil Nadu and Andhra Pradesh. These leaves were copied, and many were confiscated and shared with secret societies. It is believed that, through these leaves, the secret societies were able to predict the futures of several world leaders, as well as the birthplace and birth family of the next coming of God, or the Lamb — the Kalki Avatar.

As I begin first-person narration, I am sure that some of you already know that my family — including my grandfather, Durvasula Venkata Subba Rao; my father, Durvasula Venkata Sastry; my uncle, Durvasula Satyanarayana Murthy (alias Chanti); and I — has been under the surveillance of secret societies and intelligence agencies throughout our lives. For a variety of reasons — including the Nadi Shastra leaves, the fact that Hinduism is the world's oldest organized religion, Buddha's dissertations, and the similarity between the Hindu prophecy of a rider on a white horse and the Christian Revelation's rider on a white horse — the agencies targeted the Durvasula family of Jeggarpadu and Peddapuram, in the East Godavari District of Andhra Pradesh, India. Another contributing reason is the prominent role of Durvasa Maharishi as the most prominent and eminent Brahmin in the great Hindu epic, the Mahabharata. Durvasa Maharishi, or Mahamuni, is the de facto father of Dharmaraju, Arjuna, and Bheema — the three most famous brothers in the Pandava family of the Mahabharata.

D. V. Subba Rao lost both parents at the age of 16 and had several older and younger sisters. He was approached by agents of intelligence agencies and secret societies while he was in college in Madras at Presidency College, and again while he was in law school at Pune University. They stayed in touch with him throughout his life — especially while he was in jail as a political prisoner and freedom fighter at the hands of the British, and during various international peace conferences in Geneva, Switzerland, and in other nations such as Russia and China.

The agents noticed that he could read any type of book — including Shakespeare, Milton, Nietzsche, Emerson, Thoreau, and even law textbooks — in a matter of minutes, or sometimes an hour, complete with notes and underlining. They astutely concluded that he could be the "Lion from the Tribe of Judah" with the "key to the scroll," as well as the Kalki Avatar and the "Son of Man," or "Lamb," or both. They asked him to read all religious texts and reconcile them, so as to understand the scroll and how they all converge into one religion, one leader, and one savior. They were hoping that Subba Rao was not the Lamb or God, and that this person or being would instead be of Christian or Western descent.

As they continued to observe Subba Rao's intellectual and oratorical brilliance, his meteoric rise as a freedom fighter, politician, and acclaimed criminal lawyer, and his physical and mental toughness and fearlessness, the agencies began to wonder whether he was indeed the Son of Man and the Lamb (though his wedding was not a grand affair), the Kalki Avatar, and the Lion from the Tribe of Judah. In fact, he began to gain a "Mafia Don"-type reputation throughout India and abroad, sending shivers through the corridors of power. His ability to annihilate his enemies gave credence to the notion that he was the Son of Man, or a "Lion," or a "Beast." However, at six feet four inches tall with an intimidating physique, he did not meet Jesus Christ's description of the Son of Man as "lower than his angels"; and though he "roared like a lion" and seemed to tread the "winepress of the fury of the wrath" of Lord God Almighty, he was not a drinker of alcohol. Though he was famous for his large appetite, no person ever dared call him "a glutton and a drunkard."

Thus, the world's agencies began toying with the idea that he was Elijah — since his own father had passed away — and that he might or might not be the Kalki Avatar and Lamb, but was definitely part of the Mystery of God. As the agencies began to introduce him to world leaders and officials, he simultaneously engaged in his own activities: to win freedom for India under British rule, and to destabilize the British Kingdom in Ireland and across the West by supporting or enabling Communism in China, Russia, and Cuba. In fact, he used to advise and brief the leaders of these various nations regarding his activities and his interpretation of the Kalki Purana, which stated that the Kalki Avatar must remove iniquity and injustice from the Earth and also engage in various wars and battles. He thus even approved of World War II, the Korean War, and the Vietnam War, as these led to the deaths of many meat-eaters and Buddhists, as outlined in the Kalki Purana and Vishnu Purana.

The agencies also let D. V. Subba Rao take over part of the British East India Company's international trading and banking operations. They told him that the money from these international operations — now in the many trillions of U.S. dollars — should be awarded to Lord God Almighty, the Lamb, and God at the time of the Kingdom of God. He agreed that this sounded like a correct interpretation of the scriptures, as the Lord is entitled to receive "wisdom, strength, wealth, and power," according to the Bible.

However, it was around this time — after the 1958 Geneva Peace and Disarmament Conference, where Subba Rao was the star participant, and during his subsequent trips to Russia and China — that he befriended and mentored a young Fidel Castro and a young V. V. Giri, who was his jail mate, a future President of India, and the man sent to Ireland to begin the labor agitation that became the Sinn Féin movement. The agencies were looking for ways to limit Subba Rao's growth as an Indian politician at this time, as he had been elected to the Andhra Pradesh State Assembly as a Communist and was now contemplating a run for the Parliament of India. He also mentored Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., who befriended Subba Rao during his visits to India to study the Indian freedom struggle and, on the advice of secret groups, to meet with the now internationally legendary D. V. Subba Rao.

Subba Rao correctly interpreted the scriptures and told the agencies that he, too, doubted he was the Son of Man as described by Jesus, since he was neither short nor a drunkard. He explained that, in the Bible, it states that the "mother who gave birth to the child who rules the nations with an iron scepter" takes the two wings of a great eagle. Most analysts believed that this meant the United States of America and its symbol, the bald eagle. Subba Rao deduced that both of his sons, Sastry and Satyanarayana Murthy (a.k.a. Chanti), were destined to be shorter than he was and might drink alcohol in the future. He also encouraged Sastry to become an aeronautical engineer or an Air Force enlistee, reasoning that this would allow him to fly often on a "white horse" (an airplane). He then sent Sastry — my father — to the United States in 1961, to San Francisco, the "City on Seven Hills," where the Charter of the United Nations was signed in 1945. My grandfather, D. V. Subba Rao, had himself attended the League of Nations in Geneva, Switzerland — the body that preceded the United Nations — yet he never once set foot in America; it was my father, and later I, who would make our name in the United States. Sastry traveled on a program initiated as an exchange of young minds by President John F. Kennedy and Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru. Subba Rao felt that the mother who gave birth to the child was not his own mother or his wife, but Goddess Durga, or Goddess Kali of the Kali Yuga (the present period) — both consorts of Lord Shiva. He felt that if his son went to the USA, then perhaps Kali (Mother Earth) would now take the two wings of a great eagle.

D. V. Subba Rao began to feel that, because of his fearlessness, knowledge, and abilities, he was not Lord Vishnu or the Kalki Avatar, but perhaps Lord Shiva — as he lived on Shiva Street and had many of the attributes of Lord Shiva. It is stated in the Bible that there would be a beast resembling a leopard, with the mouth of a lion and many crowns on his head. Lord Shiva is often depicted wearing only a leopard skin, and his hair is arranged in many buns on top of his head that look like crowns.

D. V. Subba Rao never entered a temple or prayed, as it is stated in the Bible that, while the Gentiles ruled, the angel should remain at the entrance of his temple and not enter the outer court. He began to feel that he himself was Lord God Almighty, and that his son Sastry was the Son of Man and Lord Ganesha. Otherwise, both the agencies and Subba Rao felt that the son of D. V. Sastry in the USA would be the one who ruled the nations with an iron scepter — the King of Kings and Lord of Lords.

After Sastry's departure to the United States, the agencies felt there was no longer a need to work with Subba Rao, as they believed they had picked his brain enough and were on the verge of solving the mystery of God. They had him poisoned by a lady friend in Vizianagaram, near Vizag, in Andhra Pradesh, while he was attending to a murder case, and he died at the age of 49 in 1962. This began a series of assassinations directed by J. Edgar Hoover, which has left the United States and the secret societies of the Vatican stained with the blood of saints and prophets such as President Kennedy, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., and others.

After this, the agencies began focusing on my father in the USA and my uncle Chanti in India, both of whom drank alcohol. In fact, President Lyndon Baines Johnson and President Richard Nixon were obsessed with wiretaps on my father's personal and political conversations and activities. Nixon was forced to erase some tapes in the White House archives because of this.

Once my father married my mother, the agencies deduced that he could be the Lamb — his wedding was a grand affair — but he was not directly involved in politics (though he volunteered on campaigns), or in war, or in anything resembling the activities associated with the Lamb or the Kalki Avatar. Thus, they felt that my mother would give birth to the eventual Son of Man and Lamb, the "child who rules the nations with an iron scepter." As they noticed that she spent time in India (which is like a desert) after marriage, finished her education, and then came to the United States — taking the wings of the eagle and giving birth to me — they also felt that I might be Lord God Almighty at birth. They have kept a record of miracles, through memos, essays, and verbal statements, and even of every instance of weather control since my birth.

The agencies also felt that I might be the Second Coming of Jesus Christ and the reincarnation of D. V. Subba Rao. Thus, they began trying to poison me as an infant by tampering with my baby formula, to see whether I would die as my grandfather supposedly had. However, though I would become extremely sick, I would never die. The poisoning routine and other nefarious attempts on my life went on for 35 years, and I have still not died from them. Most of the Durvasula family children — including us — have also had our test scores, academic records, grades, bar exams, and even social lives and careers tampered with, misdirected, hindered, downgraded, or otherwise externally influenced by various agencies. Enduring all of this is indicative of enormous and extraordinary strength and fortitude.

Chapter 1 — Introductions

After visiting more than 500 important religious sites and related historical places, studying more than 1,000 religious, theological, historical, anthropological, and archaeological texts, periodicals, and scriptures, and spending years in careful, intense meditation, I have arrived at some important revelations and at things I consider to be absolute truths. It is important to note that some of the temples I have visited are between 7,000 and 10,000 years old, predating Christianity, Islam, Judaism, and conventional Hinduism by several thousand years. In fact, some of these sites predate all organized religions on Earth except for the worship of Lord Shiva. I have buttressed this research with occasional interactions with members of the world's most powerful and knowledgeable intelligence agencies, secret societies, gurus, swamis, priests, and religious leaders.

This information may be shared with open-minded persons of faith who are somewhat aware of what has been happening over the past few years. Always remember that the mystery of God is like a complex puzzle, written in codes that only one person in the history of time and humanity — the one with the key to the scroll — can solve completely. It is important to know that various scriptures do not read like logically or sequentially constructed narratives, but more like a series of "bullet points," often depicting events that take place out of sequence. Ultimately, however, the story of God will form a satisfying and fairly logical narrative.

Important Revelations and Truths

A trained lawyer may read the Biblical Book of Revelation and conclude that the Lamb and God could either be one and the same person, or be read as two separate persons or entities. Similarly, the Vishnu Purana and Kalki Purana can be read as describing one Kalki Avatar, or perhaps two separate Kalki Avatars separated by time. Likewise, a discussion of the "Counselor" and the "Spirit of Truth" mentioned by Jesus Christ would lead one to believe that they are one and the same person. However, there is a loophole for the possibility that the Spirit of Truth and the Counselor are two different entities. This was done to allow the creators to decide how they wished to solve the puzzle, or mystery, of God at the appropriate time — the end times, or the end of the Kali Yuga. In other words, it is the choice of the Lion from the Tribe of Judah, the Lamb, the Kalki Avatar, and the Son of Man whether to bifurcate in these situations or to refer to one person.

Subsequently, it follows that:

- God is Durvasula Venkata Subba Rao, grandfather of the Lamb, and thus partially Lord Shiva, partially Lord Vishnu, and partially Lord Brahma.
- The Lamb is the Son of Man, the Lion from the Tribe of Judah, or Lord Ram (the male sheep, or son of Hezron, and great-grandson of Judah): the Second Coming of Jesus Christ, the Messiah, the Son of Manu, and Lord Vishnu. He is also partially Lord Shiva and partially Lord Brahma. When the Spirits of Lord Shiva and Lord Brahma are completely upon the Lamb, the Lamb is also Lord God Almighty/Allah.
- The Counselor is Durvasula Venkata Subba Rao (hereinafter D. V. Subba Rao). It is rumored that D. V. Subba Rao was the primary secret counselor to the legendary civil-rights leaders of the USA and the freedom fighters of India, all of whom knew each other through multicultural consulting.
- The Spirit of Truth is Mohandas Karamchand "Mahatma" Gandhi.
- The Holy Trinity is:
 - the Father — Lord Shiva;
 - the Son — Lord Vishnu; and

- the Holy Spirit — Lord Brahma.
- Lord Shiva, the Destroyer, is the Father and represents a "Leopard," because he is often depicted in a leopard dress, or loongi, and he has many crowns on his head, holding many titles and wearing his hair in many buns that resemble crowns. Lord Shiva, like other Hindu gods, is often depicted with many heads and many arms, because he can manifest as — or in — more than one person at the same place and time, or at different times and places.

Lord Shiva and his wife, Parvathi, also have a "Book of Life," in which Lord Shiva, at the beginning of time, narrates the life story and various truths of every single human being in history. The sages who witnessed his narration to his wife wrote them down on leaves. These leaves are called the Shiva Nadi Shastras. They are found in the Indian state of Tamil Nadu, and many of the Nadi leaves were translated from Sanskrit into Tamil and Telugu several thousand years ago.

Governor Elihu Yale of the Madras Province (now the states of Tamil Nadu and Andhra Pradesh) — the most corrupt and brutal official of the British East India Company and the British Raj — is rumored to have stolen many of these leaves bearing Christian names and later handed them to secret societies. Yale University in Connecticut, USA, is named after Governor Yale, who assisted in founding the university. It is also rumored that secret societies are able to use these leaves to recruit potentially powerful and talented members after reading their leaves. Technically, however, you cannot match the leaves without the thumbprints of the person for whom they are written, along with some other corroborating information.

Thus, the Lamb is Lord Shiva but also Lord Ram (like a male sheep), who is the son of Manu/Man and an incarnation of Lord Vishnu, as stated in the Vishnu Purana. Both Lord Shiva and Lord Vishnu have incarnated as the Lamb/Son of Man. Similarly, Lord Venkateshwara, worshipped in Andhra Pradesh, is officially thought to be Lord Vishnu searching for his wife, Goddess Lakshmi. The Lord Vishnu aspect of Lord Venkateshwara is represented by his official story and by his name, "Venkata," which means Vishnu. The Lord Shiva aspect of Venkateshwara, on the other hand, is represented by "Eshwara" in the name; the moniker "Eshwara" usually refers to Lord Shiva. Shambala — the symbolic ancient kingdom prophesied in Buddhist and Hindu prophecies, and also the home of the Lamb — is bifurcated into two areas. One Shambala is the Peddapuram region of East Godavari, Andhra Pradesh, India, where Gautama Buddha recited the Kalachakra Tantra, where parts of the Ramayana and Mahabharata took place, and where Lord Venkateshwara briefly resided. The other Shambala is in the San Francisco Bay Area in California, USA, where the Lamb was born.

Idol worship is apparently the troubling issue that prevents all religions from neatly coming together. Jesus Christ, in the Book of Revelation, states that we should not worship idols that do not walk, breathe, see, or hear. However, the idols that represent deities who are indeed alive — walking, seeing, hearing, and breathing — are appropriately worshipped by Hindus. It will be proven in the near future that all such idols represent living entities.

Identity of Important Prophets, Saints, and Demigods (Both Small and Great)

- Prophet Moses was reincarnated as President John Fitzgerald Kennedy.
- Prophet John the Baptist, Prophet Mohammed, and Guru Nanak are all reincarnated as Governor Edmund G. "Jerry" Brown, Jr.
- Prophet Elijah is reincarnated as President William Jefferson Clinton.
- Prophet Elisha is reincarnated as Vice President Albert Gore, Jr.
- Saint John is reincarnated as President George W. Bush.
- Prophet Abraham was reincarnated as President Abraham Lincoln.

- King Solomon was reincarnated as President Ronald W. Reagan.
- King Samuel is reincarnated as President George H. W. Bush.
- Saint Thomas is reincarnated as President James "Jimmy" Carter.
- Other prophets and saints who were victimized by Mystery Babylon include Senator Dianne Feinstein.

When I was born in San Francisco, at the French Hospital, delivered by Dr. Ruth Christ, my parents took me home to a building owned by Gina Moscone and her mother. I lived there for the first four years of my life. Mayor George Moscone became my father's friend, and his children took me trick-or-treating on Halloween. Gina and her family convinced my cavalier father to finally buy a house in Pacifica and move out of the building when my mother was pregnant with my brother. My father threw a legendary "housewarming" party in honor of the new home, which nicely coincided with President Nixon's resignation and my brother's birth. It was August 1974.

In 1978, my mother, my brother, and I went to Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and Morgantown, West Virginia, for Thanksgiving and our annual family reunion. My father stayed back, as he had to work at San Francisco International Airport to clear holiday-scheduled United Airlines aircraft for travel. At the end of the holiday, he picked us up at the airport and drove us home to Pacifica. However, before taking the exit to Pacifica, I noticed a ceremony at the Holy Cross Catholic Cemetery in Colma, with something like a twenty-one-gun salute. My dad quietly said, "Yeah, George Moscone was assassinated, and Dianne Feinstein is mayor now." My mom was shocked! The Moscones were our friends; Gina and her mother had been mentors to my mother since she was 19. It was a sad time for our family.

In 1984, the Democratic National Convention (DNC) was held in San Francisco at the George Moscone Center. My dad was selected as an alternate delegate to the DNC. I was already interested in Democratic politics by that time, but my dad, interestingly, sent my brother and me to Philadelphia, to the Dantaluri family, to spend the summer holidays and improve our tennis skills. My dad was a great tennis player and taught me how to play.

The following are also reincarnations of Hindu demigods, prophets, and saints — alongside Robert F. Kennedy, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., and Malcolm X:

- The five Pandava brothers of the Mahabharata:
 - Akella Krishna Sastry
 - Vedantam Durvasula
 - Kalyan Durvasula
 - Durvasula Satyanarayana Murthy (a.k.a. Chanti)
 - Prasad Durvasula
- King Vasudeva is Durvasula Sastry.
- Lakshmana, brother of Lord Ram, is Manoj Sastry.
- Shatrughna, brother of Lord Ram, is Sudhir Durvasula.
- Bharata, brother of Lord Ram, is Prashanth Kolluri.
- Bheema, cousin of Lord Krishna, is Kalyan Durvasula.
- King Dasaratha, father of Ram and formerly Svayambhuva Manu, is my father, D. V. Sastry.
- Kausalya and the Virgin Mary — mothers of Ram and Jesus, respectively — are Lakshmi Sastry (my mother).

Shirdi Sai Baba was an incarnation of Lord Brahma who was never worshipped, and thus used this loophole. He also wanted to live briefly as a Muslim for four years, and even tasted beef as a child to show that Brahma was no longer masquerading among the calves, as he had done briefly to aid Lord Krishna.

- Sage Vashistha is reincarnated as Sri Satya Sai Baba of Puttaparthi.
- Sage Vishwamitra is reincarnated as Sri Viswayogi Viswamji of Guntur.
- The father of Arjuna, Bheema, and Yudhishtira is Durvasa Maharishi.
- Durvasa Maharishi is D. V. Subba Rao. ("Durvasa" is an ancient, qualified Brahmin name.)
 - "Durvasula" is the same as "David" for the purposes of Revelation, and thus the "Root and Offspring of David" is the offspring of Durvasula.
 - The three elder brothers of the Kalki Avatar, as prophesied in the Kalki Purana, are Ram Akella, Raman Akella, and Bala Akella.
- The Four Living Creatures are creatures thought not to exist, or thought to have died, but who are actually living:
 - God, D. V. Subba Rao (in the Himalayas/China)
 - Lord Hanuman (in the Himalayas, in his original form, with a face like a man)
 - Lord Subrahmanyam/Satyanarayana Swami, son of Shiva (Durvasula Chanti, my uncle — also in the Himalayas/China, with a face like an ox)
 - Lord Ganesha, son of Shiva (D. V. Sastry, with a face like a lion)

However, since the Lamb and God have been bifurcated, God will be replaced by John the Baptist — Edmund G. Brown, Jr. — whose face is like a flying eagle.

The 24 Elders

The 24 Elders are 24 prominent elders in history who impress both the Lamb and God. They were originally intended to be the 24 U.S. presidents after Abraham Lincoln ended slavery, but that has changed somewhat.

- The Eighth King: to be revealed.
- The Seventh King: to be revealed.
- The Bride of the Lamb: the incarnation of Lakshmi Devi, or Parvathi Devi — Goddess Lakshmi, as described in the Padma Purana.
- The Lamb/Son of Man must eventually marry all of his former wives from past lives, who were all goddesses, such as Saraswati, Parvathi, Rukmini, Jambavathi, Shakti, and Gayatri; but this is not required to fulfill any prophecies.
- Goddess Durga (like Mother Earth) and Lalita Devi is my grandmother, Durvasula Atchuthamba, wife of D. V. Subba Rao.
- Springs of Living Water: This is the divine or mystical water called Soma in ancient times. It will taste like a divine and heavenly substance, pleasing all who drink it. The reason it is described as "Living Water" — and the reason Jesus Christ says you must eat and drink his "blood and flesh" for eternal life — is that this is actually the divine semen of Lord Shiva. This is why the worship of stone Shiva Lingams is more than 10,000 years old. There will be two divine Shiva Lingams, one for God and one for the Lamb, and those offered as first fruits to the Lamb and God will drink the Soma and receive eternal life. Men and women will drink the water, or Soma, in the form of champagne, champagne cocktails, or juices, and much later, springs will form. Men will actually ask the women in the family to pray for them for certain types of extraordinary boons, as this will empower women. When you actually experience it, it will not be as disgusting or strange as the written description sounds. This is simply how it must be. The water will be offered only after tests of faith have been passed by the worshippers. There will be no deceit or manipulation of the Lamb or God.

- The Followers of the Lamb: The 144,000 (only a symbolic number, not a literal one) who sing mysterious songs can be interpreted as Vedic priests who wear the tilak, the sign of Lord Shiva or Lord Vishnu, on their forehead — or a combination of both, thereby forming a "Cross" symbol — and who chant complex mantras. However, since the Lamb and God decide the definitions, the followers will mostly be various women who will sing songs, give speeches, and be hired to follow the Lamb on occasion in the early years. They will follow the Lamb, and not God, and will not necessarily be offered as first fruits to the Lamb. God will have followers as well. The angels of the Lamb will process applications for these very well-paid, dignified, and powerful positions. Some followers will be volunteers by choice. They will not be relegated to any menial duties, nor shared with any other gods. Among them will be some of the most famous and successful female entertainers (meaning they are popular among men), who may be falsely in trouble, in contrived trouble, or under unfair scrutiny, but who are blameless and "tell no lies."
- Masters, Talents, and Servants: Throughout the world, front companies, shell companies, equity funds, and financial institutions are managing the money, assets, and business ideas of the Lamb and God. When the Lamb/Son of Man/Master returns, he will reward the managers who have acted well and fairly, and punish those — like Ken Lay and Bernie Ebbers — who have beaten their fellow servants in a wicked way or used the assets wickedly. The Lamb and God also secretly hold several hundred patents, trademarks, and copyrights that receive royalties.
- Angels of God: Described in various texts, these angels are extensions of Lord God Almighty — the Father and the Holy Spirit — and represent the powers that the Kalki Avatar, or the Lamb/Son of Man, has delegated to the Spirit while he finishes his human life before entering his permanent divine life. They take orders from the Lamb and think exactly as the Lamb does, unless given other duties, and they can manifest as humans, animals, or even inanimate objects. They do not need food, money, or shelter, though some live as humans — for example, in intelligence agencies, corporations, or hospitals, or as robot-like "space fillers" representing the extremes of society. Some angels live as the extreme poor, the very violent, the extremely rich, or the very greedy. They will disappear when the Kingdom of God begins. Others will work directly for the Lamb and God.

The New Jerusalem

The New Jerusalem, Heaven on Earth, and the Kingdom of God — because of the mistreatment of God and the Lamb by various institutions and agencies — have been guaranteed to be in the Peddapuram region of East Godavari (including Kakinada and Rajahmundry), Andhra Pradesh, India. Land will expand into the sea, and the entire area will be transformed. There will be no question that it was designed by the Lamb and God, as it will feature various shrines to the favorite athletes and cultural heroes of God and the Lamb. It will resemble San Francisco, along with small parts of the following places (the Lamb/Son of Man, or his family, has visited or set foot in a majority of them):

Chapter 2 — Heaven on Earth

There will be a feeling of Heaven on Earth there, and it will be obvious that it is the Kingdom of God. All world governments will be administered, directly or indirectly, by the Lamb and God from the New Jerusalem. All funding of governments throughout the world will be handled from there, as taxes will be very low. There will be some appropriate and effective form of guaranteed "living wages" for workers. There will be democracy at the local level around the world; but to ensure near-perfection in government, many major leaders will be appointed. Angels of God — who can read minds, perform miracles, anticipate future events, and read the future — will supplement emergency services such as fire, rescue, police, criminal justice, and hospitals throughout the world, in order to prevent crying, pain, cheating, lying, and incompetence. "Divine" intelligence briefings will support all world governments. Organizations such as the United Nations will continue to exist in order to keep talented persons working and leading. A Global Planning Council, however, will be constituted to determine appropriate divine interventions.

Examples would be replenishing natural resources, changing temperatures, or even fixing troublesome, accident-prone intersections and roads that are surrounded by important developments that cannot be razed. The Global Planning Council could also help set standards for the global economy and the attrition rate for the labor force in a world of eternal life, good health, and contained aging. For example, does Barry Bonds play the outfield with Willie Mays for 500 years, or 200 years, before his son gets a chance?

The San Francisco Bay Area will be groomed to become a secondary Kingdom of God in the future.

Characteristics of God when the Spirit is completely upon him: D. V. Subba Rao, who is six feet three, will be six feet five, with short hair, a dark-brown complexion, and an imposing physique. He will be stunningly handsome, always appearing to be 40 to 50 years of age, with a brilliant intellect. He will improve upon his current 13 fluent spoken languages to speak all languages on Earth, and he will possess various supernatural powers and a Shiva Lingam.

Characteristics of the Lamb when the Spirits are completely upon him: The Lamb will be six feet five in height and no longer "lower than his angels." He will be light brown in complexion (the same as his current complexion), with the long hair of Shiva, Jesus, Rama, and Krishna. He will speak any language, comprehend all things, and have the full powers of creation, destruction, and preservation, as well as omnipotence, omniscience, and omnipresence. He will always have the appearance of a 35-year-old, and he will have no body odors — unless designed to be pleasant ones — and no need for the inconvenient physiological or biological functions, including sleep. He will sleep only for social reasons, in order to conform to those around him (e.g., his wife and family). He will have various technologies and iron scepters to assist him, including devices that show him what is happening throughout the world and in the mind of any individual. He will be able to do anything at will, and will have all the powers described by the sage Markandeya in the Mahabharata when speaking to Lord Krishna about the Kalki Avatar. In that dialogue, it is stated that the "Brahmin boy" will be "able to materialize weapons, objects, and even armies at will." The Lamb will be devoid of any physiological, neurological, circulatory, or digestive systems. He will be unable to be harmed or incapacitated in any way. He will be able to control the appearance of his children, or of any children, as the Creator can, disregarding genetics on occasion. He will be able to "pull the file" on any problem, or any human being on Earth, and tackle it.

The Lamb will be able to create life, take away life, assign persons to Hell (the Lake of Burning Sulfur), and resurrect life independent of karma. Currently, most life, death, and other significant events are decided by a person's karma (destiny and fate, both predetermined and adjusted for prayers and good deeds in past and present lives); however, in some cases there are interventions in order to fulfill prophecies.

The Day of the Lord, or Time of the Lord

Like a perfectly written computer program, the preset criteria and conditions set by the Lamb — and partly by God — will be used to eliminate approximately 40 to 60 percent of the world's population in a sudden, rapture-like event. The remaining persons will be welcomed into the Kingdom of God and asked to follow divine rules for maintaining eternal life, in exchange for losing the right to be evil, the right to be harmfully inaccurate or incompetent, and the right to be greedy. Some of those who disappear will rest from their labors and will simply disintegrate. Others are angels and will simply leave, like robots. They "do not love their lives so much as to shrink from death" because they are robots — such as filthy persons, the sexually immoral, murderers, thieves, and practitioners of magic arts. They do not have actual souls to punish, but are actually filling space and used as "props" or "teaching tools." Those who are actually punished will burn in the Lake of Burning Sulfur forever, burning every single day, and will never receive a rest from the eternal suffering and burning. To this date, no person has ever burned in Hell; they are all waiting for the Lamb to decide. The Lamb, as the King of Kings and Lord of Lords, will then decide — either personally or through automated decision-making — how each and every person is punished. So, theoretically, Genghis Khan, Pol Pot, Adolf Hitler, Kenneth Lay, Bernie Ebbers, Jeffrey Dahmer, and Richard Allen Davis are still waiting for judgment. People will be marrying and giving in marriage, eating and being merry, and then, suddenly, a rapture will take some away, like a flood.

The Resurrection

This will be the favorite job of the Lamb. Ancient Hindu/Vedic/Brahmin traditions, as well as Celtic traditions, taught that a family unit extends from the great-grandparents down to the grandchildren, and this is similar to how the resurrection will take place — in the flesh and blood. The resurrected will be miraculously given good health, a bank account, and a cell phone, among other practical things, including a resurrection certificate.

Some ancient figures will also be resurrected — those who impress the Lamb and God, including: Kautilya/Chanakya, Chandragupta Maurya, Alexander the Great, Machiavelli, Mahatma Gandhi, and U.S. Presidents Thomas Jefferson, George Washington, and Abraham Lincoln; Sun Tzu, Thomas Edison, Albert Einstein, Winston Churchill, Ferdinand Magellan, Hernán Cortés, Christopher Columbus, Harriet Tubman, Cleopatra, Helen of Troy, and King Henry VIII; certain kings and queens who have not been reincarnated and are reserved for the resurrection; Julius Caesar, Vasco da Gama, Aristotle, Descartes, Henry David Thoreau, Ernest Hemingway, Harilal Gandhi, President Teddy Roosevelt, Bhagat Singh, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Charles Darwin, Plato, William Shakespeare, Karl Marx, Vladimir Lenin, J. Robert Oppenheimer, Adam Smith, Joseph Stalin, President Richard M. Nixon, King Akbar, Friedrich Nietzsche, Thomas Paine, Tom Sawyer, Agatha Christie, Confucius, Leonardo da Vinci, Frank Sinatra, Babe Ruth, Mark Twain, President Harry Truman, President Dwight D. Eisenhower, George Washington Carver, Benjamin Franklin, H. L. Mencken, Marco Polo, and Napoleon Bonaparte.

The oceans will turn to land and uncover lost civilizations and the missing pieces to the puzzle of human life. Beaches will remain. This new land will help house some of the resurrected. Supernatural, or divine, intervention will prevent the overpopulation of the Earth. All deadly diseases and sexually transmitted diseases will be eliminated. Strict rules will be in place, though they will not be unusually or uncomfortably strict by the standard of a reasonable person in a major suburban area of the present-day world.

Systems of Economy and Government

There will be a hybrid form of socialism, capitalism, and monarchy. All systems will evolve over time, keeping in mind the need for a utopian society with fewer iniquities. For example, capitalism can be fair if it plans for the long term and does not put a premium on trimming jobs and overhead, while still maintaining competition based on quality rather than only on the financial bottom line, as the financial markets currently require. If the Master owns most of the capital in circulation, the Master can arbitrarily decide to withstand much higher price-to-earnings ratios — without analyzing a company's quarterly developments, but instead monitoring biannual statements and significant events. Thus, a company can provide good jobs with good benefits without being penalized by its primary stockholders.

The Name of the Lamb

The Lamb is the Sun and the Light. Thus, the Lamb is named for the Sun. As for the name of the Son of Man: the Son of Man is named the Word of God. Examples would be "Sastras," "Revelations," and the like.

Questions

1. Why does there seem to be more than one answer for everything?

This is a phenomenon explained by Gautama Buddha, called "Synchronicity and Coincidence." It occurs to show that something is certainly happening around you, even if you miss the first sign or the second. It is also meant to distract all but the Lion from the Tribe of Judah — the one with the key to the scroll — from solving the mystery correctly. Thus, it appears that there are many "Mystery Babylons," but this also signifies that the Kali Yuga, or era, is ending, and the Kali Yuga is personified in many different ways.

2. What is the Kalki Avatar?

The Kalki Avatar is one of the originally prophesied incarnations of Vishnu — and the last. However, Krishna changed the equation by stating that he would manifest from time to time, whenever the world needed him. Thus, the world needed Jesus Christ and some other limited forms of Vishnu. However, Vishnu is coming one last time, and the other two Lords, Shiva and Brahma, have decided to join him. The Kali Yuga is thought to be the most challenging period in the history of humanity, requiring gods who understand the ways of the people, who can outsmart the people at their own game, and who can use many more powers than were previously necessary. "Kalki Avatar" means the "avatar, or incarnation, of God for the Kali Yuga." That means he must know economics, politics, warfare, social trends, entertainment, technology, the law, and more. "Ki" means "of" or "for," and "Kal" represents the Kali Yuga. Thus, the Kalki Avatar must be even more shrewd than Lord Krishna, who convinced his own cousin to fight a major war so that the universe could learn some eternal truths and the meaning of life. He must be shrewder than Jesus Christ, who was crucified.

3. Why does the Bible seem more accurate than other prophecies?

This is because the prophecies in the Bible are more recent in time and more relevant to present conditions, and they trump some of the older prophecies that are in conflict. This also reflects the Creator's admiration for Jesus Christ and his ability to withstand humiliation and persecution. Also, many of the Kalki Purana prophecies are satisfied by both God and the Lamb in their separate lifetimes. Additionally, nearly all prophecies of all religions are being satisfied by the Lamb and God, as there must be a continuous, contiguous relationship between the Word of God and the words of the messengers of God from all religions. If this continuous, contiguous relationship is not fulfilled in a satisfactory way, the people lose faith in the Word of God; thus, all attempts are made to satisfy it. The Word of God in the Biblical Revelation is magnified in importance, as Jesus says in Luke 21:33 (NIV) that "Heaven and Earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away," and that "all of these things must happen"; and as Revelation 22:18–19 (NIV) warns that "no one may add a word to this book or take away a word from this book." This is why the Son of Man must, as stated in Luke 17:25 and Luke 9:22 (NIV), "suffer many things and be rejected by his generation," as Jesus states, while still leading a decent life, as is expected in the Kalki Purana and Vishnu Purana. Therefore, as stated in Revelation 19:19 (NIV), all "the world's armies line up against the rider on the horse" temporarily — or the "Beast makes war against the Lamb" temporarily — but this ends, and the "Lamb wins, because he is the King of Kings and Lord of Lords," and with him are his "called, chosen, and faithful" followers (Revelation 14:14, NIV).

4. Does the "practice of falsehoods" refer to lawyers?

No, though this is a common misconception. It refers to habitual, harmfully manipulative liars.

5. Why have there been so many cases against entertainers and athletes in the past few years?

This is because these strange stories about strange and illegal behavior are not true. The fact is that many people of faith will question why God, D. V. Subba Rao, was India's most eminent and leading criminal lawyer. When it is proven or shown that many of your heroes are innocent, you will be shocked, and you will thank God for good criminal lawyers. Many African Americans, who live with the legacy of slavery, have volunteered to allow "them to hate you because of me," as stated by the Holy Spirit in Jesus's words (Matthew 10:22, NIV). They have chosen to stand on the side of God and to suffer until their day comes. The highlights of the public and secret accomplishments of D. V. Subba Rao will be so overwhelming and impressive that they will put the whole world into shock and astonishment. Many young entertainers have also been inspired by rumors of his exploits and have chosen to stand with God and the Lamb. Some cases popularize numbers like 755 and 756, which can be calculated from 666; and some cases show why certain "dogs" will not make it into the Kingdom of God.

6. Does 9/11/01 calculate from 666?

It does, if you calculate using the Boeing 777, Boeing 767, Boeing 757, and so on.

7. What is one of the code words?

The code word is the name of the first Westerner to climb Mt. Everest in the Himalayas.

8. Are resurrected persons patiently waiting until others join them and the Lamb finally resurrects them?

Yes, they are patiently waiting. In order not to spoil the surprise — and to allow prophecies to be self-fulfilling — angels of God originally began arranging for some people to be artificially killed and then to wait for a "resurrection," for Christians and others, because there was a doubt that the resurrection might not happen and that only reincarnation was possible. Thus, in order not to disappoint Muslims, Christians, and others, some artificial deaths are mixed in; but the majority of those waiting are actually resurrected in flesh and blood. Those whose deaths may have been staged did so as a show of solidarity with God and the Lamb, and also to satisfy some of the desires and hopes of followers. They are similar to the heroes who are blameless but undergoing media or legal scrutiny on behalf of God and the Lamb. This is why you see strange stories on cable news — or in Iraq — of violent deaths, police deaths, hostage deaths, innocent-victim deaths, and the deaths of famous personalities.

Chapter 3 — A Difference

The Democratic Party at least tries to be a moral party, despite the transgressions of some of its members. They support women, without whom there would be no babies and no human beings. Who raises children in conservative families around the world? Women do — including in Christian and Islamic families.

Republicans are rallying around serial child predators and serial sexual predators who are candidates. They also supported Dennis Hastert. Republicans never take responsibility, never resign, and never sympathize with women.

Women do not seek to have abortions, and they do not celebrate them. No one on Earth supports or celebrates late-term abortions. This is propaganda devised by evil right-wing political consultants who want to divide the public and maximize the Republican vote. They use Mitch McConnell's money to do this. The late-term exception for the health of the mother is religious and moral common sense. There is not a single evangelical, conservative, or Republican who would let his wife — the mother of his children, his partner, and his soulmate — die while giving birth if he could prevent it.

A human soul — and thus a destiny and a horoscope — is not added to a fetus until it is born and emerges from the womb, with the planetary positions carefully recorded at the exact time of birth. However, despite this, I believe women should decide on an abortion in the first or second trimester, and not later, for emotional and health reasons, unless the mother's health is at risk.

You know, Lord Krishna — like the Lamb (the Second Coming of Christ) — never had to use workplace power or sexual harassment to attract women followers; this is true of Krishna with his Gopikas and wives in the Bhagavad Gita, and of the Lamb in Revelation 14:4 (NIV), respectively. The women just voluntarily followed them around the world, because they were holy and admirable. Many say that Krishna, Ram, and Christ were all the same person, revealed at different times to different peoples in different periods.

I wish that people like politicians would stop implying that they might be "Jesus," or divine beings. They are false prophets. Let them come back down to Earth, drop their Messiah complexes, apologize for their misdeeds, and stop pulling the wool over the eyes of the people.

Chapter 5 — Kali and the Pregnant Woman

The discussion of Kali is very complicated, as she is a goddess with multiple personalities, and she is the symbol of the Kali Era, or Kali Yuga, that is about to end. If you research the characteristics of the Kali Era, you will notice that some political, social, economic, and religious trends are obviously bad or evil and will be disposed of, while some of the practices or trends will remain in the Era of Truth, or Satya Yuga, that will be the Kingdom of God.

Kali is the Hindu goddess who was jilted at the altar by Lord Shiva because of her violent and destructive activities in the days leading up to their scheduled wedding. Since then, this consort of Shiva has not been married to him, and the era we are in is called the Kali Era. The Kali Era, or Kali Yuga, manifests itself as Mystery Babylon upon the United States government, which is largely scarlet and purple, because the system has divided the various states into "Blue States" and "Red States." Blue States are supposedly progressive and Democratic, and Red States are conservative and Republican. Mixed states are blue plus red, resulting in purple. The country is thus very polarized along party and cultural lines. Big Oil companies, the military-industrial complex, and Big Pharma seem to control the Kali Yuga and Mystery Babylon, and they manifest themselves as Republican, neoconservative administrations that are beholden to the lobbyists of these big corporations and industrial sectors, and that also infiltrate the functioning of intelligence and law-enforcement agencies.

Kali took the two wings of a great eagle when my father immigrated to the United States in 1961. President Eisenhower had previously warned about the military-industrial complex around this time. This gave the story of God an American flavor.

Kali, in her benevolent manifestation, became pregnant and screamed in 2000. I was snatched up by God in November 2000, or on December 12, 2000. The two wings of the eagle were actually those of a dove (Al Gore) and a hawk (Senator Joe Lieberman). Thus, Kali continues to operate as a "flip-flopper," taking both the wing of a dove and the wing of a hawk, while both wings are those of the United States' symbolic golden eagle.

My mother, Lakshmi Sastry, also became pregnant in 1970 and gave birth in 1971 to the child who will rule the nations with an iron scepter. She took the two wings of an eagle in 1970, after her marriage in 1969. However, this is also Synchronicity and Coincidence at work; thus, to avoid confusion, my angels did not allow her to receive her U.S. citizenship papers until this was explained properly. Even so, the term "mother" alternates between referring to Lakshmi Sastry and to Kali, almost seamlessly.

My mother is not Kali; but Kali and Mystery Babylon can be approximately personified by Condoleezza Rice, who sat on the board of the oil company Chevron, worked with Unocal, and was also instrumental — as the Beast out of the Sea, and as Secretary of State for the Beast out of the Earth. Kali and Mystery Babylon can also, coincidentally, be personified by Speaker Nancy Pelosi, because of her powerful title as Speaker, her ancestry from Rome, and her representation of San Francisco. Kali and Mystery Babylon can also be personified by Senator Hillary Rodham Clinton, as she represents New York, and she and her husband, President Clinton, have traveled all over the world and met with numerous world leaders. She has traveled to more than 82 countries; I participated in her India trip. All three women have, to some extent, ridden the scarlet-and-purple beast.

Chapter 6 — The White House of the United States Is the Temple of the Lord

The United States of America's White House has been chosen as the figurative Temple of the Lord, because the Lamb/Son of Man is a native-born American citizen and his father is a legal, naturalized citizen. Thus, all U.S. presidents have something in common with the Lamb/Son of Man — including President George Washington, who made his home in Alexandria, Virginia, just as the Lamb/Son of Man has.

The White House was famously protected during the 9/11/01 attacks.

More importantly, there was an interesting incident when Douglas J. Band, in September 2000, listed the Lamb/Son of Man and an unnamed California businessman as personal guests of President Clinton at a Rose Garden reception for Indian Prime Minister Atal Bihari Vajpayee. The Lamb/Son of Man had routinely visited the Old Executive Office Building and the East Wing of the White House scores of times over several years, and had even interviewed for jobs there. However, he had not been inside the West Wing offices, though he had dropped friends off several times in the special parking lots.

At this event, a Cabinet Secretary invited the Lamb/Son of Man to a small reception for Asian American politicians and appointees, with President Clinton and PM Vajpayee, after the Rose Garden speeches had finished. The Lamb, the businessman, and others followed the Secretary to the entrance of the drawing room and stood there, looking inside for Clinton family members. The Lamb/Son of Man explained to them that, as personal guests of the President, they could walk in without any problem. However, it was decided to call the President's relatives over later.

The intelligence agencies saw this on tape, and they saw that the Lamb/Son of Man was measuring the West Wing like an outer court. They proceeded to remove the Lamb/Son of Man's name from special West Wing events, like State Dinners and the White House Christmas parties, much to the chagrin and surprise of the DNC and other officials. The rumor was floated that First Lady Hillary Clinton, or Terry McAuliffe, had eliminated the Lamb/Son of Man's name several times. This was not true; it was a covert decision by the intelligence agencies, because it had been decided that the Lamb/Son of Man should not enter the inner part of the West Wing until the time had come to rule. Similarly, the businessman's name was removed from White House invitation lists, as it was not clear to the agencies whether he was one of the two witnesses, or the Lamb, or God, or Elijah.

In contrast, Vice President Al Gore hosted a spectacular luncheon, full of prominent people, for Prime Minister Vajpayee at the State Department, and the Lamb attended; the room was full of guests invited by both the Lamb and Vice President Gore, in coordination. At least 30 of the prominent leaders in various fields were recommended by the Lamb.

Also, as the King of Kings and Lord of Lords, the Lamb shares traits with various "Kings" and "Lords" — including living in Alexandria, Virginia, as did President George Washington.

Chapter 8 — Heroes

After Phil Bronstein wrote an exclusive in the San Francisco Chronicle reporting that a local Navy SEAL Team Six veteran — the man who had killed Osama bin Laden — could not find work in Silicon Valley or anywhere else, and after Rachel Maddow reported that war hero Seth Moulton won his congressional race when a local paper revealed that he was a decorated veteran who had never bragged about it, my dad asked me a question.

While watching television, he asked, in reference to Rep. Seth Moulton, whether I had done something like that without telling anyone. I nodded in affirmation. After all, I had ordered the hit on Osama bin Laden while on a United Airlines flight to San Francisco, sitting next to an air marshal. I wrote down "UBL" with a cross-out next to it. My dad put a packet of crackers on my tray, meaning: "We thought you supported him because he hated 'crackers'?" He was referring to the time I waved off a President Bush agent at a café when the agent sported an "Osama: Public Enemy Number 1" sweater. The agent immediately took off the sweater draped on his back.

They misunderstood me. I hate radical Islam and Osama bin Laden, but I didn't feel that President Bush — who did not secure the country and who won the presidency with the help of a right-wing Supreme Court — should benefit from eliminating Osama. I threw away the napkin I had ordered the hit on in a gas-station garbage can.

Also, Osama bin Laden came after me and the World Trade Center twice, because I had bought sandals at the World Trade Center with my cousin and a female friend. He thought that was a war of civilizations. Sandals are a secret between Jesus Christ and John the Baptist. I was also an idol-worshipping Hindu — a double thorn in his side. He knew who I was.

When the Ten Commandments in Judaism were preached and taught by Moses and reiterated by Jesus Christ, and idol worship was prohibited, these messengers of God were referring to Greek gods, Greek idol worship, and Greek polytheism, such as the worship of Zeus and Prometheus. They were referring to Greek-mythology-related idol worship, not Hindu idol worship. They did not know much about Hinduism at that time and were not referring to Hindus, who of course existed then. Hinduism is the world's oldest form of organized religion. Lord Shiva temples once existed even in the Middle East, Europe, and Egypt, but were destroyed by Muslim, Christian, or nomadic groups. Some are still in existence, studied and carbon-dated by archaeologists. There is also evidence of the knowledge and study of Lord Shiva temples in Africa and the ancient Middle East.

Every ancient culture — including pagan cultures, indigenous peoples, the Abrahamic-lineage religions, the world's oldest organized religion of Sanatana Dharma (a.k.a. Hinduism/the Vedic order), and the offshoots of Hinduism — refers to its God as the Sun God, the Sun King, the Light, the Illumination, or the Sun as creator of the universe. As the Bhagavad Gita and the Bible both attest, Jesus is the Light and the Lamb is the Sun. The Ramayana states that Lord Ram and his father, King Dasharatha, are of the Suryavansham dynasty, or Solar Dynasty.

In the Bible, it states that the Lamb, the Son of Manu, and the Second Coming of Christ will be named "the Word of God."

My father, for some reason, insisted that I be named "Dinesh," which is not common for Telugu Indians. Dinesh means "din," or day, and "Esh," or Lord — meaning Day Lord, or Sun God. The most famous mantra of Hindus is the Gayatri Mantra, or Sandhyavandanam, meaning a chant for illumination, light, and the worship of and blessings of the Sun.

My last name, which my dad gave me, is "Sastry," which means "Word of God," as prophesied in the Bible. In Telugu India, the family name is mentioned first, and the first name — "Sastry" — is given as the last name.

So, if my dad — as the educated man he was, and as he advised his brothers to do — had listed his first name in the USA as Sastry and his last name as Durvasula, as it should have been, then I would be Dinesh Durvasula. Thus, my name would not be "Word of God" according to the Bible.

My uncle Vedantam went by Vedantam Durvasula (named after the Vedas), and my uncle Prasad went by Vinay Prasad Durvasula (named after Lord Vinayaka, and prasadam, the offerings to God). My uncle Chanti stayed in India, so he remained Durvasula Satyanarayana Murthy (named after Lord Satyanarayana, the East Godavari zilla god — like "Godzilla").

The two sisters are Annapurna and Suryamala, named after goddesses.

However, my dad knew something that few people knew. Anyone who worked at United Airlines knows, he said, that he exclaimed "Jesus Christ" every ten minutes — when telling a joke, getting angry, or simply expressing amazement. You also know that in the Bible, Jesus is often referred to as "Christ Jesus" — the name backwards.

The family name Durvasula is linked to Durvasa Mahamuni, the angry and powerful incarnation of Lord Shiva who was the father of the Pandavas of the Mahabharata epic. Durvasula is also interchangeable with King David of the Jewish scriptures. Durvasula came to the Middle East in the form of David, or Dawoud, for a different set of people. The City of David is Jerusalem; the city of Durvasula/David is Peddapuram, East Godavari District, Andhra Pradesh, India, and San Francisco, California, USA.

My father's name was Durvasula V. Sastry, or D. V. Sastry, and my grandfather's name was Durvasula V. Subba Rao, or D. V. Subba Rao — both very close to "David," "Devudu," "Dvesham," "Devi," "Devatha," and "DVD," as well as "Devastation," "Divisive," "Deviancy," "Devastating," "Disaster," "Desastre," "Dhavid," "Destiny," "Stare Decisis," "Disarray," "Dynasty," "Delightful," "Diversity," "Divine," "Device," "Disney," "Disease," "Statistics," "Stats," "Strategy," "Democracy," "Democratic Party," "Davos," "Danish pastry" (the bread/flesh of Christ), "Salt of the Earth," "Dish Network," "Mystery," "Dysfunctional," "Diva," "Dissatisfy," "Ishta Devatha," "Denise," "Dennis," "Don," "Dan," "Amnesty," "Denies," "Dino Valentino" (whom I was named after) and "Dino the Dinosaur," "DNA," "Vitamin D," "Diminish," "Diminutive," "Dense," "Diversion," "Dissipated," "Disillusion," "Denouement," "DeGeneres," and "Distraction."

Thus, I am the root, or descendant, of "Durvasula," or "David," even though it is not apparent from my name. You must check the lineage and heritage.

I am also the Lion from the Tribe of Judah, as David, Jesus, John the Baptist, and Ram are all from Judea.

Also, Ram is the son of Hezron and a descendant of David in the Old Testament. Ram is also a male lamb (another name for the Son of Man) in the Bible. Lord Ram in Hinduism is also the first human incarnation of God, or the Son of Manu, or the Alpha, as Hinduism is the first organized religion in the world. This also explains Ramallah in the Middle East and Ramzan, or Ramadan, in Islam. It also explains the fable of Aladdin — like "Allah-Din." The Kalki Avatar/Second Coming is the Omega.

Also, in his message to the churches in Philadelphia, Jesus implies he will reveal "my new name."

Chapter 9 — Messages

"And to the angel of the church in Philadelphia write: 'The words of the holy one, the true one, who has the key of David, who opens and no one will shut, who shuts and no one opens. I know your works. Behold, I have set before you an open door, which no one is able to shut. I know that you have but little power, and yet you have kept my word and have not denied my name... I am coming soon. Hold fast what you have, so that no one may seize your crown... and I will write on him the name of my God, and the name of the city of my God, the new Jerusalem, which comes down from my God out of heaven, and my own new name. He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches.'"

— Revelation 3:7-13 (ESV)

I am coming soon to all of you. Be patient.

"I, Jesus, have sent my angel to testify to you about these things for the churches. I am the root and the descendant of David, the bright morning star." The Spirit and the Bride say, "Come." ... let the one who desires take the water of life without price. I warn everyone who hears the words of the prophecy of this book: if anyone adds to them, God will add to him the plagues described in this book...

— Revelation 22:16-21 (NIV)

"Then I saw heaven opened, and behold, a white horse! The one sitting on it is called Faithful and True, and in righteousness he judges and makes war... He is clothed in a robe dipped in blood, and the name by which he is called is The Word of God... From his mouth comes a sharp sword with which to strike down the nations, and he will rule them with a rod of iron. He will tread the winepress of the fury of the wrath of God the Almighty. On his robe and on his thigh he has a name written, King of kings and Lord of lords."

— Revelation 19:11-16 (ESV)

The Hindu religion was not a particular target of the Jews or the Christians at the time of Jesus Christ and the apostles, as it was not prevalent in their region. Also, it will be proved that these Hindu idols are able to breathe, see, hear, walk, and talk. You should also not idolize celebrities or other humans more than God.

Chapter 10 — The Mark of the Beast

The Mark of the Beast is the worship of the unfettered, or unbridled, free market forces. Many scholars call this the "invisible hand" of unbridled or unfettered market forces. Ironically, President George W. Bush referred to the "invisible hand of God that guides the affairs of our nation." Thus the "invisible hand" has been used in the context both of God's work on Earth and of the unbridled free-market forces that guide the economy and personal and collective decision-making. You should not worship the unbridled free-market forces above God, as this would be akin to worshipping money, or making money your "master." You cannot have two masters, both money and God. Ironically, however, the Lamb/Son of Man is the Master, and thus the primary market maker in the free market. He owns the major wealth and the major corporations. Thus, God covers all bases. God controls "the affairs of this nation" and also the "free" market. This is a very important point and takes a mind of wisdom to fully absorb. God is both manipulating and protecting the people from their own weaknesses.

Cost-Benefit Analysis and the Mark of the Beast

The American public, including many conservatives and hawks, turned "sour" on the Iraq war effort and on certain foreign-policy and economic initiatives of the government, though it all initially "tasted like honey in their mouths," because they are intellectually believers in free-market theory and market-based decision-making. They are subconsciously internalizing the cost-benefit analysis (akin to Justice Learned Hand's risk-reward analysis) and concluding that the emotional, physical, and monetary costs of the Iraq war and some foreign-policy initiatives are greater than the supposed benefits.

The State of Israel was secretly formed by God, D. V. Subba Rao, Clark Clifford, Prime Minister Winston Churchill, and of course President Harry Truman.

That is why President Biden and the Lamb are giving full and iron-clad support to Israel in its war against Hamas and Iran. But now, for the first time, all the world's diplomats and armies have turned their fire toward the Lamb. However, the Lamb will win his faithful, called, and chosen followers. Prime Minister Netanyahu will be deposed as a scapegoat to please the nations. There must be a Palestinian state as part of a two-state solution. This is God's plan.

Synchronicity and coincidence explain why there seems to be more than one answer to every riddle and symbol in the mystery of God and in the revelations and prophecies. If you miss one sign, you will get a chance to catch the next sign, and you will know that something special and extraordinary is happening.

Ram/Shiva, or Ramalingam, is the Lion from the Tribe of Judah with the key to the scroll. Muslims have Ramallah and celebrate Ramadan and Ramzan. Jews have the ram's horn, Ramstein, and Ram the son of Hezron and grandson of Judah. The Christians have the Lamb, who is also a Ram. Hindus have Ram, the first and the last, son of Svayambhuva Manu (the Son of Man) and also of Shiva, who combined with Ram is Ramalingam. God and the Lamb each have Shiva Lingams, which can give eternal life by supplying the "living water" of life, or the divine semen of life, from Lord Shiva.

Chapter 11 — Mystery Babylon / Kali Era

Despite coincidence and synchronicity, Durvasula Sastry, Lakshmi Sastry, and Dinesh Subbaraya Sastry (the Lamb/Son of Man) are not Mystery Babylon or the Prostitute on the City of Seven Hills. Thus, the silent harassment by car drivers who are actually government agents should end toward D. V. Sastry. Other subtle forms of harassment, war, or distress should also end. We are not Mystery Babylon or the Prostitute, and D. V. Sastry is not either of these things. We are also not equipped to accept or handle excessive abuse in this regard. The U.S. government lied about these facts and made war, but the Lamb has won, because he is the King of Kings and the Lord of Lords.

Mystery Babylon is the United States of America and its neoconservative government, political system, and the results of the political processes. In order to share or distribute the title of Mystery Babylon and Prostitute among the two major political parties, and not blame just one, President Bush, Vice President Dick Cheney, Condoleezza Rice, Mayor Rudy Giuliani, and Sen. Larry Craig, among others, are playing the role of the Beast from the Earth, and also Mystery Babylon and the Prostitute, but also sharing these roles partially with President Bill Clinton and two women, Speaker Nancy Pelosi and Senator Hillary Clinton, as well as Madeleine Albright, among others. Females are necessary, as many biblical purists require that the "prostitute" be female. I hope everyone understands this complexity. Other countries are also playing the role of Mystery Babylon, which is actually the "Kali Yuga," or "Kali Era," personified by Goddess Kali in the forms of various governments and political and governmental actors — including Benazir Bhutto and General Musharraf of Pakistan (formerly pre-partition India) — and women in entertainment. These powerful people and institutions are equipped to handle the scrutiny, derision, and harassment.

Think about all of this wisely. Remember that oil dependency, drug companies, and the military-industrial complex are part of Mystery Babylon. The Kali Era manifests in different individuals, institutions, and behaviors, and is also referred to as Jezebel. While it is written that Jezebel leads followers into "sexual immorality" and "the eating of sacrificed foods," this could mean actual sexual immorality, but more often means adulteries of faith by individuals who are consumed by the institutions and characteristics of the Kali Era. Jezebel is another name for Kali and the era she represents. God expects fidelity from the children of God to the word of God, and departures from the teachings of God are adulteries.

Many people instantly recognize the Statue of Liberty and New York City as Mystery Babylon, the city that rules the earth, and the Prostitute. However, there is more complexity to this, so this is not the obvious answer but part of the complex answer. The French secret societies gave the Statue of Liberty as a gift to the USA to represent Mystery Babylon. The poem by Emma Lazarus about the wretched and the poor references the Church of Laodicea in the biblical Book of Revelation.

When adulterous men who may be linked to Mystery Babylon appear at their press conferences (Clinton, Vitter, Craig, Spitzer, Kobe Bryant, Magic Johnson, and others), they appear with their wives, because the wife is part of Mystery Babylon and says, figuratively, "I stand as queen; I am not a widow; I do not mourn." This has become the practice. It is both an apology and an act of defiance and reinforcement.

The Triumphal Entry. The Seventh King will come riding on a donkey (Democrat) and gently (depending on whether the Beast and False Prophet are captured). The Seventh King will come riding on a donkey/Democrat.

Why the Lamb/Son of Man Is a Member of the Democratic Party

As one former Reagan-administration official humorously stated, "If Jesus Christ were to come back, liberals would put him in rehab."

The Lamb/Son of Man is not addicted to alcohol, caffeine, or nicotine. The Lamb/Son of Man has stopped smoking, and only started as a signal that there was some type of "conspiracy" with D. V. Subba Rao involved, as cigarette smoke was his symbol. It was also a signal to a worldwide network that Subba Rao was alive and well and that the Son of Man/Lamb was in control of things. The Lamb put the cigarette in his mouth on December 23, 2004, on his way to New Orleans, as an international signal. Upon his reaching New Orleans, there was a snowstorm for Christmas for the first time. The day after Christmas, there was a tsunami and earthquake. All loyalists to God and the Lamb in the world, and all angels in Heaven, knew that the Lamb/Son of Man was in charge, with D. V. Subba Rao, God, because of the cigarette in the mouth. Thus, the response to these events was proper. The Lamb/Son of Man, Subba Rao, and Lord Hanuman had decided to attack the old kingdom of Lord Rama as a "message."

Jesus said, "The Son of Man comes eating and drinking, and you call him a drunkard." Jesus also said, "All of these must happen," and "no one may take away words from this book." The book is the Book of Revelation and the New Testament. Though, to create belief before the judging of the dead and the resurrection, many Old Testament prophecies and Vishnu Purana prophecies are also coming true. Thus, the Son of Man has stopped drinking for one week, or for months, without withdrawal symptoms or negative effects; but the Son of Man must come "drinking" and must be called a "drunkard," as stated in the New Testament — otherwise there will be no Heaven on Earth and no Resurrection. There is a wing of the Republican Party that takes these words seriously, while most Democrats would not. Republicans have kept the topic of God in the national dialogue, just as similar conservative parties or groups have done in other countries. Thus, the Republicans have understood the Son of Man's dilemma and have decided that they will not worry about the behavior of the Son of Man as long as the prophecies are fulfilled and he has the mouth of a lion, eyes of blazing fire, and so on.

However, the Democratic Party celebrates diversity, encourages helping "the least of these," and attempts to help the poor. The Democratic Party has made the Lamb/Son of Man — an Indian Hindu — feel comfortable in his native land, the United States of America. Democrats tend to let God judge others, execute others, and pass various judgments on others. Some Republicans feel that they should judge others as gatekeepers of the Kingdom of God. The Democrats did not assume they knew how to do this, or which religion was supreme, or when to pass judgment on others.

It is obvious from the Senator Larry Craig case that, when it comes to the Living God, even Republicans want the Living God (an Indian Hindu) to actually be a progressive Democrat. The same dynamic holds true in other countries, particularly democracies. Thus, Jesus "comes riding on a donkey."

However, in the Trump era, the Republicans believe only in a false religion, which is white Christian Nationalism. They are hateful, bigoted, sacrilegious, and racist. They don't read religious scriptures, and they don't follow the teachings of Jesus or of any other well-known prophet or Lord. They are a cult that deals in the cult of personality while idolizing the False Prophet, Donald J. Trump.

The Lamb/Son of Man will probably allow Democrats to coordinate (with other prophets and saints, including women) the distribution of some wealth to the poor and middle class of the world, as these leaders have worked hard for a long time on poverty-related and upward-mobility issues.

The Beast from the Sea is the Reagan/Bush administration, and to some observers the Bush/Cheney first term. It is now the Trump administration.

The Beast from the Earth is the Bush/Cheney administration, particularly the Bush/Cheney second term. It is now the Vladimir Putin administration.

The Dragon, Serpent, Devil, or Satan is contained within Kali Devi/Saturn forces and manifests in various institutions, governments, and individuals, such as Putin and Russia, China, and authoritarian Communism.

Wars in the Kalki and Vishnu Puranas

As stated before, the Kalki Puranas are satisfied by two Gods, including the marriage prophecies and the wars against Buddhists and meat-eaters. D. V. Subba Rao, God, decided that the Buddhists were the Japanese during World War II and the meat-eaters were the Germans at the same time. Subba Rao, through Clark Clifford and others, called for the State of Israel to be created to fulfill prophecy, by President Truman and Winston Churchill. Subba Rao approved of the use of the atom bomb and sent such messages explicitly. Subba Rao even introduced the routine of buttermilk-drinking by President Truman. The wars against Buddhists and strange meat-eaters in Korea and Vietnam were also approved, as prophesied.

Of course, Great Britain (a beast) made war against D. V. Subba Rao throughout his youth, but he overcame them as King of Kings and Lord of Lords at that time, and with him were faithful followers Mahatma Gandhi, Bhagat Singh, Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel, and other freedom fighters.

The Robert S. Mueller investigation produced several indictments of Russians who tried to interfere in U.S. elections to help President Donald Trump. The Mueller report also details contacts between the Russians, led by Vladimir Putin, and the Trump campaign. This leads one to conclude that the Trump administration was put into power by the Dragon, in Russia, and not by God, as President Obama had been.

In fact, when the Trump administration began separating children from their mothers at the Texas border, this became more like a Dragon attacking a mother. The Obama administration had a similar plan but was put into power by God.

The 2000 recount election between Vice President Al Gore and President George W. Bush also appeared to be an election where the government was empowered by the Dragon in some way.

Ultimately, if Trump and Pence had resigned, it would have repeated the Nixon era.

Chapter 12 — Rumors of War

As many people have guessed, talk of a U.S. war with Iran is a "rumor of war" and will not materialize. There will be rumors of wars; these things must happen, but everything will be okay. Nation will not rise against nation, as this already happened during the time of D. V. Subba Rao and World War II. There will be armies circling Jerusalem, but that is also okay. There will be an Israeli state and a Palestinian state. Iran is not a threat to world peace; the leadership of that country is in consonance with the intelligence agencies' goals. Iran is like an eighth king, as the American CIA plays a strong role in that country.

- The Catholic Saint Francis of Assisi is reincarnated as the late Mayor George Moscone.
- The Catholic Saint Patrick is reincarnated as Rep. Patrick Kennedy, son of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

Resurrection and Reincarnation

Reincarnation ended officially in 1911, when D. V. Subba Rao was born, as all souls were then prepared for the Resurrection and Judgment Day. However, extraordinary individuals who may pique the interest of the Lamb and God — such as George Washington, King Akbar and Jodhaa, Abraham Lincoln, Frederick Douglass, Harriet Tubman, Thomas Jefferson, Chandragupta Maurya, Alexander the Great, and Chanakya, along with many slaves — were given salvation/moksha and thus freed from reincarnation, as their souls were preserved for the Resurrection.

The Resurrection will be in flesh and blood and of the soul, so buried bodies and cremated bodies will both be resurrected in full, healthy form. The resurrected will have access to practical and tangible accessories and necessities. The oceans will be partially eliminated, and in their place lost civilizations and land will appear, housing some of the resurrected dead.

The dead are currently in white robes and awaiting the Resurrection, with full knowledge of what is happening now on Earth and of the Lamb/Son of Man's teachings and activities. Others have been killed in "name" only and are actually alive to join the Resurrection. This was done to fulfill prophecies and to ensure that those awaiting a resurrection will have something tangible to look forward to without disappointment.

Credit Rating/Score Deception

In keeping with the theme that the worship of unbridled or unfettered free-market capitalism is taking the Mark of the Beast, one number of the Beast is the credit score. Theoretically, no person may buy large items without a credit rating score of 666 or higher. This also affects the selling of real estate in a down market. The Lamb/Son of Man despises the credit-bureau system, as it is riddled with inaccuracies and iniquities. Similarly, many people do not buy or sell without the use of credit or debit cards. Many consider the spending earmarks by the U.S. Congress and the president of the USA — especially President George W. Bush — to be Marks of the Beast, as no one can buy or sell without being affected by the earmarks.

Does 9/11/01 calculate from 666? It does, if you calculate Boeing 777, Boeing 767, and Boeing.

Rider on the Black Horse

The Rider on the Black Horse with scales in his hands is Gov. Edmund G. "Jerry" Brown, Jr., who was Attorney General of California before being re-elected Governor of California. Vice President Al Gore is another rider on a black horse. They have both literally said "Come!" many times and offered beers and wine at their homes to the Lamb/Son of Manu.

The Lamb Went to His Destruction and Was Pierced and Slain; the 3:00 a.m. Phone Call

The Lamb was indeed pierced and slain (Luke 9:22; Rev. 5:12; Rev. 5:6, NIV) by government agents on September 26, 2003, at about 1:00 a.m., at a nightclub in Washington, D.C., while he was with businesspeople from California and the Middle East. The Lamb engaged in various business functions that day with a financial firm and met with many prominent persons. In a Vanilla Sky-type moment, the Lamb joked with two different persons that it was the best day of his life, as several important deals were being completed and new deals were beginning. Subsequently, government agents ambushed the Lamb in a bathroom and hit him in the head with a hammer. The agents concocted a story and tried to make the incident look like a brawl or fight. The Lamb was in a blue suit, or "vestige or robes that were completely dripping or soaked in blood." The business card of the Lamb, with his name, was in his right pocket at his thigh and in the front pocket of his coat. The Lamb also had a mobile phone in his right pocket, at his right thigh, with his name on the welcome screen.

The Lamb was slain and pierced and went to his "destruction." The covert operatives who work most of the clubs on the street frequented by the Lamb immediately went into action to protect the image of the Lamb but cover up the incident. They did not allow the businesspeople to see what had happened. The government agents from another agency, who had committed the act of war against the Lamb, calculated that one of the businesspeople could claim the body early that morning, quietly cover up the incident, and inform the family of the death of the Lamb.

A stunned spy, who is actually a famous actress and singer, cleared the blood from the crime scene, and she, with help, put the body in an alley outside the club. The dead Lamb then came back to life, as agents watched, hailed a cab, and lay in the cab dripping in blood. The Lamb directed the taxi driver home, and not to the hospital, and even directed the taxi without sitting up or looking, while in a semi-conscious state. The Lamb then went home, slept in the bloody robes, and washed the suit and shirt the next day. The Lamb woke up at 6:30 a.m. and called a colleague from the night before to inform him that he could not attend a venture-capital meeting due to a disfigured face. The maid of the Lamb, also a spy, then cleaned the blood in the bedroom.

The Lamb paid the taxi driver for the stains and the return of his cell phone. Friends urged the Lamb/Son of Man to contact police and see doctors. The Lamb waited a few days, healed himself, and then went to doctors, who found slight damage to the nose and lip area, but no head injuries or brain damage. They had no idea that the Lamb had died, had been hit by a hammer, and had then resurrected himself. However, many world leaders and former world leaders were briefed immediately that the Lamb/Son of Man lay in robes dripping with blood, with his name at his thigh, and that the Lamb had gone to his destruction and come back to life. The world leaders were astonished, and this began an intensified war against the Lamb and his business and career activities.

Thus, very few people know that the Lamb died and came back to life and covered up the incident.

This is a very important fact. It is very rare in the history of the world that some living entity has died and come back to life almost immediately. The Lamb had done nothing wrong that night and was not inebriated. Like most allegations against the Lamb, a false story was concocted.

Many prominent United States leaders and former leaders, and national-security agencies, were briefed on the incident in systematic ways. Briefings were conducted both in person and by phone. The CCTV video was also passed around.

Jet's crash turns spotlight on secret 'stealth' project

□ Air Force remains mum, but identifies dead pilot Page A-12

By Julia Day
OF THE EXAMINER STAFF

PLEASANT HILL — This spring an East Bay aerospace writer published a small book on a military project the government refuses to acknowledge, which purportedly lets airplanes fly nearly undetected, and is costing the U.S. taxpayers billions of dollars.

Known as "stealth," the project came into the public eye Friday night when an unidentified military plane crashed in the Sequoia National Forest near Bakerfield, setting off a 150-acre brushfire that was controlled six hours later.

Military officials refused to divulge what kind of plane crashed, the base from which it took off or its mission, but numerous published reports said the plane apparently was an F-19 "stealth" fighter or a prototype for it.

Yesterday, Bill Sweetman, a Pleasant

Hill-based British journalist who has been fascinated by airplanes since he was a child, was inundated with calls from newspapers and television stations around the country asking for concrete information on a subject shrouded in secrecy for many years.

Air Force guards with automatic rifles sealed off a wide area around the burned crash site. The Pentagon declared the incident a national security matter.

In his book, "Stealth Aircraft," Sweetman says "stealth" fighters are tested in a closely guarded section of Nellis.

Sweetman, technical editor of the Swiss-based Interavia Publications, said the military would probably close for years the area in which the plane crashed.

In an interview with The Examiner, Sweetman said the U.S. Air Force owns an estimated 30 to 100 F-19s, which are made with radar-absorbing materials. At the Lockheed Corp.'s Burbank plant, 5,000 employees have spent billions of dollars building the sleek "wing" planes.

It is the top-secret, radar-absorbing material, Sweetman said, which will be scattered around the site. "Getting hold of a piece of this could be a major intelligence coup," Sweetman said.

The F-19 has been described as an experimental aircraft that would employ the latest electronic technology, materials and aerodynamic design to foil radar and infrared sensors.

Defense analysts told The Examiner that the "stealth" technology was original-

Ornate Hindu temple rises in Livermore tract

LIVERMORE — Lord Vishnu and his two consorts, Mother Earth and the Goddess of Love, had just arrived from India in the cargo section of a British Airways jetliner.

They were lying unceremoniously in the dusty garage of a Livermore tract home, rubbing grizzled shoulders with Ganesh, the Elephant God, and a host of other minor deities.

By this morning, however, they should be ritually enshrined in the just-completed Shiva-Vishnu Temple, an ancient Indian gem and Livermore landmark sure to become the architectural anachronism of the East Bay.

Pictures, if you will, a modern stone home in an ordinary California subdivision. Everything seems normal until you walk into the back yard. Suddenly, you're transported onto the pages of National Geographic.

Rising from the middle of a four-acre field ringed with tract homes are the spires of an ornate, red-brick temple. Topless Yedic priests with painted faces light small fires and ritually prepare the shrines of Vishnu, Shiva, Krishna, Rama and other Hindu deities.

Since early Wednesday morning, a half-dozen priests flown here from India have been consecrating the Shiva-Vishnu Temple through the painstaking procedure of a 5,000-year-old Hindu ritual known as the "kumbhabhishekam."

Their efforts were scheduled to be completed today with an Indian pagant featuring a live elephant procession and a burst of rose petals dropped from a hovering helicopter.

Operator's notes reveal his orders from Hawaii

By Phil Bronstein
OF THE EXAMINER STAFF

MANILA — Deposed President Ferdinand Marcos instructed the leaders of an attempted Philippine coup a week ago to draft a resolution demanding his return to the country and to send the resolution immediately to Ronald Reagan, according to sources familiar with the conversation.

Marcos also told Arturo Tolentino, his vice presidential running mate in last February's elections, and Rafael Recto, his attorney, that they would "just have to deal" with a military general who had, in the past, dispersed rallies of Marcos loyalists, but advised his allies "not to hurt the civilians" gathered to support them.

A telephone operator at the Manila Hotel, where Marcos loyalists staged their 36-hour rebellion beginning last Sunday afternoon, took notes on the 10-minute conversation between Marcos and two of his key supporters at the hotel.

Sources who saw the operator's three pages of handwritten notes revealed details of the contents to

Scientists grapple with questions carved out by runaway glacier

RUSSELL LAKE, Alaska — Marine biologist Tamra Farris, flying low in a seaplane, counts the harbor seals clustered on white icebergs floating in aquamarine waters near the Gulf of Alaska.

In the distance, the massive, blue-white Hubbard Glacier, which blocks the animals' escape to the sea, cracks and cracks.

In pinnacles on its face, some as tall as 350 feet, break off into new icebergs, crashing into the lake with the sound of an explosion. The ice breaks apart and bobs and turns in Russell Lake, which until this spring did not exist.

Fifteen harbor seal, seven harbor porpoise, two Dall's porpoise, she counts, marking the animals on her map.

When the glacier made its dramatic movement and closed off the Russell Fjord from Disenchantment Bay, it turned the estuary into a lake, trapping the marine wildlife.

Farris, from the National Marine Fisheries Service, 200 air miles away in Juneau, knows they can't survive if their saltwater food supply gives way to the fresh water filling the now glacierized inland sea. She's also not sure whether the body of water will freeze this winter, cutting them off from food.

But the plight of the marine mammals is only one of the mysteries that have come out of Hubbard's move.

Farris is a member of a team of scientists who will be remembered for their work to record and understand one of the major geologic events of our time.

Some time recently, probably between the middle of May and the beginning of June, the 95-mile-long Hubbard Glacier, probably nudged by the smaller Valerie Glacier, rapidly "surged" about a mile and a quarter.

Tax reform's down to finishing touches

FROM EXAMINER STAFF AND WIRE REPORTS

WASHINGTON — For days, the nation's capital has been sweltering in 90-plus temperatures. But Wednesday, the heat will really be on.

That's the day the House-Senate conference committee writing a compromise tax reform bill is scheduled to begin work.

The process of mulling the two versions is expected to take about a month. Although conferees will work in private, just about everyone with an interest in rewriting the nation's tax code

The House passed its bill last year. Since the Senate finished action on its bill last month, key lawmakers have been signaling some likely compromise.

Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, started the ball rolling when he offered a trade: the lower individual tax rates in the Senate bill for more breaks for middle-class taxpayers, paying for the

Bitter saga of the Buck Trust — from bomb to bust

By D'Arcy Fallon
OF THE EXAMINER STAFF

SAN RAFAEL — The case has been called a "philanthropic debacle" and a classic study in how not to administer a will.

The precedent-setting legal battle over the $425 million Buck Trust began ominously, like a paperback whodunit, and appears to be ending that way as well, with little out-of-court negotiations.

The bitter fight began when the San Francisco Foundation summoned a handful of Marin County community leaders to attend a brunch at its Larkspur office. It was a Sunday morning in January 1984; no explanation was given for the invitation.

Initially, at what was later dubbed "the snacked on cupcakes, juice and coffee. Then Rhoda Goldman, former head of the foundation's governing board, dropped a bomb.

Goldman said she wanted to brief the group, as a courtesy, because the next day the foundation planned to go to court to remove the restriction that allowed Beryl Buck's millions to be spent only in Marin County.

Reading from a statement, Goldman outlined the proposal before the stunned gathering. After a three-year transition period, the income generated by the Buck Trust would also be spent in San Mateo, Alameda, Contra Costa and San Francisco counties.

They were fighting words to Marin's community leaders, words that would later spark what county counsel Doug Maloney called "the Super Bowl of probate."

County Supervisor Al Aramburu, who was at the meeting, recalled: "There was a wave of shock that went through the crowd. I said, 'I'll see you in court.'"

The prediction was accurate. Now, 2½ years later, after five months of trial in Marin County Probate Court and after more than $8 million in legal fees and expenses have been incurred by a handful of attorneys representing seven different parties, the country's largest community foundation has been brought virtually to its knees.

Protracted negotiations have supplanted litigation during the last several weeks as visiting Santa Clara Judge Homer Thompson tries to forge a settlement.

Those opposed to breaking the trust include Marin County, Buck's survivors and her executor, the state attorney general's office, and the Marin Council of Agencies, 140 health and social service organizations. They've also asked the court to take the trust away from the foundation.

According to a well-placed source, the foundation has abandoned its efforts to remove the "Marin-only" restriction on the Buck Trust and agreed to relinquish control of the fund.

If the foundation loses control of the trust, its assets will dwindle from $600 million to $105 million, leaving it about $10 million a year instead of $40 million to disburse throughout the Bay Area.

Thompson removed the heart of the San Francisco Foundation's legal case when he ruled that it couldn't compare charitable

"We got caught in the Jones-town tuckhole," said Co-Chairman Durvasula Sattry, a Pacific resident and United Airlines engineer.

"We are responsible people. We have jobs. We are not like the Hare Krishnas. We don't chant 24 hours a day and hang around airports."

Sattry and other project leaders hope their temple — unique in that it incorporates the architectural styles of both northern and southern India — will be able to bring together the Hindu community in Northern California.

Two Hindu priests, one from the north and one from the south, have been hired so both styles of worship will be available at the temple.

"We are the only temple to do that — including temples in India," Sattry said. "There was a lot of controvery. They said you can't build one next to the other. We had to go to the chief exams in India to get permission. When they found out we were going to have separate entrances, they said it was OK."

Hinduism — whose offshoots include Buddhism, Sikhism and Jainism — is a primordial faith and the major religion of India.

Its teachings and practices have been popularized — some would say perverted — in the United States by the Hare Krishna sect and a stream of Indian gurus such as Maharshi Mahesh Yogi, the late Swami Mukundananda and Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh.

For most Indian-American believers, however, Hinduism revolves around the "old worship" of a dizzying array of colorful deities.

"Idol worship is for the common people," said Shree Sattry of Fremont. "They need some way to identify with the gods. All of the gods have human form. We have given them names as if they are like us. But they have godly powers."

Sattry spoke as master craftsmen from India put the finishing touches on a series of small shrines that will house the black granite and white marble deities.

"People who are enlightened can just concentrate on one part of God and go off," said Shastri, waving his arm and the brilliant colors of his Indian sari. "But they are different. Most people are involved in family life and worldly things. When they come here, they need something to identify with, something solid, something in front of their eyes to help them concentrate."

"What our philosophy says is you can worship Shiva, Vishnu or Rama in your own way, but you must understand that all these gods are all created by the infinite, nameless and formless God," said Ravi Chandran, chief priest at the temple.

Last week, the stone idols in the dusty garage were just beautifully carved statues. But once they are placed in the temple shrines, and the priests climb atop the temple to install vessels of holy water, the stone carvings are said to take on divine powers. After that, they can be touched only by the priests.

"Romichheri Sreenivasacharyulu, a priest who just arrived from India last week, has a two-year contract to preside over the Vishnu section of the temple."

"Vishnu is the greatest of the gods," said Sreenivasacharyulu, talking half in English, half in Sanskrit. "He creates. He destroys. Everything he can do."

DETAIL OF ORNATE CARVING AT HINDU TEMPLE IN LIVERMORE Temple combines architectural styles of north and south India

Shiva-Vishnu Temple is the third Hindu temple to open in the East Bay in the last several years. The East Bay is the last several years. The East Bay is the last several years. The East Bay is the last several years.

the Emeryville-based weekly paper, India-West, said the new Livermore project is "the first authentic temple" in Northern California.

The other temples are run out of old churches or private homes," Murarka said. "This is a replica of the temples in India."

Immigrants who came here during the 60s and 70s have sent back for their parents, who tend to be more religious and in need of temples.

Meanwhile, the children of recent immigrants are reaching the age where they've begun asking questions about their faith.

"They ask questions like 'Do Hindus follow Jesus Christ or Buddha?'" Murarka said.

Sattry, who immigrated in 1960, has two sons, 15-year-old Dinesh and 12-year-old Manoj. While Manoj is a "typical American kid," more interested in break dancing than Lord Vishnu, Dinesh has started asking questions about Hinduism.

"You can't just tell your kids how great the Hindu religion is," Sattry said. "And not provide an environment where they can see for themselves."

MANSION

cars and business interests in Manila were seized by the Corason Aquino government on suspicion that he obtained his wealth through illegal influence peddling.

Documents on file in San Mateo County show that Romaldez contributed more than $400,000 of the purchase price of the Atherton house.

However, the property's deed states that the owner of the mansion is not Romaldez, but a Filipino named Pedro A. Goni, 35, a real estate importer, whom friends both here and in the Philippines describe as a man of modest means.

A search of local public records indicates Goni owns no other real estate, and his chief asset seems to be his year-old Honda car. State corporate records show that Goni is president of a trading company that is attempting to import a brand of Philippine run to the United States, but liquor industry sources say the run is not yet available for sale here.

In addition, liens on file in San Francisco City Hall show that Goni owes the U.S. Internal Revenue Service more than $15,000 in unpaid income taxes from his days working in a Geary Street boutique a decade ago.

Nevertheless, documents on file in San Mateo County show that Great Pacific Savings and Loan Inc. of Burlingame last month loaned Goni $60,000 to buy the Atherton mansion.

The property's original owners, John Worthing and Colin Whitelide, loaned Goni an additional $175,000 on a second mortgage, according to the documents.

The balance of the purchase price — $62,425 — was loaned to Goni by Romaldez himself in the form of a third mortgage, the documents show.

Real estate experts told The Examiner that loan payments and property taxes on the house probably range between $10,000 and $14,000 per month depending on interest rates.

According to both Philippine sources and residents of Atherton, Romaldez, and not Goni, moved into the house — with his wife, children and servants — shortly after the file was transferred in June. Goni, who says he is a former school chum of Romaldez, according to several sources, continued to live in his girlfriend's town house in Foster City.

In a brief interview, Goni denied that he owes the IRS $15,000, and complained that Examiner inquiries about him had led anti-Marcos Filipinos to harass him. He refused to comment on the purchase of the Atherton mansion or on his relationship with Romaldez.

Walter Sander, vice president of Great Pacific Savings & Loan, refused to comment on why the bank loaned about $1 million to enable a borrower with tax liabilities to make a no-money-down real estate purchase.

"We have a responsibility to our borrower not to comment," he said. "The loans that we make are a matter of public record."

Romaldez did not respond to written interview requests left at the Atherton Avenue house and at a Parkmerced apartment that he is renting. The Examiner also left messages for Romaldez with intermediaries.

Three financial experts consulted by The Examiner independently concluded that details of the sale — especially the 100 percent financing — made no sense unless it is a so-called "second-party" transaction in which the identity of the actual buyer and additional collateral he has offered to secure the loan, are not revealed in public documents.

"I don't see how the lender could be comfortable with this transaction," said one expert. "You've got to have a front man here."

Inferred sources said the Atherton house was purchased in such a fashion in hopes of shielding its real owner in the event the Aquino government attempted to seize the property.

With her assistance, he set up both a television advertising brokerage and an air-freight company. In 1976, when Marcos imported 300 Mercedes-Benz autos to Manila for use by officials at a conference of the International Monetary Fund, Romaldez was given the franchise to resell the vehicles at a profit after the conference ended.

He served as presidential press spokesman and deputy minister of information during Marcos' last presidential campaign.

In addition, several knowledgeable sources contend that Romaldez developed a thriving business as a presidential go-between in a hostile environment in which many projects rose or fell according to the whims of Marcos.

"If you had a business deal and you wanted to approach Marcos, Romaldez would arrange an appointment," said one Philippine businessman who asked not to be identified. "Then, if the deal went through, you had to give Romaldez a percentage fee pro rata. If not, you had to pay him a fee."

The Aquino government has not charged Romaldez with any crimes in connection with those activities, but it has "sequestered" that is, confiscated — his property in the Philippines on the suspicion that his wealth was obtained through illegal influence peddling.

According to documents on file in the United States, Romaldez began investing in California real estate in 1962, when he set up a Northridge-Antilles corporation called High Yield NV and bought a $120,000 San Francisco condominium.

In 1965, Romaldez and his uncle, former ambassador to the United States Eduardo Romaldez, formed a California real estate corporation called Tolosa Resources. The firm owns a $300,000 house in Canoga Park in Southern California.

Romaldez left Manila shortly after Marcos' ouster and stopped in New York before coming to San Francisco, according to Immigration and Naturalization Service records. A Philippine national, Romaldez received a temporary business visa last March, which has been extended until September, according to INS records.

While here, according to documents and sources, he rented an apartment at Parkmerced, bought a new Volvo sedan, and began looking at mansions in Atherton with the assistance of a Daly City real estate agent named Rafael A. Eugenio, a business associate of Pedro Goni.

Less than six weeks after Romaldez's reported house hunt began, Goni borrowed $1.5 million to buy the 5,000-square-foot house on Atherton Avenue and Romaldez and his family moved into it. Eugenio represented Goni in the transaction, according to documents.

Eugenio did not return phone calls from an Examiner reporter.

People who live in the neighborhood say the new occupants of the house tend to keep up themselves and rarely venture out beyond the estate's security gate.

MARCOS

— From A-1

The Examiner on the condition that they not be identified.

They indicated that Marcos suggested there were three spies employed at the hotel who were giving the exiled leader information on events there.

The sources cautioned that the notes "may not be complete" because the female operator was being watched at the time of the call by some of the Marcos loyalists inside the hotel.

The operator, who was not identified, was to be questioned by Philippine military investigators today and to provide a sworn statement.

Marcos has denied that he issued instructions during the attempted coup or that he had advance knowledge that it would take place. A spokesman in Hawaii said Marcos was merely monitoring the "spontaneous events."

President Reagan, in an interview late last week, said he did not believe that Marcos had been involved in "the little abortive coup that took place the other day."

U.S. officials had warned earlier that Marcos' visit to Manila in Hawaii might be jeopardized if he was shown to be contributing to political unrest in the Philippines.

One Philippine government official, who has seen the transcript, said yesterday that there is "no doubt in my mind, based on the notes of the phone call, that Marcos was directing the show."

The telephone conversation was "the only exchange we know about" between Marcos and the leaders of the brief rebellion, the official said, "but there may have been others."

Marcos placed the monitored call to the Manila Hotel from his Honolulu home-exile at approximately 3 a.m. PST Sunday, 90 minutes after the rebellion began, the sources said yesterday.

After their weekly rally at a public grandstand adjacent to the hotel, approximately 8,000 Marcos holides had swarmed into the hotel lobby along with a contingent of 300 armed troops.

Volante, stating that he was acting on instructions from Marcos, then was sworn in as president by a former Supreme Court justice. The group took over the hotel, proclaiming that they represented the true government of the Philippines.

The coup began to falter when Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile, who had also served Marcos and who had led the successful 1973-backed military rebellion that deposed Marcos in February, refused to join the loyalists.

By Monday morning, Tolentino and his supporters abandoned their efforts and left the hotel. During his 10-minute phone call, Marcos spent five minutes with Enrile, a former assemblyman and leader of Marcos' one-time ruling party. Enrile also represents Marcos as his attorney in the scores of cases filed against the ex-president in the Philippines.

Marcos then talked with Tolentino for the rest of the call.

According to the sources who saw the operator's transcript, Marcos asked if Ali Limapora, a Muslim warlord from the southern island of Mindanao who has stubbornly refused Aquino government efforts to disband his private army, had arrived at the hotel. Although Limapora showed up later, Marcos was told he was not yet there.

Enrile then asked "are you sure about" the reliability of two generals, Jose Zuniel, who had joined the loyalists in the hotel, and Montano, who had regularly been breaking up pro-Marcos rallies.

Marcos indicated Zuniel was not a problem, but that Montano was questionable, according to the sources. Marcos reportedly said Zuniel "will just have to deal" with the United States this fall.

Chapter 13 — The Lamb's Job Description

The Lamb will be King of Kings and Lord of Lords and will thus ultimately oversee the probity and effectiveness of world governance and public-policy-making, and play a major role in the Global Planning Council by deciding which problems will be solved by divine or supernatural solutions and intervention. The Lamb will be the titular head of all the world's armies and militaries and will establish, administer, and oversee the tradition of war games and military exercises between nations. Comity between nations will be celebrated, and enmity and animosity between nations will be abolished.

As the Lamb/Son of Man has, and will have, even more extraordinary multitasking capabilities, the Lamb will serve many corporations and businesses at the Chairman/CEO level, including those in sectors such as media/entertainment, fashion, banking/finance, and technology, and perhaps even the auto, chemical, oil, energy, and telecom sectors. In order to maintain his status as the primary market maker in a global, hybrid economy based on a revised form of market-based capitalism, the Lamb/Son of Man/Master will maintain majority ownership in various corporations and financial institutions. The Lamb will directly or indirectly determine the appropriate price/earnings ratio for a given public equity, without encouraging unnecessary and unjustified inflationary pressure. There will be quality-based competition instead of only bottom-line-based competition, with best business practices often incorporated within this same context — but not at the expense of communities, jobs, worker benefits, and wages. There could be a move away from quarterly earnings reports toward biannual and annual reports, in order to curb volatility in the markets and encourage long-range planning by corporations.

There will be an international version of the central bank, and an international Federal Reserve Board, as well as "sister" member boards within the various members of the global confederacy of partially "independent" nations. The Lamb will sit on these boards, or at least abide by their advice, but in the end will use divine methods to ensure that fiscal and monetary policy is optimal, equitable, and successful. Dr. Alan Greenspan, Dr. Laura D'Andrea Tyson, Dr. Y. V. Reddy (IAS), Dr. Duvvuri Subbarao (IAS), Dr. Ben Bernanke, Janet Yellen, Austan Goolsbee, and Jerome Powell, among others, will find a place on these international boards.

The Lamb/Son of Man will administer a type of national-security/asset tax (a concept coined by economist Ravi Batra of Texas), as national security will be provided by the Lamb and God, and those who have accumulated enormous net assets have the most to lose from threats to the border, the security, or the integrity of a nation. A net-asset tax is difficult to administer because of manipulation by accountants and lawyers and because of cheating. However, the Lamb and his angels will administer an asset tax without being susceptible to cheating or manipulation, by use of divine powers. Income tax will eventually be phased out of the global tax regimes.

Thus, the financial market — now known as the "free" market — will function appropriately, but it will be a clear and transparent fact that God and the Lamb are the Masters of the market and "Masters of the Universe." You cannot serve two masters, both money and God, and thus the market will have only one master.

The Lamb will also resurrect the dead and provide eternal life to many. He will also heal the sick, the blind, the deaf, the mute, the physically challenged, the mentally challenged, the chemically dependent, and others in pain. The Lamb and God will also help reverse aging to some extent in the elderly, and the Lamb will allow many elderly people to rejuvenate themselves by freeing them from the curses of old age, such as frailty, arthritis, balding, and loss of sexual appetite and function. There shall be no more curses on humans, and thus women will not have the "inconvenient" cramps and bleeding and other "curses" during their menstrual cycles.

The Lamb will perform most duties of creation and destruction on Earth. The Lamb and God will also receive feedback from followers, prophets, saints, and servants in order to maintain the proper quality of human life, including education and other socioeconomic and quality-of-life measures.

Chapter 14 — Consequences of a New World and Heaven on Earth

The Lamb/Son of Man spends a great deal of time and thought on, and with, the politicians, public servants, media elite, opinion-makers, the ambitious, and sometimes even the idealistic. These are the people who will require the most adjustment in the Kingdom of God, and the most adjusted notion of what is right and wrong, and efficient or appropriate.

The majority of working families, students, entrepreneurs, and business executives will find the Kingdom of God to be an ideal paradise and will be very happy that the world is heading toward a utopian state. However, the political elite, the most ambitious, and the public servants will, in the long run, have to adjust certain ideals of what constitutes ultimate success and what is an ideal system of governance, economy, and the like. Life will not be a zero-sum game. As the Lamb and God solve many serious problems with the help of divine powers and angels with superhuman powers, the public servants will feel a void that must be filled by the exploration of new lands, by newly resurrected historical personalities, and by the idea that the Lamb and God will always be the ultimate authority and that God will rule permanently on Earth. Human leaders, those with the calling to do great things, will have much to do, but should also realize that the great improvements — and the debates about improvements — will eventually be on the margins of perfection, as we work toward a more perfect, just, and heavenly world.

Who does the jobs that the wealthy, or even the middle class, do not want to do? The question of who will do the jobs once done by the poor and middle class is important in a world that moves toward a zero poverty rate and a better quality of life. The jobs once done by the poor and middle class, but now facing a shortage of workers, will be done by the Lamb/Son of Man's own angels, who are not human.

Whom can the wealthy look down upon, ridicule, or insult in a world without poverty? This is not a necessary condition or attribute of a "utopian" society or of Heaven, and thus there will not be much effort put toward preserving this luxury, unless it is in the context of appropriate constructive criticism, satire, or comedy.

What will happen to professions that thrive on problems or conflicts? They will be reformed and then compensated. For example, the Lord of Lords will solve many of the problems now reserved for doctors, prosecutors, police, lawyers, and politicians. However, these professions — including plastic surgery, dentistry, the clergy, and others that people will move away from in order to seek more permanent and direct solutions from God and the Lamb — will be maintained and attended to, so as to prevent massive dislocation or economic upheaval. This would include the drug industry, the energy and oil industry, the military-industrial complex, the medical and law-enforcement industries and agencies, and even the world's military organizations and services.

What will happen to the residents of the small town in India that will suddenly become the "New Jerusalem" and expand into a type of nation-state? The people of Peddapuram and nearby areas — many of them of modest means and skills — will be given the proper and appropriate hard skills and soft skills, including linguistic skills and etiquette, according to their prayers, and will also be given wealth and wardrobes commensurate with the requirements of the New Jerusalem, so that they will not feel intimidated or intruded upon by visitors. The transformation will occur in an almost seamless fashion, and the people will not harbor resentment. Many of the resorts, hotels, restaurants, and other institutions in the New Jerusalem will be staffed by the Lord's angels, who have superhuman capabilities. It will be amazing, and it will take place according to the lifelong wishes of D. V. Subba Rao.

Abortion. The "Mother of All Abominations" can refer to corruption, wars, failed policies, and injustices. However, this phrase can also refer to abortions and to surprise or unplanned children or pregnancies. Thus, the Lamb/Son of Man supports the Roe v. Wade disposition of the U.S. Supreme Court (and the legally constructed "right to privacy" that it guaranteed) and has explained that the "soul" is added to the fetus — thereby constituting "life" — only at the time of birth. And since the Lamb/Son of Man was a member of the Democratic Party leadership in the past, it can be extrapolated that one meaning for "abominations" is "unplanned pregnancies." However, no one should be pro-abortion or celebrate abortions.

Description of the Kalki Avatar and his supernatural powers in Hindu scriptures. The Mahabharata is more specific in its description of the Kalki Avatar. On being asked by Yudhishtira, the sage Markandeya describes the Kalki incarnation. He says that, inspired by the Supreme Spirit, in a certain village called Shambhala, a son will be born in the house of a Brahmin named Vishnuyasha, and this boy's name shall be Kalki Vishnuyasha. This Brahmin boy shall be an extremely powerful, intelligent, and valiant personage. He shall obtain all weapons, armies, and so on, at will. Collecting a huge army of Brahmin warriors, he shall set about restoring the order of righteousness in the world. He shall not only re-establish the rule of dharma but shall also herald the advent of the Golden Age, or the Satya Yuga, of the next cycle of time.

In a talk with the sage Markandeya a few years before the Kali Age began (recorded in the Mahabharata), Lord Vishnu told how Light would come to Earth when the evils of the Kali Age had reached a level that required the direct action of God. Lord Vishnu said to the sage: "When evil is rampant upon this earth, I will take birth in the family of a virtuous man and assume a human body to restore tranquility by the extermination of all evils... I will be born in a family in South India. This Avatar will possess great energy, great intelligence, and great powers... He will restore order and peace in the world... He will roam over the earth adored by the spiritual people."

This prophecy concerning the Kalki Avatar, from the Mahabharata, is corroborated in the ancient classic the Vishnu Purana, which also mentions that this Avatar will display great superhuman powers in establishing the new Age of Truth. It adds that "his parents will be devotees of Vishnu, and will reside in a village worshipping the cowherd form of Sri Krishna."

Why was the Lamb/Son of Man (as was President George Bush) dancing and doing such things a decade ago? He was humbling himself like a child, as in the scriptures. However, the main reason he was dancing (though not in a serious, disciplined, or skillful way) is that intelligence agencies and Hindus are looking for signs of whether the Lamb is Lord Shiva, and Lord Shiva is known for dancing. Thus, the Lamb/Son of Man put on a dancing show at times. Other attributes and characteristics can be explained as well. Similarly, Lord Krishna was known for playing the flute and singing.

Immaculate Conception and the fusion of the Holy Trinity into the virgin birth of a divine soul. On March 13, 1971, the Holy Trinity — Lord Brahma (the Holy Spirit), Lord Shiva (the Father), and Lord Vishnu (the Son) — fused, merged into, or created a divine soul that entered and was attached to the soul and fetus of Dinesh S. Sastry, the Lamb/Son of Man. This, in effect, was a form of immaculate conception, or virgin birth, of the divine soul of the Savior.

Jesus Christ crucified, and the Lamb/Son of Man pierced and slain and targeted in war. The Lamb/Son of Man and Jesus Christ suffered ridicule and crucifixion as a gift to the human race. Jesus suffered in order to save the human race from sin and from the stringent rules, or dharma, set by God and religion. The prevailing conditions for Hindus, Christians, Jews, and Muslims to enter Heaven, receive true salvation, or enter the Kingdom of God set a very high standard for the human race, collectively and individually, to adhere to. Thanks to Jesus Christ, D. V. Subba Rao and the Lamb/Son of Man were sent in order to change certain definitions of the proscriptions, or limiting conditions, for entry into Heaven. Additionally, all prophets and saints, such as Moses and Abraham, and the Counselor, were created as imperfect souls or vessels, with an eye toward absolving many people from punishment for common weaknesses, as these prophets had the same weaknesses. The irony should not be lost on anyone. This is why Jesus Christ was crucified; otherwise, no person would satisfy the Ten Commandments or Lord Krishna's dharma as set out in the Bhagavad Gita.

Book of Life. The Book of Life is written in the leaves of the Nadi Shastras, which are leaves written by sages according to the Lord's description of each human being's life.

Future of the Vedas. The Rig Veda will remain relevant. The Sama Veda will remain relevant. However, the Yajur Veda will be less relevant in the Kingdom of God, which is Heaven on Earth. This is because the Yajur Veda advocates renunciation of worldly possessions, activities, and wants, and the life of a sanyasi, as a method and means to achieve salvation, or moksha. However, when the Kingdom of God is Heaven on Earth and eternal life for the children of God, then this is, by definition, automatic moksha, or salvation, and thus the Yajur Veda is not as relevant.

The spectrum of color. In the spectrum of color, black is the absence of any color, and white is the combination of all primary colors merged together. Thus, the robes of the people will be made "white" in the blood of the Lamb. This is a figurative description, not a literal one.

Angels from Heaven. The angels from Heaven who follow the Lamb/Son of Man, and the Brahmin angels who follow the Kalki Avatar, are not human and have some divine knowledge and powers. They work in various intelligence agencies, hospitals, emergency medical services, militaries, police departments, and law-enforcement agencies, and as lawyers, doctors, and businesspeople, and even as Mafia and gang members. They are everywhere, and they carry out God's orders and help fulfill God's words and prophecies. They are certainly in the FBI, CIA, KGB, U.S. military, U.S. Secret Service, various American and Indian hospitals, the CBI in India, the RAW in India, and the IB in India. They can read the mind of the Lamb/Son of Man and also read the future, and thus they act without explicit orders; they also supply information that the Holy Spirit passes through them to the Lamb/Son of Man.

Why are Hindu gods and goddesses pictured with multiple arms and multiple heads? The gods can be divided among more than one person and appear in different forms; thus, they are depicted with multiple heads and arms.

Why do bad things happen to good people? Prayers and rituals can help mitigate or assuage a bad period or bad karma, and create good karma, but much of karma is predetermined by your fate, destiny, and past life. Fate and destiny are the result of the positions of the planets and stars at the time of your birth. Karma factors your fate and destiny together with the sins and good deeds of past and present lives. Prayer can affect karma to differing degrees, depending on the individual soul and the situation or circumstances. Many who die now are resting from their labors, as they are dying in the Lamb/Son of Man/Kalki Avatar, and they will be resurrected with a better life than before.

In the Kingdom of God, most people will start with salvation, or moksha — especially infants and small children — and will not receive bad karma as a result of evil deeds or sins. They will be judged by God and the Lamb/Son of Man and will not be burdened by horoscope, fate, destiny, or karma.

Why has the United States maintained porous borders? For the past four decades, the United States has maintained relatively porous borders and a liberal immigration policy, hoping that California, New York, or Washington, D.C., might become the New Jerusalem and the Kingdom of God. It is written that "the gates to the city will never be shut, day or night." This was taken to mean that the borders of the United States should not block immigrants, if the USA wanted to become the New Jerusalem and the Kingdom of God.

Chapter 15 — Marriage Bureau

The Lamb/Kalki/Son of Man will create a marriage bureau for close friends and family that uses various technologies, powers, and future-reading to connect brides and grooms with their lifetime soulmate. Admiration for the bureau, and envy, will cause the citizens of many nations and many ethnic backgrounds to demand access and coverage under such an "arranged marriage" bureau. The Lamb/Ram will originally make it available only to close friends and family, as part of a master plan, and will not force such a bureau on the people in a coercive or precipitous way.

Heaven will fit on Earth. The Earth will retain many of its characteristics, to promote continuity, fond memories, and the celebration of institutions and cultures. However, Heaven and the Resurrection will fit on Earth, in terms of both space and emotions, as much of the seas and oceans will turn to land and uncover surprises. As said before, the Kingdom of God will not be a fascist society, but rather a nearly utopian one, with just the right amount of tension, surprise, unpredictability, diversity, and problems to keep talented people — including the Lamb/Son of Man and God — busy enough to avoid complacency and retain proper stimulation of the senses.

The Holder of the Keys to the Abyss and the Destroyer of Evils. Lord Shiva lived in an abyss, or cave, on Mount Kailash in the Himalayas. Lord Shiva has the keys to the abyss. Lord Shiva is the King and angel of the abyss. In Hebrew he is referred to as Abaddon, and in Greek as Apollyon, meaning Destroyer.

Theory of evolution and creationism. If you study the Vishnu Purana, you will read that there are ten official, predestined incarnations of Vishnu (the Son of God), and perhaps several more, because the eighth incarnation, Lord Krishna, stated in the Bhagavad Gita that he would incarnate from time to time, when necessary. Lord Ram is the seventh incarnation of Vishnu and the first completely human and civilized incarnation. There were six other incarnations of the Son of God in subhuman forms, such as micro-organisms and animals — fish, reptiles, amphibians, and mammals. Thus, God incarnated several times along the way in order to further the process of evolution (Darwinism). Thus, there is merit in both the arguments for evolution and the arguments for creationism. God is the catalyst, or driving force, in the theory of evolution and the furtherance of science. Do not destroy the Earth, as it is God's creation.

"Deep Throat" as a code word. "Deep Throat" refers not to any individual or person, but to the secret that Lord Shiva is the key to all revelations and prophecies, is the "Father," and is also represented by his phallic symbol — the Shiva Lingam, thought to represent male or cosmic energy. You will get eternal life "by eating and drinking the flesh and blood" of the Lamb and God. However, this is actually a mystical drink called Soma (also called "living water"), and it will be explained at the appropriate time, so as not to confuse doctors and chemists now. This is why the descendants of Abraham call "circumcision" their "covenant" with God: circumcision creates the appearance of the Shiva Lingam, as the Shiva Lingam is rounded off at the top. Thus, "Deep Throat" refers only to Lord Shiva, and also to the fact that some vile humor and innuendo by comedians about prophets, saints, and other servants will be allowed, but blasphemy against God and the Lamb and their families will not be tolerated in the Kingdom of God, as it would subvert the faith of young people who are too young to understand.

Timetables for the Day of the Lord

The Lamb/Son of Man cannot announce a timetable for the Day of the Lord, the Resurrection, or the ending of conflicts. As the scriptures say, "armies will surround Jerusalem," but these things must happen, as must "rumors of war" with Iran or other conflicts.

No one may know the hour or the day of the Lord — not even the angels from Heaven, but only the Father. The Father does become the Son, and the Son becomes the Father, but this is an internal matter and not for public scrutiny. Also, because of the various cycles of time that Buddha explained, the Earth has been destroyed many times and re-created with the same actors repeatedly. However, this time the world will not be destroyed completely; Heaven, or the Kingdom of God, will be on Earth, and the Lamb and God will live forever on Earth with the children of God.

As the angels from Heaven have seen the cycles before, they know what will happen even before it happens. It is as if they are reading from an arranged guidebook or a "scroll." They will assist the intelligence agencies, world militaries, and world leaders in planning for the Day of the Lord, and will know the day, but not the precise hour. We must assiduously follow the scriptures and revelations, as no word may be removed from them, to prevent evil forces (the Devil, Satan, or Dragon) from arising again in one thousand years.

Please remember that the brides of the Lamb are young, and that many of the female followers of the Lamb are patiently waiting, with some precedent-setting age considerations. Similarly, the dead who are actually dead, and those whose deaths have been "fabricated," are also patiently waiting for the Resurrection. Thus, we know the Day of the Lord is coming soon — perhaps before the coming of the Seventh King, that is, the seventh elected president during the lifetime of the Lamb/Son of Man.

Chapter 16 — The Creation of the Divine Sun, God, and Universe

A supernatural force created the Sun, and the Sun God created Lord Vishnu, who then created Lord Brahma, Lord Shiva, and the Universe. Then Lord Brahma created the Vedas and the first human being, Svayambhuva Manu — the origin of the words human and man. Lord Shiva destroyed the world with a flood, and Manu saved all animals and human life in pairs. Lord Shiva destroyed the world because he found it boring and homogeneous, with only Indians and Hindus. Lord Vishnu granted Manu the status of always being the father of Lord Vishnu when he descends to Earth. Vishnu also incarnated several times in subhuman forms to further the process of evolution.

Ultimately, humans were created en masse, and Lord Shiva helped by incarnating as Lord Hanuman, who was granted eternal life, still lives today, and is a duplicate entity of Lord Shiva. He has allowed the pillaging and conquering of India in the name of diversity, at the urging of Lord Vishnu, who loves different foods, different cultures, and different beautiful women. Lord Shiva also came as Durvasa Maharishi, who gave birth to the Pandavas, the cousins of Lord Krishna (Vishnu).

The world has gone through several cycles of creation and destruction, as explained by Buddha (also Vishnu) in the Kalachakra Tantra in Peddapuram, Andhra Pradesh, India, which can be monitored and proven from another planet in the universe called Vishnu Lok. In the most recent era, Lord Shiva gave the laws of God to Moses on Mount Kailash, and Moses started Judaism with a bond to a sacred stone, the Shiva Lingam, which led to circumcision. Earlier, Lord Brahma came as Abraham, and Lord Shiva came as King David. Lord Shiva also created the Egyptian civilization.

Jesus Christ came in this era as a Jew and helped create more diversity around the world by asking for the good news to be preached everywhere. He also spoke about the Resurrection and eternal life. He was counseled by Hindu gurus in India. He told the whole world that the Messiah would be the Son of Manu, in keeping with the Svayambhuva Manu boon of being father of God. Svayambhuva Manu is also Lord Ganesha, son of Lord Shiva. Guru Nanak was created to stop Hindus from being raped and forcibly converted by Muslim invaders — hence the Sikh religion. Prophet Muhammad was created to establish the concept that God is great, almighty, and omnipotent; that beef-eating is allowed; and that women, as those who receive and can become pregnant, carry both an honor (motherhood) and, in some situations, a burden.

There will be celestial angels in the Kingdom of God to satisfy the male sexual appetite. Many women in Bollywood, Hollywood, music, and politics are pretending to be promiscuous to mimic the end-times prophecies of the end of the Kali Yuga and Biblical Revelation 14:4 (NIV), in which the followers are purchased from among many and follow the King of Kings and Lord of Lords around the world for eternity as first fruits to the Lord — like Lord Krishna's Gopikas and multiple wives. The same prophet who is John the Baptist is also Guru Nanak and Prophet Muhammad.

The weather, the climate, and natural resources will be controlled by the King of Kings and Lord of Lords and a global planning council of human beings. The debts of countries will be paid off by the Kalki Avatar, according to the Master-and-talents provision of the Bible. The King of Kings will be the wealthiest and most powerful person in the history of humankind and will lead with divine knowledge, creating a utopian world in which there is no more dying, crying, or pain — with the help of human leaders. Heaven will be a Kingdom on Earth, and God will live forever on Earth and introduce other planets to those who have attained salvation, or moksha. This is also thanks to Jesus Christ, who loved all kinds of people and was crucified for humanity's sins, and to those who acted as Gog, Magog, and Satan in fulfilling the scriptures of all religions — for there is a continuous and contiguous relationship between all the words and revelations of God. Once the genie is out of the bottle, those words must be fulfilled.

Kalki: The Next Avatar of God and the End of Kali-Yuga

By Stephen Knapp, excerpted from The Vedic Prophecies (reprinted with permission).

The age of Kali-yuga is said to start from the year 3102 BC, after the disappearance of Lord Krishna. Lord Caitanya appeared 500 years ago, at which time the Golden Age within Kali-yuga is supposed to start and last another 10,000 years. As the Golden Age within Kali-yuga comes to a close, the lower modes of material nature will become so strong that people will lose interest in spiritual topics... Finally, after 432,000 years from the beginning of the age of Kali, Lord Kalki will appear as the twenty-second incarnation of God. This is very similar to what some people call the second coming of Christ.

Chapter 17 — The Appearance of Lord Kalki

The following three chapters are excerpted, with permission, from Stephen Knapp's The Vedic Prophecies ("Kalki: The Next Avatar of God and the End of Kali-Yuga"), and are reprinted here with gratitude.

There are many incarnations of the Supreme Being. As the Srimad-Bhagavatam (1.3.26) states, "O brahmanas, the incarnations of the Lord are innumerable, like rivulets flowing from inexhaustible sources of water." Yet out of all these incarnations, the Srimad-Bhagavatam (1.3.28) specifically declares, krishnas tu bhagavan svayam — that Lord Sri Krishna is the original Supreme Personality of Godhead. All others are His plenary portions, or parts of His plenary portions, who descend into this material world to carry out particular responsibilities, especially when the planet is overly disturbed by miscreants and atheists. In Kali-Yuga, many years pass amid constant disturbance and social upheaval, but the Vedic literature predicts that, at the end, Lord Kalki will appear to change everything:

"Thereafter, at the conjunction of two yugas [Kali-Yuga and Satya-Yuga], the Lord of creation will take His birth as the Kalki incarnation and become the son of Vishnuyasha. At this time, the rulers of the earth will have degenerated into plunderers." (Bhagavatam 1.3.25)

"Lord Kalki will appear in the home of the most eminent brahmana of Shambhala village, the great soul Vishnuyasha." (Bhagavatam 12.2.18)

"At the end of Kali-Yuga, when there exist no topics on the subject of God, even at the residences of so-called saints and respectable gentlemen... and when the power of government is transferred to the hands of ministers elected from the lowborn class... at that time the Lord will appear as the supreme chastiser." (Bhagavatam 2.7.38)

The Vishnu Purana (Book Four, Chapter 24) also explains that when the practices taught in the Vedas and the institutes of law have nearly ceased, and the close of the Kali age is near, a portion of that divine being — who exists of His own spiritual nature, who is the beginning and the end, and who comprehends all things — shall descend upon earth. He will be born in the family of Vishnuyasha, an eminent brahmana of Shambhala village, as Kalki, endowed with eight superhuman faculties.

The Agni Purana (16.7-9) explains that when the non-Aryans who pose as kings begin devouring those who appear righteous, Kalki, as the son of Vishnuyasha — with Yajnavalkya as His priest and teacher — will destroy them with His weapons and re-establish moral law in the form of the four varnas, the suitable organization of society. The Padma Purana (6.71.279-282) relates that Lord Kalki will end the age of Kali, destroy the wicked, gather the distinguished brahmanas, and propound the highest truth; He will be the one ruler of the world who cannot be controlled, the very banner of victory.

By the time Lord Kalki appears, the planet will be filled with people unable to follow logical conversation — too slow-minded and dull-witted to be taught much, especially regarding the higher purpose of life. They will not know how to live, nor be able to change their ways. Therefore Lord Kalki comes not to teach, but to chastise, punish, and cleanse the planet. The verses also name the place of His appearance and the family of His birth — qualified brahmanas — which means that a line of spiritually qualified brahmanas will remain on the planet throughout the age of Kali, however hidden. In this connection, the Padma Purana (6.242.8-12) predicts that Lord Kalki will be born in Shambhala to a brahmana who is an incarnation of Svayambhuva Manu. Pleased by Svayambhuva's austerities, Lord Vishnu granted that He would appear as Svayambhuva's son three times — as Rama, Krishna, and Kalki — so that Svayambhuva would appear as Dasaratha, Vasudeva, and then Vishnuyasha.

Chapter 18 — The Activities of Lord Kalki

The Srimad-Bhagavatam (12.2.19–20) describes Lord Kalki's activities:

"Lord Kalki, the Lord of the universe, will mount His swift white horse, Devadatta, and, sword in hand, travel over the earth exhibiting His eight mystic opulences and eight special qualities of Godhead. Displaying His unequaled effulgence and riding with great speed, He will kill by the millions those thieves who have dared dress as kings."

As the Vedic literature explains, when the Supreme kills anyone, that person is immediately purified by His touch and, focused on the Supreme Being while leaving the body, attains the same destination as the yogis who spend years steadying the mind in meditation. So being slain by the Supreme is a great advantage even for those of a demoniac mentality, who would otherwise descend into lower realms.

The Vishnu Purana (Book Four, Chapter 24) continues: "By His irresistible might He will destroy all the thieves and all whose minds are devoted to iniquity. He will re-establish righteousness upon earth, and the minds of those who live at the end of the Kali age shall be awakened and shall be as clear as crystal. The men thus changed shall be the seeds of human beings and shall give birth to a race that will follow the laws of the Krita age [Satya-Yuga]." The Agni Purana (16.10) adds that Hari, after giving up the form of Kalki, will return to heaven, and the Krita, or Satya-Yuga, will return as before.

Additional detail appears in the Linga, Brahmanda, and Vayu Puranas. As Kali-Yuga ends, Kalki takes birth in the Lunar dynasty of Manu and wanders the planet unseen. He begins His campaign in His thirty-second year and roams the earth for twenty years, accompanied by a great army of spiritually purified brahmanas — their weapons activated by mantras, such as the powerful brahmastra, rather than ordinary arms — and destroys the wicked kings and false prophets. When He is finished, He rests in the land between the Ganges and the Yamuna, allowing a few people to remain, scattered, as seeds for the next Satya-Yuga; then He returns to His eternal abode with His army. When those who survive at the end of Kali-Yuga become enlightened, the yuga changes overnight: with inevitable force, Satya-Yuga sets in, people realize the soul and acquire piety and tranquility, and the Saptarishis — the seven sages — return to instruct everyone in spiritual life and the progressive organization of society.

Chapter 19 — The Return of the Golden Age — Satya-Yuga

Thus Lord Kalki chastises by removing the evil kings and rogues, ushering in a new era of enlightened beings whose minds are as clear as crystal. The Srimad-Bhagavatam (12.2.21–24) describes how, after the false kings have been killed, the remaining residents of the towns and cities will smell the breezes carrying the sacred aroma of the Lord's sandalwood paste, and their minds will become spiritually purified. When the Supreme Being appears in their hearts in His form of pure goodness, they will repopulate the earth in goodness, and Satya-Yuga will begin again. As the Bhagavatam (12.2.34) relates, after one thousand celestial years of Kali-Yuga, Satya-Yuga will again manifest, and the minds of men will be self-effulgent.

The Vishnu Purana (Book Four, Chapter 1) explains that the Vedas and the principles of sanatana-dharma fade from the planet at the end of every four ages, and that it falls to the seven universal sages, the Saptarishis, to give the Vedic knowledge currency again, descending from the higher planets if need be. The Bhagavatam (12.2.37–38) and the Vishnu Purana further predict that two persons — Devapi, of the race of Puru and brother of King Shantanu, and Maru, a descendant of King Ikshvaku — are even now alive by their great mystic strength, residing in the village of Kalapa and waiting for the end of Kali-Yuga. At the dawn of Satya-Yuga, under the Supreme's instruction, they will return to re-establish sanatana-dharma and the institution of varnashrama, becoming great kings and forming proper governments. Thus, by the arrangement of the Supreme Being, there will always be guardians of the spiritual knowledge that contains the genuine principles for attaining the real goal of human existence. After all of this is accomplished, the Bhagavatam (12.2.39) relates, the cycle of the four ages will continue to repeat itself.

Is Lord Kalki Predicted in the Book of Revelation?

There are verses in the Book of Revelation strikingly similar to the Puranic descriptions of Lord Kalki — so similar that they cannot be ignored. Revelation 19:11–16 describes a rider on a white horse, called Faithful and True, with eyes like a flame of fire and many crowns; clothed in a robe dipped in blood, His name is "The Word of God." The armies of heaven follow Him on white horses, and from His mouth comes a sharp sword to strike the nations, which He will rule with a rod of iron; on His robe and on His thigh is written, "King of Kings and Lord of Lords." This sounds so much like the incarnation of Lord Kalki that it could hardly be anyone else: by the time He appears, no one will expect Him, no one will know His name, and His army of brahmanas will be as pure as if they had descended from heaven.

Revelation 14:1–3 likewise describes a Lamb standing on Mount Zion with 144,000 who have His Father's name written on their foreheads, singing a new song that no one else could learn. One significant detail is that those redeemed from the earth bear God's name on their foreheads — a widespread custom among the brahmanas of India, who apply the tilak, usually made of clay from the banks of a holy river, often in the shape of a "V" representing the name of God and signifying that the body is a temple of God. So it may be that, when the last of the righteous are delivered during the end times, they will be those who wear the name of God on their foreheads — perhaps the 144,000 who remain worthy of deliverance, or the seeds of the new civilization that will begin the next age of Satya-Yuga.

Chapter 20 — God Would Rather

I know God is tired of war, conflict, hate, terror, bigotry, racism, dirty and cynical politics, narrow interest groups, inefficiency, self-promotion, selfishness, corruption, self-aggrandizement, inequality, and greed.

God would rather:

- Resurrect the dead.
- Heal the sick, the wounded, and the physically impaired.
- Cure the blind, the deaf, the mute, and the disabled.
- Cure the mentally challenged.
- Beautify the world and restore its resources.
- Cause hateful minds to cease their unreasonable and unjustified bias and their criminal or sinful thoughts and behavior.
- Give wealth to the masses.
- Give recourse and restitution to historically exploited, oppressed, and discriminated-against groups.
- Put evil people into Hell — the Lake of Burning Sulfur, or Narakam.

I have said this before: Lord Ram, Krishna, Shiva, Brahma, and Shakti could not even bring the thirty-two languages and many castes of India together. Allah and Prophet Muhammad could not even bring the Sunni and Shia of the Muslim world together. Much of the world considers Judaism and the Ten Commandments of Moses to be too insular and too draconian, respectively. Only Jesus could bring the whole world together, as he is central to all the Abrahamic-lineage religions and is an incarnation of Lord Krishna/Vishnu, according to Chapter 4, Verse 7 of the Bhagavad Gita. Thus, the Lamb accepted the "Second Coming of Jesus" moniker, even though some of his Hindu friends and relatives mocked me, accused me of basking in the glory and of converting out of weakness and ego, and even had me jailed out of jealousy. They are not as strategic, conscious, brilliant, and compassionate as the Lamb is.

The United States never cared for the plight of people of color or immigrants until my father, D. V. Sastry, came here on March 17, 1961. They observed his skin color and his proclivities, and so the Kennedys and LBJ — by twisting arms, spending political capital, and using various other forms of power — passed the Civil Rights Act, the Voting Rights Act, and the 1965 Immigration Act. More people like my father came to this country, and more people like my father gained civil and voting rights.

The reason JFK is "Moses" and LBJ is "Joshua" is that they brought down the "Walls of Jericho" — that is, discrimination, bigotry, prejudice, hate, and oppression. This is also why Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., is "Job." JFK was also "Moses the giver of laws," because he changed the definitions to make it easier to enter the Kingdom of God: he violated enough of his own Ten Commandments, in seemingly acceptable ways, that he could allow millions to escape Hell and enter Heaven.

Progressives: you should believe all those old stories about Jerry Falwell and Pat Robertson meeting in the Reagan White House and being urged to push an agenda, domestically and internationally, to bring forth the early Rapture or Second Coming of Christ. Also believe the reports of President George W. Bush's White House reading the Bible every day. This is what high-level Republicans do; they care more about the Bible than about their policy ideas. The country-club, pro-business Republicans are a different group and can be won over by progressives.

In time, I realized they were acting in my best interests. The only one who should have multiple loving relationships is God — whether it is Lord Krishna with his 16,000 Gopikas in the Mahabharata and Bhagavad Gita, the Lamb in the Bible with his 144,000 female first fruits and followers, King David in the Old Testament with his multiple wives, or Prophet Muhammad in the Quran with his many wives. Nevertheless, women are receivers and should be cautious about promiscuity, because it can be physically and emotionally dangerous.

Chapter 21 — The End Times

We are in the midst of the End Times. While all the conditions of the Bible — especially the Book of Revelation — are being met, the conditions set forth by the Kalki Puranas and the Bhagavad Gita are also being met. These times were also predicted in the Buddhist scriptures and the Quran. There are earthquakes, famines, and pestilences, and even the rolling of the waters. There are also Eight Kings, prophesied as Presidents of the United States, and, as the scriptures foretell, the Lamb/Son of Man lives through all of them.

As the Puranas state, there are churlish, corrupt, and wicked kings around the earth. There are wars; nation is rising against nation and kingdom against kingdom; and there are armies surrounding Jerusalem.

However, in 2020, when the Democrats won the U.S. elections, the Kalki Avatar — the Son of Man, or Lamb — came riding gently on a Democratic Party donkey, as foretold in the scriptures. President Donald J. Trump and First Lady Melania Trump are Mystery Babylon, the Prostitute. Mystery Babylon, as predicted, began to fall on November 3, 2020, and that fall was completed on January 20, 2021.

Mystery Babylon and its cabinet were empowered by the Red Dragon, or Devil, in the form of Russian aid to the Trump campaign and white Christian Nationalism, a false cult religion. The time of the Dragon is short.

The Rapture — as well as the Resurrection and the distribution of wealth, accumulated from the beginning of time, to the masses — will happen soon, if the conditions are met. There will also be a healing of the sick and the wounded. The wedding of the Lamb will also take place.

Currently, in 2023 and 2024, we are entering World War III. Nation is rising against nation and kingdom against kingdom, and the European nations are on the brink of war, as in World War II. Ukraine is defending itself from an overt attack and attempted annexation by Russia and Vladimir Putin. Even Israel is being surrounded by armies, as foretold in scripture, and is at war with Hamas in Palestine, Hezbollah in Lebanon, and Iran. The United States and all the Arab kingdoms have helped repel Iranian missiles and Hezbollah drones.

So, for the first time since World War II, there has been an aggression into a European country, and Israel, too, is under attack. This is biblical. But there will not be a World War III. God Almighty will defuse the situation, and the world will be blessed.

Chapter 22 — A Sustainable Hybrid Economy

In the evolving vision of the Kingdom of God, the modern world must transition into a hybrid economic model — one that marries the innovation of market capitalism to the moral obligations of divine stewardship.

The key principles of this hybrid system include:

1. Divinely inspired ownership. Ownership is no longer solely about wealth accumulation but about divine responsibility — holding and deploying resources as a steward accountable to God and to the community.
2. A universal living wage. While capitalism rewards innovation, a baseline of human dignity must be ensured, so that no worker falls below a decent standard of living.
3. Regenerative commerce. Companies must prove not only profitability but also a positive ecological and social impact, leaving the world better than they found it.
4. Angelic oversight. Divine agencies — comprised of angels, saints, and appointed human stewards — monitor and guide the economy to keep it honest and humane.
5. Sacred markets. Marketplaces become temples of honest exchange. Manipulative or exploitative practices are cast out, as money-changers once were from the temple.

The new economy respects free will, supports innovation, and preserves the environment. It also elevates spiritual values above mere consumption. This is the age of the sustainable hybrid economy: not a utopia of indulgence, but a Dharma-guided reality grounded in justice, dignity, and care for creation.

Addendum

Synchronicity and Coincidence

A constant throughout history is the existence of seeming coincidences — patterns that repeat themselves with alarming regularity. Great empires rise and fall, and the only constant is change. Throughout history, leaders and notable figures from scripture seem to have modern analogs: modern leaders who possess the same characteristics, personal dynamics, flaws, and vision as those who came before. It is a synchronicity that is eerie and prescient. To see the future, look to the past.

The Eight Kings, Mystery Babylon, and Vladimir Putin and His Oligarchs

The author frames this section around the fall of Babylon the Great in the Book of Revelation.

"Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and has become a dwelling place of demons, a prison for every foul spirit, and a cage for every unclean and hated bird! For all the nations have drunk of the wine of the wrath of her fornication, the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her, and the merchants of the earth have become rich through the abundance of her luxury." ... "Come out of her, my people, lest you share in her sins, and lest you receive of her plagues." ... "Therefore her plagues will come in one day — death and mourning and famine. And she will be utterly burned with fire, for strong is the Lord God who judges her." ... "Alas, alas, that great city Babylon, that mighty city! For in one hour your judgment has come."

— Revelation 18 (NKJV)

The author's commentary on these passages:

1. Vladimir Putin, the Russian oligarchs, Trump, and their acolytes must heed this warning.
2. Putin's attempt to reconstitute the Russian Empire is as delusional as an attempt to recreate the British Empire — reprehensible, foolhardy, and reckless. If Donald Trump wants to support Putin, then the two of them are unstable, narcissistic megalomaniacs cut from the same cloth, bound to fail. The British Empire, represented by Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip, has also passed, like Mystery Babylon.
3. Read Revelation 13 and 14, and read the Kalki Purana and the Padma Purana. Trump and Putin are deceiving the entire world and leading it astray.
4. President Vladimir Putin is the Antichrist.
5. "For many will come in my name, claiming, 'I am the Christ,' and will deceive many. You will hear of wars and rumors of wars, but see to it that you are not alarmed. Such things must happen, but the end is still to come. Nation will rise against nation. There will be pestilences."

Revelation 17:11 — The Eight Kings

These Bob Woodward tapes of Trump are worse than the Nixon tapes. In my lifetime there have been eight elected kings — Nixon, Carter, Reagan, Bush, Clinton, Bush, Obama, and Trump, who is just like Nixon and headed to his destruction. They are all Americans, of the same country.

Since FDR there have been Democratic presidents who were great builders — builders of the social safety net that is the foundation of Western society. President Joseph Biden became the "eighth king," resembling FDR, and has been remarkably rebuilding America.

President Trump and Melania Trump are Mystery Babylon, along with their White House staff, administration, and cabinet. "Come out of them" if you can. However, Speaker Nancy Pelosi and then-Senator (now Vice President) Kamala Harris are the women who take their seat on the city of Seven Hills — San Francisco. They sit in the cities that rule the nations of the Earth: San Francisco, where the Charter of the United Nations was signed in 1945; New York, home of the United Nations; and Washington, D.C., home of the White House and the U.S. Capitol.

The Lamb paved the way for Vice President Kamala Harris to become the Democratic nominee for president by contacting Gov. Jerry Brown, Speaker Emerita Nancy Pelosi, Brian Wolff, Huma Abedin, President Bill Clinton, Secretary Hillary Clinton, and President Barack Obama.

President Biden said, in an interview with NBC's Lester Holt, that he would not step aside despite a poor debate performance against Donald Trump unless "the Lord God Almighty" came down and told him to — adding that "the Lord God Almighty is not coming down." A few hours later, the Lamb posted on X (formerly Twitter) that if Biden stepped down, all the Lamb's ancestors and relatives would be resurrected in flesh and blood, and that Biden should endorse Vice President Harris for the nomination rather than support an open convention at such a late date.

The next morning, Speaker Emerita Pelosi appeared on MSNBC's Morning Joe to urge President Biden to make a quick decision about stepping aside. Many felt it was tone-deaf, since Biden had said he would not step aside unless God told him to. In a biblical way, on July 21, 2024 — exactly forty-two months, as stated in the Book of Revelation — Biden stepped aside, cementing his legacy as one of America's greatest and most consequential presidents, alongside Franklin D. Roosevelt and Lyndon B. Johnson.

I worked closely, virtually, with Ron Klain, President Biden's former chief of staff. Klain will go down as one of the greatest public servants in American history; he has served nearly every executive-branch Democratic leader of the modern era, reminiscent of Clark Clifford, Warren Christopher, Leon Panetta, and James Baker III.

What I noticed about Speaker Pelosi's action is profound: it shows how much faith the California Democrats — and the San Francisco Democrats in particular — have in the Lamb and his family. It is amazing, given that nearly everyone else abandoned us in 2004. I am confident Gov. Jerry Brown had a role in empowering the Lamb and in making Vice President Harris the Democratic nominee.

My Knowledge of Vice President Kamala Harris and Her Prospects

Vice President Harris will, in my view, make an excellent president, with the resolve of a Hindu goddess. I believe she will work to end the war between Ukraine and Russia by deftly negotiating a compromise between Putin and Zelensky, and to end the conflict in the Middle East among Israel, Hamas, Hezbollah, and Iran, reminding people of leaders such as Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher. In my belief, her election would mark the culmination of the religious prophecies and signal the coming Rapture and Resurrection. The Second Coming has already happened, but it will be accentuated. The world will be blessed with peace, prosperity, and contentment.

I grew up in the same California and San Francisco Democratic political machine that Vice President Harris did; we knew many of the same people. Gov. Jerry Brown — and, further back, his father, Gov. Pat Brown — were patriarchs of the California and national Democratic Party, mentoring John F. Kennedy, Robert F. Kennedy, Bill Clinton, Leon Panetta, Warren Christopher, Mickey Kantor, Dianne Feinstein, Gavin Newsom, Kamala Harris, Xavier Becerra, Willie Brown, the Cuomos, and many others.

In fact, the first five years of my life were spent in apartments owned by San Francisco Mayor George Moscone and his wife, Gina. They were close to my parents and took me trick-or-treating on Halloween with their children. My father, Durvasula Sastry, used to socialize with Vice President Harris's parents, Donald Harris and Shyamala Gopalan, in Berkeley in the 1960s; they would meet at the home of U.C. Berkeley South Asian studies professor Kausalya Hart and her husband, George Hart. My father was a founder and leader of several Indian American organizations nationally and especially in the San Francisco Bay Area, and Shyamala Gopalan and Kamala Harris attended some of his events. He also founded and chaired the Shiva-Vishnu Temple in Livermore, California, which the Harris family — including Kamala's sister — visited regularly, often performing pujas before an election or during a health concern. When my father passed away, Harris wrote a condolence letter. Soon after, I joined her national finance committee in 2019, when she first ran for president.

In 2024, I argued vehemently that Harris should be at the top of the Democratic ticket if there were a change. I reached out to Gov. Jerry Brown and to every camp in the party — the Pelosi, Obama, and Clinton teams, among others. As a trustee of the DNC, a trustee of the DSCC, and chair of the DSCC High-Tech Council, I had some credibility. Once President Biden endorsed her, she did an incredible job of integrating the Biden, Obama, and Clinton veterans seamlessly. She energized young voters, minorities, and — especially — women on the issue of freedom, particularly reproductive rights, registering voters at a historic rate.

In my educated opinion, the polls showing a Trump win or a razor-thin race were wrong. I predicted no "red wave" in 2022, because the backlash was against the Supreme Court and President Trump — over January 6 and the Dobbs decision — rather than against the incumbent Biden administration, as is usually the case. Harris framed the reproductive-freedom issue effectively in the 2022 midterms, and I expected the 2024 results to similarly surprise the pollsters and pundits. My prediction was a landslide for Harris-Walz, driven by enthusiasm and newly registered voters, with reproductive rights as the decisive issue. The remaining challenges, as I saw them, were to reach more men through nontraditional media — podcasts, radio, and sports platforms — and to cement positive views of her economic policies in a truncated campaign.

I believe that, executed properly, such a campaign could put states like North Carolina, Arizona, and even Florida, Texas, and Iowa in play, along with surprise Senate seats.

As I complete these words, my book is being sent for publication on Election Day, November 5, 2024. I cannot, of course, presume to fix the precise hour of God's plan — for as Jesus said in the Bible, "About that day or hour no one knows, not even the angels in heaven, nor the Son, but only the Father" (Matthew 24:36). But I will set down this prophecy plainly: if Kamala Harris loses in 2024, she will become President in 2028. My words always come true, eventually.

There is one painful episode involving Vice President Harris and my family and friends. On Easter Sunday, 2004, the best man at my brother Manoj's wedding to my sister-in-law, Ally — SFPD Officer Isaac Espinoza — was shot and killed by a San Francisco gang member. I found it eerie, because there were reports that the two of them had read the Bible the night before. The local Bay Area news covered my brother, our friends, our high school, and our family, and MSNBC, CNN, and Fox News covered the murder as well; nearly every politician in California became involved. District Attorney Kamala Harris prosecuted the gang member and secured a life sentence, but did not seek the death penalty, as my family and friends had wished. I hope everyone has since reconciled their feelings; the Catholic tradition, as I understand it, opposes the death penalty. The night he was murdered, after midnight, I wrote on my computer, "Isaac Espinoza will be resurrected" — not even realizing it was Easter Sunday. Around that same time, Harris gave a speech as district attorney about the nuanced power of Shakti in the form of the goddesses Durga and Kali.

Letter to the Editor of India Abroad (July 2, 2024)

Vice President Kamala Harris is a family friend, and the most likely person to be president after President Biden. I was on her finance committee when she ran for president in 2020. I currently support the Biden Victory Fund and was formerly a DSCC trustee and DSCC High-Tech Council co-chair, when I allocated six figures to Senator Joe Biden, then chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee; he and his chief of staff, Alan Hoffman, invited me to dinner at their table at a Senate banquet. I was also a trustee of the DNC and a member of the Leadership 2000 board, appointed by President Bill Clinton and Vice President Al Gore.

My father, Durvasula Sastry, used to have dinner meetings with Kamala Harris's parents, Shyamala Gopalan and Donald Harris, at the Berkeley home of Professors Kausalya and George Hart, who taught in the South Asian Studies Department at U.C. Berkeley. I studied EECS at U.C. Berkeley, but I also took several courses in Hindu "mythology" and Hindi in that same department, and knew the Harts as well.

My father was a founder of the Bay Area Telugu Association (BATA), the Federation of Indo-American Associations (FIA), South India Fine Arts (SIFA), the Telugu Association of North America (TANA), and — most importantly — the Shiva-Vishnu Temple in Livermore, California, also known as the Hindu Community and Cultural Center (HCCC). Shyamala Gopalan was a regular visitor there and brought both her daughters, Kamala and Maya, for pujas. Later, Vice President Harris invited the temple's chief priest, Pandit Sridhar, to her home several times for Hindu pujas — when her mother was ill, after her mother died of cancer, and when she decided to run for the Senate. When my father passed away, she wrote a condolence letter as a U.S. Senator from California. Were she to become president, she would be the first female president, the first Asian American president, the first African American woman president, and the first Indian American president.

Revelation 11:2 and 13:5

Both President Biden and President Trump are the "eighth king" who goes to his destruction in Revelation. The beast who served the Holy City "as a Gentile" for exactly forty-two months (Revelation 11:2) is President Biden — who, after exactly forty-two months in office, stepped aside for Vice President Harris and her husband, the potential first "First Gentleman," a Jewish American. The beast who served forty-two months as an election denier and "uttered blasphemy against God" (Revelation 13:5) is Donald J. Trump, who will likewise go to his destruction.

Additionally, Donald J. Trump, his campaign, his MAGA Republicans, and Melania Trump are Mystery Babylon — the figure drunk on the "maddening wine" (which I read as oil). And Trump, the supermajority of the U.S. Supreme Court, ISIS, Hamas, Hezbollah, Ayatollah Khamenei of Iran, Kim Jong Un, Osama bin Laden, Benjamin Netanyahu, and Vladimir Putin are, collectively, the personification of the spirit of the Devil and the Dragon (see Revelation 17:6).

A Sustainable Hybrid Economic System

An economic chain is only as strong as its weakest link. As inequality builds among nations and within them, you approach unrest, revolt, disaffection, and the destruction of consumer markets.

An asset tax to alleviate wealth inequality. As the Republican tax plans are debated or rushed through, we must remember that income inequality and income redistribution are not the central problem. The problem is enormous wealth inequality. If there is chaos, mayhem, and insecurity in a nation's streets and markets, the poor and lower-middle class may shrug: "It wasn't that great for us anyway; we have little to lose." The wealthy and powerful, however, would lose everything they value — the good life, their assets, their position in the markets, and their safety. Thus the wealthy have an obligation to pay their fair share in order to maintain and expand their wealth and their way of life.

Punishing hard-earned income and productivity as heavily as we now do may not be the fair answer. An asset tax of about 3% per year on those with $5 million or more in assets, paired with the elimination of all federal income and payroll taxes, may be a fairer approach. The economist Daniel Altman has run the numbers, and such a system can raise the needed revenue. It would not punish the earned income of ordinary or modestly well-off people, but would ask those with the most accumulated assets — and therefore the most to lose — to pay a fair share for the national defense, public safety, and other services that protect the long-term value of those assets. It could be called a national-security, or national-integrity, tax.

Such a tax is, for now, difficult to enforce because of technological and privacy limits, and it may even be unconstitutional — but that can change, whether through clever statutory design or a constitutional convention. In the meantime, if we applied FICA and Medicare/Social Security payroll taxes to incomes well above the current cap (around $160,000), and taxed passive income, the wealthy — who benefit most from the stability of our governments, banks, institutions, military, and law enforcement — would contribute enough to keep Social Security and Medicare solvent and to reduce the national debt. People earning $160,000 or less need every dollar they earn, including what goes to the regressive flat payroll tax. (The author cites two New York Times opinion pieces by Daniel Altman, from November 2012 and February 2013, on taxing wealth rather than income.)

If the gap between rich and poor keeps widening, eventually there will not be enough consumers to buy the products of the corporations that sustain the wealth of the "haves." The wealthy buy only one or two cars, a few bars of soap, a smartphone or two, some clothes — and that is all. There are not enough people in the top 1% to sustain whole industries and factories, or to fund the government through their taxes. You need the broad populace to sustain a capitalist economy. Absent that, there would be a global economic collapse, and all the assets of the wealthy — gold, real estate, bonds, equities, currencies — would lose value, causing chaos.

Progressives who try to address this struggle to find solutions within the capitalist framework; conservatives largely decline to treat inequality as a problem at all, often pandering to the wealthy and corporate lobbyists without confronting the consequences. Intellectual conservatives such as William F. Buckley and Jack Kemp recognized some of the faults and tried to refine supply-side, laissez-faire economics — developing a kind of hybrid — but did not adequately address cronyism or the need for regulation. Adam Smith did not foresee many of the modern excesses of capitalism and technology. Not everyone has the interest, talent, time, opportunity, or capital to accumulate great wealth, yet they must still survive and act as consumers within the system.

An economy whose equities command healthy price-to-earnings ratios, sustained by a middle class who are, on average, millionaires, would support long-term, high-prosperity, high-growth global capitalism. Experts would warn of inflation and a shortage of low-wage labor — which is precisely why you would have robots and angels to do the jobs no one wants, and why geniuses are appointed to the Federal Reserve and to central banks worldwide. We would also need the asset tax on those with copious wealth, replacing other regressive or unproductive taxes. This would give corporations and small businesses a large pool of fairly affluent middle-class consumers, while allowing the wealthy to keep growing their earned, inherited, or wisely accumulated wealth alongside the public and private markets — eventually leading to a utopia with a safety net and a pro-competitive legal regime for small businesses.

Matthew 25:40

In the very first episode of Saturday Night Live, in 1975, the comedian George Carlin asked which way God is looking: "Is he looking at me, or with me? To the right, or to the left?" He used the analogy of God driving a car and holding the steering wheel. If you are looking at the King of Kings on his throne, the goats to his left are the "right wing" and the sheep are the "left wing"; if you are standing beside the throne, it is the opposite. The humans stand before the throne, looking at him and awaiting judgment. It is all about perspective — and about looking at the person in the mirror.

The first person to pose this question, though, was the father of the spiritual leader Mallampally Amareswara Prasad — Nagabhushanam Mallampally — in a lecture arranged by my grandfather in Peddapuram in the 1950s. Prasad later repeated his father's question (and Carlin's), and Prasad's disciples Chaganti Koteswara Rao and Samavedam Shanmukha Sarma posed it again in their 2012 lectures at my grandfather's hundredth-birthday ceremony.

"When the Son of Man comes in his glory... he will separate people one from another as a shepherd separates the sheep from the goats... 'Truly, I say to you, as you did it to one of the least of these my brothers, you did it to me.'... And these will go away into eternal punishment, but the righteous into eternal life."

— Matthew 25:31-46

Dinesh Sastry's Background in Politics and Business

Dinesh Sastry is a former trustee of the Democratic National Committee (DNC) and of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee (DSCC). He chaired the DSCC's High-Tech Council and served on the DNC's Leadership 2000 board.

Over the years, Dinesh has raised eight figures for Democratic causes, including the DNC, the DSCC, President Clinton, Vice President Al Gore, Gov. Jerry Brown, Senate Majority Leader Tom Daschle, Senator Joe Biden, Senator Max Baucus, Rep. Patrick Kennedy, Senator John Edwards, Senator John Kerry, Senator Harry Reid, and others. He was one of the top five national fundraisers for the DNC and Al Gore in the 2000 cycle, hosting successful $50,000- and $100,000-per-person events with President Clinton and Vice President Gore as guests, and specializing in fundraising from Silicon Valley and the national Indian American community.

Dinesh raised the initial private-equity capital for Blackstreet Capital (formerly Milestone Capital Partners) in Washington, D.C. — a firm associated with leading Republicans Gov. Haley Barbour and Ed Rogers, with founders of the Carlyle Group, and with confidants of President George W. Bush. He has been involved with startups and mature ventures in Silicon Valley, India, and elsewhere, has advised a Middle East-based international investment fund, and raised a majority of the $30 million Series B round for Ample Communications.

Dinesh devised the strategy and led high-level meetings with government and military officials to enable what he describes as the first major U.S. defense-industry sale to India — helping Thales-Raytheon sell "Firefinder" counter-battery radar to the Indian Army for deployment on the Kashmir border, on behalf of subcontractor Apex Technology, in a deal of roughly $200 million.

Dinesh has launched a dozen Indian channels on the Dish Network satellite platform in the United States, and IPTV services and channels with DishWorld IPTV (now Sling TV). He has relationships with many CEOs of Fortune 100 and brand-name Silicon Valley technology companies, and is involved with green technology, data analytics, and CRM software firms, as well as emerging sports, fitness, and wellness ventures in India and the United States.

Dinesh has consulted in India for leading politicians, including Prime Minister P. V. Narasimha Rao, Prime Minister Atal Bihari Vajpayee, and Deputy Prime Minister L. K. Advani, and advised on Indo-U.S. relations during the Clinton and Bush administrations. In 1998, after the nuclear tests by India and Pakistan and the subsequent sanctions, he set up a back-channel between the Vajpayee government and the Clinton administration that, he says, helped Strobe Talbott and Jaswant Singh negotiate a détente, the normalization of relations, and the removal of sanctions through official channels. He is also known as the person who asked President Clinton to become the first U.S. president to acknowledge Diwali, which has since become an official White House event.

Dinesh has consulted extensively with the Manmohan Singh and Narendra Modi governments in India and the Obama administration in the United States; informally advised Gov. Jerry Brown of California and Chief Minister Chandrababu Naidu of Andhra Pradesh; stayed in touch with the Trump administration; and previously advised the late Chief Minister Y. S. Rajasekhara Reddy. He has worked on U.S. presidential, gubernatorial, and congressional campaigns. As an adviser to Gov. Jerry Brown's 1992 presidential campaign, he traveled across the country and negotiated debate arrangements in Chicago opposite David Axelrod and Dick Simpson, who represented Gov. Bill Clinton.

Dinesh earned a B.S. in Electrical Engineering and Computer Science from U.C. Berkeley and a Juris Doctor from Georgetown University Law Center. He was on the "A" list for Schedule C appointments in the Clinton-Gore administration and was an elected delegate to the California Democratic Party, the San Mateo County Democratic Central Committee, and the DNC convention. He worked as a software and electrical engineer for National Semiconductor — a multibillion-dollar offshoot of Fairchild Semiconductor, Silicon Valley's first company — where he designed a software product, "Mosp," that converted IBM mainframe CMS data output into input for U.C. Berkeley's "SPICE" chip-design software. He has also raised money for and donated to many charitable, spiritual, religious, and cultural nonprofit causes.

Professional Biography: Dinesh S. Sastry, J.D.

International Investment Strategist · Capital Architect · Geopolitical and Frontier-Technology Advisor

illuminantcap.com · dineshsastry.com · redwoodcollective.net · dinesh@illuminantcap.com

Executive Profile. Dinesh S. Sastry is an international investment strategist and capital architect operating at the intersection of global finance, geopolitics, and frontier technology. Over a career spanning three decades across North America, Asia, Africa, and the Middle East, he has structured cross-border transactions, raised and introduced capital for sovereign funds, family offices, and venture platforms, and built a network bridging Wall Street, Silicon Valley, Washington, and the capitals of the GCC and the Emirates. He pairs the technical fluency of a U.C. Berkeley engineer with the precision of a Georgetown-trained securities attorney and the instincts of a lifelong dealmaker.

He is Founder and President of Illuminant Capital Holdings LLC — now being established as a single-family office and private investment vehicle — and a Partner at Redwood Collective, a Tier-1 venture fund-of-funds. He was recently named Senior Strategic Adviser to Heritage Horizon Fund II, focused on data centers and critical infrastructure, and serves as a Founding Advisor to Carbon AI, shaping the future of AI hardware and compute. His mandate, in every venue, is the same: to move capital, technology, and trust across borders that most operators cannot cross.

Current Roles and Leadership

- Founder and President, Illuminant Capital Holdings LLC — a boutique advisory and capital-introduction firm specializing in cross-border M&A, sovereign and family-office strategy, and emerging-market infrastructure across the U.S., Asia, Europe, MENA, and the GCC/Emirates. Now in formation as a family-office and hedge-fund structure.
- Partner, Redwood Collective — a venture fund-of-funds providing investors rare access to elite Silicon Valley managers at institutional terms, with stewardship of capital formation and LP relationships.
- Senior Strategic Adviser, Heritage Horizon Fund II — data centers and critical infrastructure, the physical backbone of the AI economy, advising on capital strategy and sovereign and institutional partnerships.
- Founding Advisor, Carbon AI — advising on the future of AI hardware and compute infrastructure, where energy, silicon, and capital intensity converge.
- Vice Chairman, Simba Fiber — pan-African fiber-optic infrastructure connecting 54 nations, merging commercial viability with measurable social impact.

International Capital and Geopolitical Affairs. Sastry's core practice is cross-border capital formation and the geopolitics that govern it. He has structured transactions across the full capital spectrum — leveraged buyouts, Series A through D venture rounds, sovereign co-investment, and international defense contracts — and has advised family offices, sovereign wealth funds, and institutional LPs across the United States, Europe, Asia, and the Gulf.

- Sovereign and family-office advisory — across the Middle East, GCC, and the Emirates, structuring inbound and outbound capital and frontier-technology partnerships.
- First U.S.-India defense technology transfer — orchestrated the landmark Firefinder radar program, a milestone in U.S.-India strategic cooperation.
- Backchannel diplomacy — helped reset the U.S.-India dialogue following the 1998 nuclear standoff, bridging the Clinton and Vajpayee governments.
- FIFA World Cup 2026, India media rights — advisory work alongside Metalloid on broadcast, streaming, and AI-driven distribution, positioning India as a creative and technological partner, not merely a consumer market.

Frontier Technology, AI Hardware, and Web 3.0. Sastry treats technology as an extension of statecraft. His current focus sits where compute, energy, and capital intensity meet — the thesis that AI dominance is physical: a secure layer of dense energy grids, sovereign chips, data centers, and automated infrastructure beneath the software.

- AI hardware and compute — founding advisory to Carbon AI and counsel on the next cycle of AI-hardware and data-center buildout.
- Critical infrastructure and the energy cloud — data centers, grid, and energy systems as the strategic floor of national competitiveness.
- Web 3.0 and blockchain — decentralized infrastructure, SoulBound-token credentialing, and programmable settlement applied to real markets.
- Green energy and emerging-market infrastructure — from solar deployment to continental fiber, with capital structured for both return and resilience.

Political and Diplomatic Network. Few private citizens command comparable bipartisan and cross-border political capital. Over three decades, Sastry has worked informally alongside four U.S. Presidents and four Indian Prime Ministers, operating as a quiet connector at the intersection of finance, policy, and influence.

- Democratic National Committee and DSCC — former Trustee of both; chaired the DSCC High-Tech Council; ranked among the top five national fundraisers of the Clinton-Gore era.
- Cultural diplomacy — credited with helping secure the first formal White House recognition of Diwali, a durable symbol of U.S.-India inclusion.
- Statesman's network — trusted relationships spanning U.S. governors, global CEOs, and leadership across India and the Gulf.

Thought Leadership. A published essayist in The National Interest and New India Abroad, Sastry writes on the architecture of power and capital — America's energy-cloud future, the operating system of influence underlying U.S. power, a hybrid-capitalist economic model, the case for four cities operating as one company, and the strategic role of the Indian-American future in a realigning world.

Education

- B.S., Electrical Engineering and Computer Science — University of California, Berkeley.
- J.D., Banking, Corporate, Finance, and Securities Law — Georgetown University Law Center.

Memorandum: Second-Term Strategy for the President and the DNC

To: David Axelrod — From: Dinesh Sastry — Date: September 26, 2013

Re: Second-term election strategy for the President and the DNC

These are a few ideas, offered in brief, that can be expounded upon.

Strategy for the second term and governance. While awaiting the 2014 midterms, President Obama should focus on what does not require congressional action — foreign policy and diplomacy, where his skills are considerable and his vision strategic: Iran, Syria, the Israelis and Palestinians, and engagement with India and China toward breakthroughs on the economy, climate, and relief in Afghanistan and Pakistan. He should also leverage the improving economy and markets by approaching America's top corporations in an organized way — on corporate tax reform, a repatriation holiday, and job creation — appealing to their patriotism and rationality. With record profits, their leadership can be persuaded to hire more workers, open more U.S. plants and offices, and become forces for immigration reform, putting the country in a better mood before the midterms.

Celebrate the President's successes. In second terms, a president's successes often go untallied. (There is even a Frank Sinatra song, "Mr. Success.") President Obama should be lauded for: the stock market; sustained monthly job creation; defusing the Syria chemical-weapons crisis without a costly war; diplomacy with Iran; progress toward a two-state solution, which would ease tensions across the Arab world and undercut al-Qaeda recruitment; passing immigration reform through the Senate; implementing the Affordable Care Act; and reducing the deficit since 2010.

Make the argument for a Democratic Congress. Democrats and the President should argue, in unison, for retaining the Senate and winning the House — which would allow the President to sign an infrastructure jobs bill; protect and improve the Affordable Care Act; support efforts toward a more peaceful world; keep government out of women's private lives and strengthen women's rights; restore the Voting Rights Act and protect the votes of minorities and the elderly; enact universal background checks and limits on magazine capacity; avoid manufactured crises; and govern with reasonableness rather than extremism.

A tribute to Obama. All of this could be crystallized in a "Tribute to President Obama" fundraiser by the DNC or DCCC — inviting corporate leaders alongside traditional supporters, aiming for a record sum, and staying well-funded for 2014.

Behind Closed Doors: On the Presidential Campaign Trail with Dinesh Sastry

By Manish Vij, reprinted from hum magazine.

Dinesh Sastry, 23, is a rising political star in California. While in college, Sastry took a semester off to travel the country with former governor Jerry Brown's 1992 presidential campaign. He is now a key staff member for Jerry's sister, Kathleen Brown, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate; if she wins in November, Sastry will likely become one of the youngest and highest-ranking South Asian Americans in state government. He is also working with three South Asian American congressional candidates: Neil Dhillon, Peter Mathews, and Ram Uppuluri. Sastry grew up in Daly City, California, playing point guard on his high school varsity basketball team, and learned much about politics from his father, former Federation of Indo-American Associations president Durvasula Sastry. He graduated from U.C. Berkeley in May with a bachelor's in electrical engineering and computer science, and hopes to study law, concentrating on intellectual-property rights.

On getting his start. "I started following politics in '84, when the Democratic convention came to San Francisco. Jesse Jackson was one of my idols; he gave a fiery speech, and ever since I've wanted a Democrat to become president. My senior year of high school I went hardcore volunteering for Jackson. I met Michael Dukakis and basically took over a rally at the Golden Gate Bridge. I wasn't assigned to it — a friend and I just showed up, crossed the 'do not cross' boundaries, and the organizers assumed the party had sent us. They put us to work coordinating the press corps, and I was made liaison to the Secret Service. Ted Danson and Daryl Hannah were the hosts, and Sam Donaldson was there. They handed me a walkie-talkie. I wrote about it in my Berkeley application; everyone got a kick out of it. The organizers never figured it out — they just thanked us and gave us passes to another event."

An unconventional boss. "I've always been an armchair quarterback — I always wanted to run a campaign. My father is a community activist who had invited Jerry Brown to many events in Northern California, so I used to go by his house while still in school, talk with him, do odd jobs. When he suddenly decided to run for president, the opportunity was right there. Jerry asked me to come on the road and take a semester off. I knew I'd have an advantage, because I knew him better than the local coordinators and could influence his scheduling. I became co-coordinator for four states — an unprecedented opportunity for someone of my age and background. Win or lose, he went head-to-head with Bill Clinton, and I got to meet Clinton and his advisers and help shape national TV debates. Personal friends don't run for president often; you seize the chance when you have it."

"Jerry is a Gandhian. His campaign slogan was 'Speaking truth to power,' taken from Gandhi. His whole idea of recapturing government for the people came from Gandhi, who, he said, succeeded because — unlike the lawyers of Delhi and Bombay — he went to every village and built a revolution from the bottom up, challenging everyone to become a moral agent of change. Jerry said as much when he spoke at the Ghadar memorial."

Age is irrelevant. "In Illinois there were two debates before the primary, and I was sent to negotiate. David Axelrod and George Stephanopoulos represented Clinton; Paul Tsongas had a slick guy. They were already seated in suits with the TV executives. I took the subway, ran late, and walked in wearing jeans and a shirt. They all looked at me and assumed the casual clothes were a decoy — that I must be a shrewd operator. Honestly, all you have to do is throw on a suit, carry yourself well, and speak intelligently, and you get instant respect; it becomes taboo to ask your age. Being a minority, it's hard to tell my age anyway, and there was always a mysterious cloud of respect around our campaign."

Playing poker. "Clinton wanted a sit-down debate — he's good at that, moving his hands, never stopping, hogging time. I wanted three podiums. When the TV people asked whether candidates should question each other, I just smiled. The Clinton camp said no way: he was still struggling with the Gennifer Flowers story, the S&L scandal was looming, and as front-runner he looked vulnerable. Stephanopoulos said, 'Look at the Brown guy — they'll go to any length to ask Clinton something embarrassing.' Right away the Tsongas side backed candidate questions, contingent on us. I said we might want them — and that if Tsongas supported three podiums, I'd support questions. So it went two-to-one for podiums. The Clinton guy went through the roof and threatened to withdraw. Eventually I said my preference for questions wasn't that strong, and that I could be persuaded to vote against them in exchange for the middle podium for Jerry, rather than tossing a coin. The Clinton campaign agreed. Jerry got the middle podium — always an advantage, since both opponents face you and you can hog the camera — and I wanted him next to Clinton, because we were going after him hard. We drew cards for opening and closing statements, won the first opening, and traded it for the last closing, which suited Jerry: he's emotional, and his labor and corruption themes would land with a resounding effect."

Clinton goes ballistic. "Yes — that was the debate with the Washington Post article. The executives had faxed us saying no props would be allowed. At the walk-through I bluffed that we'd pull out unless props were permitted; we had no intention of leaving, and they knew ratings would dive, so everyone agreed. On debate day, Jerry raised the article and said, in effect: 'Ralph Nader told me something last night that shocked me — your wife funneled state money into her law firm, and you were involved with Madison Savings & Loan and Whitewater. You have a big electability problem, and it's in tomorrow's Washington Post.' Clinton went ballistic, said Jerry didn't belong on the same platform, and they yelled so harshly that the Secret Service stood up. It was the most dramatic moment of the primary season. The cameras zoomed in on the two of them; Tsongas was ignored and dropped out five days later. Years later, when Kathleen Brown won her primary, that same station left me a message: 'This is ABC in Illinois. We still think Jerry was the best candidate, and you were the coolest, calmest negotiator. If we can help Kathleen, call us.' They sent me a copy of the video. I'll never forget it."

Greasing the machine. "On the trail you meet movie stars and famous politicians in informal settings. Because we represented Jerry Brown, people knew we wouldn't mob them or abuse their phone numbers. Matthew Modine took me and a friend to dinner. I went to a bar with Whoopi Goldberg. Public Enemy did a benefit for Jerry — I'd been a fan for years — and Flavor Flav brought his son to meet him. Kim Basinger and the B-52's did an MTV-hosted benefit; we shared a burger and they asked us to send pins and bumper stickers. I met Kevin Costner and Whitney Houston when they came to a rally while filming The Bodyguard. After a while you go numb to the excitement; it becomes normal."

"You might think there's no connection between the rock stars, the conservative businessmen, the movie stars, and the politicians, but at 9:30 p.m. cocktail receptions behind closed doors, they're all in the same circles. However different Public Enemy, Kim Basinger, Ross Perot, Jerry Brown, Matthew Modine, and Walter Shorenstein might seem, you'll see them all at a fundraiser. They represent the top one percent of wealth, ownership, and power, and the money is the lubricant that greases the machine."

From Andhra to N.W.A. "Jesse Jackson was the first person I really idolized in American politics — I put him on a pedestal — and suddenly I was traveling with him. He took us to the site in Memphis where Dr. King was assassinated, where Jackson had stood beside him. After that, everything felt matter-of-fact; a couple of years earlier I'd have been stuttering. My grandfather is one of my greatest inspirations — the most famous criminal lawyer in Andhra Pradesh of his time and a leader in the Andhra communist movement. He was fearless, and he'd have his supporters sing fiery bhajans and folk songs about oppression; I liken them to the hardcore rap I grew up on — N.W.A, Public Enemy. Daly City is a middle- to lower-income area, and most of my friends were Filipino or Black. I've always identified with the working class, not the rich."

South Asians in politics. "I'm sure being a minority has hurt me, though it hasn't confronted me directly; there's no stigma on our skin color the way there is for African Americans. I don't think it'll be hard for the Indian community to enter politics — you need articulateness, persistence, confidence, and intelligence, and campaigns will get good work out of you if you're capable. I predict many Indians will go into opposition research and the tech side: quick, resourceful people. My advice to South Asian American hopefuls: if you're not in the right networks, you won't start at the top — you'll research issues rather than manage operations — so volunteer early and make as many connections as you can. As campaigns become more high-tech, they want intelligent university students to do research. Like Wall Street, they'll take us, because we're good." — Manish Vij

A Note on Jerry Brown, the Vedas, and Breitbart

Long ago, from an old account and computer, I sent Jerry Brown articles from Hinduism Today — published by a friend of my father's at an ashram and monastery in Hawaii — about Irish Celts, druids, and German nobility sharing the Vedas with Hindu brahmins and speaking an Indo-European tongue. I told him this would constitute thirteen "tribes of Israel," including Africans, and he began traveling to Europe to study his ancestry in depth, wondering whether, as John the Baptist, he might be related to me in ancient times. I wish I'd forwarded it to more relatives; it might have cleared up the mystery.

The European nations colonized the Americas after Christopher Columbus set sail to reach India — to buy spices, gold, and diamonds and to learn the Vedas — but ran into the Americas and thought he had found India. India then held the most gold, diamonds, and jewels in the world, and all of Asia was once called "India"; that is why Columbus called the Native peoples "Indians." He believed he was in the holy land of India. That, I believe, was God's plan for the USA.

A few friends have asked why I claimed that Steve Bannon and his successor at Breitbart, Alex Marlow, would want a man like Jerry Brown as the next U.S. president, despite that outlet's record. My answer: the late Andrew Breitbart, Bannon, and Marlow consider Jerry Brown a messianic figure who cleans up the mess — a John-the-Baptist-like figure heralding a Kalki Avatar or "Second Coming." Search "Breitbart Jerry Brown" and you'll find the sarcastic, seemingly critical articles that actually highlight the issues Jerry and his friends — Willie Brown, George Shultz, William Perry — have worked on their whole lives. It is an indirect way for their readers to be introduced to new issues and a new way of thinking.

The Bride of the Lamb

Padmaja Guntaka — whom I associate with Jennifer Lopez (J.Lo) — is Goddess Lakshmi, Goddess Sita, Goddess Padmavathi, and Mary Magdalene. As foretold in Revelation 14:4, she has been kept in a series of arranged relationships, defined by contracts that set a duration on each relationship and prohibit sexual relations. Other singers and actors, including Beyoncé, Mariah Carey, and Taylor Swift, are in similar positions because of their popularity among men. Jennifer Lopez and the others are also political figures who were active in the 2020 and 2024 presidential races.

Why was the Lamb/Son of Man dancing, two decades ago? He was humbling himself like a child, as in the scriptures. But the main reason he danced — though never seriously or skillfully — is that intelligence agencies and Hindus were watching for signs of whether the Lamb is Lord Shiva, who is known for dancing. So the Lamb put on a dancing show at times. (You often see Barack Obama, Kamala Harris, Donald Trump, or George W. Bush dancing, too.) Similarly, Lord Krishna was known for playing the flute and singing.

The Making of a Democrat Kingmaker

By Arthur J. Pais, October 23, 2000, reprinted from India Abroad / Rediff.

Dinesh Sastry remembers meeting presidential candidate Michael Dukakis at a Golden Gate Bridge rally twelve years ago — and deciding to work for him. "I wasn't assigned to do it," Sastry recalls. "I was a volunteer for the San Mateo County Democrats. My friend and I showed up and crossed these 'please do not cross' boundaries. The organizers thought the party had sent us and put us to work coordinating the press corps. I was made liaison to the Secret Service. Ted Danson and Daryl Hannah were the hosts, and Sam Donaldson was there; they gave me a walkie-talkie. I wrote about it in my Berkeley application, and everyone got a kick out of it. The organizers never figured it out — they just thanked us and gave us passes to another meeting." Today, many people — including presidential candidate Al Gore — thank Sastry.

At 29, Sastry has emerged as one of the savviest political operators in America. Pursuing a law degree at Georgetown, he already holds an engineering and computer-science degree from U.C. Berkeley. Having honed his skills campaigning for Jerry Brown, he is now a board member of Democratic Leadership 2000 and a formidable fundraiser: in three months, his events at the homes of Sabeer Bhatia and Dr. Anand Mahal raised nearly $1.6 million, with Vice President Gore the guest at one and President Clinton at the other. "Raising money makes it easier to lobby for causes close to us here and in India," Sastry says. "When we raised about $1 million at Dr. Mahal's home, we proved once and for all that Indian Americans are serious fundraisers. Like Wall Street, they'll take us because we're good."

Q. What inspiration have you drawn from your father and grandfather?

A. My grandfather, D. V. Subba Rao, was an eminent criminal lawyer, legislator, and freedom fighter from Andhra Pradesh, instrumental in the creation of Andhra Pradesh from Madras State. A powerful orator and mass leader, he always charted an independent course and was dedicated to uplifting the poor; people said he "roared like a lion." He was an authority on Shakespeare and Milton and wove their lines into his speeches and arguments. Hearing the stories of his life, I subconsciously grew more appreciative of the struggles of the common man, and learned to be fearless; my interest in politics and law was born from those stories. My father, Durvasula Sastry, is equally fearless and a powerful orator — fiercely independent, and the founder or head of more Indian American social, political, and cultural organizations than anyone in the country. His forty years in the U.S. mirror the development of the community. He is a devoted servant who builds lasting institutions without seeking wealth or personal gain. He is Gandhian in every sense — he spent part of his childhood spinning his own thread for the freedom struggle, and to this day won't eat a mango, because as a boy he felt the cost was too high when several people could be fed for the price of one.

Q. You are close to former Governor Jerry Brown, who has turned against the establishment — yet you raise funds from Silicon Valley.

A. Jerry Brown put many early Silicon Valley figures, such as the founders of Sun Microsystems, on important boards and commissions, at a time when the rest of America saw the tech world as a den of eccentrics. He brought those pioneers into government and, in the 1970s, promoted tax breaks for companies with fewer than 300 employees to spur startups and innovation. If entrepreneurs drive the global economy, shape public opinion, invest capital, and create vital jobs, there's nothing wrong with courting them and showing them how they can help build a better society. Silicon Valley figures tend to be more diverse and open-minded than the rest of corporate America; many achieved success in unorthodox ways. Brown always attacked the entrenched system that is beholden to corporate greed and to lobbyists loyal to no community. He believes government and the economy should be organized efficiently and elegantly, free of selfish special interests — yielding less inequity, less waste, more transparency, and more opportunity. The chain is only as strong as its weakest link, and I admire how Brown throws away conservative and liberal labels in favor of ideas that lead to reform, progress, and efficiency.

Q. Would you be interested in running for public office?

A. If I thought I could legitimately win, and if being elected would maximize my contribution given my skills and circumstances, then yes — I'd prefer an open, winnable seat. But it might be more rewarding to use my contacts and experience to help elect five or six promising people across the country. Perhaps the Democratic Party could nurture the early careers of several promising Indian Americans already active in local politics. I'd have to see what proved more fulfilling.

Dear Ms. Sastry:

I was saddened to learn of the passing of your husband, Durvasula. I was contacted by your nephew, Varun Krovil.

Varun also supplied me with an article indicating the extraordinary accomplishments and civic engagement of Mr. Sastry. I was heartened to read about his arrival in the United States and about his longtime service to United Airlines. In addition, he was deeply involved in community affairs here on the Peninsula, throughout the Bay Area, and nationally.

The type of leadership illustrated by Mr. Sastry is a precious gift to us all. It requires the sacrifice of time with one's family and some element of risk, since criticism is easily possible. Mr. Sastry obviously demonstrated enormous leadership over the course of his long life, and his message of compassion and community-building, as well as his support for international comity, are gifts from which this nation will benefit for many years to come. As a resident of Pacifica for decades, we were particularly fortunate to have his voice within our community.

I am especially moved by the irony of his passing during this moment in our history. His life illustrated the true spirit of immigrants. His rise in the community, nationally and professionally illustrates why those who come to America to contribute to our blessings ought to be welcomed.

Please extend to your entire family my sincerest condolences upon the passing of Mr. Sastry. I am confident that his spirit of civic advocacy live on in his family, and will serve as an example for many in the years ahead.

With heartfelt best wishes,

was the kist collected that morning. A number of witnesses to the occurrence have been examined and they have proved the fact that the first accused assaulted P. W. 1 in the manner stated above and that the second accused took away the purse by force. The Magistrate has discussed the evidence and apart from the evidence of P. Ws. 1 and 2, there is the evidence of a number of disinterested witnesses who were present there and witnessed the occurrence and I therefore see no reason to interfere with the findings of fact arrived at by the Magistrate.

The only point urged before me is that the talayari is not a public servant, that he was not beaten at the time when he was discharging his duty as a public servant and that consequently no offence under S. 332, I.P.C. was committed. From the evidence of P. W. 1 which was read over by counsel for the petitioners, it is seen that he as a talayari used to go and demand kist and that he would be collecting it from those who paid it to him. It is a well known fact that the talayari is generally sent by the village munsif to make collections of kist and if parties pay the kist to him, he would receive and pay it to the village Munsif. Under S. 21 (q) I. P. C. the words "public servant" denote:

"Every officer whose duty it is, as such officer, to take, receive, keep or expend any property on behalf of Government or to execute any revenue process, or to investigate or to report, on any matter affecting the pecuniary interest of Government"

In this case it is stated for the petitioners that the word "officer" must be taken to mean a person who exercises any delegated function of the Government. It is the function of the Government to collect kist; and it is stated by the talayari, P. W. 1, he could go and collect kist from those who pay him then he is a person exercising a delegated function of the Government in collecting kist to a limited extent. According to the evidence in the case it was when he went to the village to collect kist that he was assaulted. The case reported in I Weir 342 has no application to the facts of this case. There it was found that the talayari has not got the functions of a police officer. In this particular case, it is not the case that he was acting as a police officer. It was when he was assisting the village officer in the matter of the collection of the kist, that he was assaulted. The other also has no bearing on the point in question. Arjan

Mal v. The Crown (1) relates to a case of chowkidar. The talayari is a permanent servant of the Crown and he exercises some of the functions referred to in S. 21 (q) of the Penal Code and while he was exercising such functions he was assaulted. The first accused was therefore rightly convicted. There is evidence to show that the second accused stole the purse that was in the possession of P. W. 1. The sentences of fine of Rs. 50 and Rs. 40 respectively imposed on them are not excessive for the offences under Ss. 332 and 379 I. P. C. The petition is rejected.

A. S. Sivakaminathan, for Petr.

Public Prosecutor (V. L. Ethiraj) for Crown.

ORDER.

This is a petition to revise the order of the Sessions Judge of East Godavari confirming the conviction and sentence passed upon the petitioner for an offence punishable under S. 5 (b) read with S. 7 (1) of Ordinance XI of 1941 read with explanations 2 to 5 of the amending Ordinance XXVI of 1942. He was sentenced to rigorous imprisonment for six months and a fine of Rs. 300.

The petitioner was appointed as an Assistant Public Prosecutor in East Godavari. In the course of his duties he had to conduct the prosecution of political offences. On the 18th November, 1942 he sent in his resignation which runs thus:

1. (1923) 8 Lsh. 440

* 1943 M.W.N. 805

"I hereby resign my post as A. P. P. Grade No. 2 partly as a protest against the repressive policy of the Government against Mahatma Gandhi and the Congress organization, secondly to signify my heartfelt approval of the Bombay resolution of the A. I. C. C. dated 8th August, 1942, thirdly to take active part in the Civil Disobedience Movement, i. e. the Freedom Movement started by the Indian National Congress under the leadership of Mahatma Gandhi. I request you to make arrangements immediately for the conduct of cases lest I should be suspected unnecessarily in conducting the cases. I am handing over the furniture, books, other records belonging to the Government pertaining to my office to the S.H.O. or the C. I. of Police, Amalapuram."

He did not discharge any duties connected with his office subsequent to that date. He sent also a letter praying for casual leave for three days on the very same date and went away to Cocanada on the 20th November. He handed over the books and furniture to the Station House Officer deputed by the Circle Inspector of Police and went away to Ellore where his wife and children were. He was arrested on the 30th November in connection with this case.

The petitioner's case is that he did not abandon his employment and therefore he is not guilty of the offence with which he was charged. Both the courts found that his conduct indicated that he abandoned the employment and therefore he was guilty.

Various points were raised in this petition but the only point urged before me at the time of the hearing is that the evidence cannot be taken to indicate that he abandoned his employment. The fact is that he did nothing in connection with his office after the date on which he sent in his resignation till he was arrested and there is also the fact that he was not in his district in which he was employed after the 21st November, till he was arrested on the 30th of that month. It is clear from the letter of resignation that he wanted to be relieved at once and his object in asking for relief was that he may take part in the Civil Disobedience movement. The Collector did not pass orders accepting the resignation. Though the petitioner says that he was suffering from acute dysentery he did not think it would be inconvenient for him to travel to Cocanada, to go to which place, as pointed out by the Sessions Judge, he had to cross the Godavari. His anxiety to ascertain what orders were passed shows that he was very anxious to get himself relieved. The express statements made in the letter of resignation as to the purpose for which he was tendering his resignation and the anxiety exhibited by him to go to Cocanada in spite of his ill-health to ascertain what became of the letter coupled with the fact that he did not wait in the district to receive orders on his application, go to indicate that he wanted to abandon his employment immediately and did act as if he had abandoned it. It is true that the district magistrate issued proceedings Ex. III directing the Additional Public Prosecutor to conduct the prosecutions, which the petitioner had to conduct, but that was because the district magistrate had to make necessary arrangements so that the work in court may not suffer on account of the absence of the petitioner, especially when he had an inkling of the intentions of the petitioner from the casual leave application received by him along with the letter of resignation. The mere fact that he was relieved from the work of conducting a few pending cases before him could not be reasonably taken to indicate that his resignation was accepted. He is an educated man who had been conducting prosecutions and he must and ought to have known that until his letter of resignation was accepted he could not abandon his employment. He cannot plead ignorance of the regulations and ordinances under which he has now been prosecuted and he must have known the risk involved in abandoning his employment. In these circumstances I do not think it could be said that when he absented himself, he bona fide thought that his resignation had been accepted. It is a clear case of abandonment of his employment and in the circumstances, the sentence is not excessive. The petition is rejected.
