

A WEARY WORLD: Week Four

BORROWING HOPE

Monday: Love in Action

Witnessing the power of love in action is a remedy that provides peace for the soul. There is a reason that actor John Krasinski's Some Good News videos were weekly viral sensations across the world at the start of this pandemic. People gain hope when they realize the world is full of loving people. Too often all that is covered in the media are the negatives surrounding us. Constant reminders of the bad in our world can be overwhelming and act as a sponge, absorbing the hope from our life. The truth is so much good occurs daily, it just takes place behind the curtains. People helping others in need isn't always something done in a public setting. It isn't done for recognition or accolades, but in a personal desire to live in God's word. Page 78 reminds us, "He taught us to love one another. His law is love. His gospel is peace."

Don't be afraid to share the goodness you see happening around you. People want to hear stories like that. People need to hear stories like that. Love in action can help drown out the hurt inside. Love in action reminds us that our world isn't as bad as it is portrayed at times. In fact, it is pretty amazing.

Today's Reflection

Question:

Where are you seeing love in action?
