The project, named, 'The Fallen' is a tribute to the civilians, German forces and Allies who lost their lives during the Operation Neptune landing on June 6, 1944.

The design was the brainchild of Jamie Wardley, 33, and Andy Moss, 50.

There are 9,000 individuals stenciled soldiers on this beach. They allow the waves to wash away the stencils as a symbolic memory of the lives lost.
