A Message from GCTENA's Chair, Jose Esparza

Spring is here and with a new season there comes new beginnings as well as new challenges. To begin with, my election as Board President meant a change in leadership after Dr. Ernie Lehr's many years of service and stalwart dedication.

Now, new ideas come to the fore with GCTENA board members continuing old tasks and taking on new ones such as strengthening our social media presence. Doing so, means that our voice as a community organization can reach even further than before and highlight the issues that concern us. Issues such as safety, security, code enforcement and homelessness.

Though homelessness may not be the issue that affects each one of us, it is an issue that concerns us as we try to understand it and cope with it day to day. One day we see happy, singing children taking part in an annual parade marking the first day of baseball season; the next day we see contrasting and stark images of human despair as homeless people rummaging through garbage or panhandling in our parks. Witnessing these contrasting images makes many of us confused and desperate for answers to some of our community's issues.

As a community-based organization, we try very hard to be your representatives when talking to our city's leaders. Therefore, we ask you as our neighbors and friends to come to engage us on social media and to come to the general meetings.

We may not have all the answers nor the solutions but we can make each other stronger by coming together.

Jose Esparza | Chair, GCTENA

Did you know that vehicles cannot be parked on your grass/lawn or unsurfaced area of your front or side-street yard in residential areas of Sacramento?
