BIO

Award winning film composer, songwriter and guitarist AJ Caruso launched on to the music scene in the late 80's, touring extensively across the Southeast U.S. opening for major acts such as CHEAP TRICK, REO SPEEDWAGON, FOREIGNER and KANSAS. AJ also appears on numerous tribute albums, contributing a multitude of talents including various instruments, vocals, programming, engineering and producing. His love for music in film inspired a natural progression into film scoring. AJ has created all original material for a broad array of media such as television, commercials, and independent films including the award winning films "My Friend, Oscar.", "Bury Me" and "Z.14.12." His uncanny ability to musically interpret the precise action in a scene in any style imaginable and working seamlessly and efficiently with film makers has made AJ one of the most sought-after up and coming music composers. AJ has recently transitioned to film making, writing, producing, and directing his short film debut "Z.14.12", this experience making him an even more valuable asset to any production team.
