WAKE HER UP

By Marcella Hill

I didn't know I was asleep until I woke up. I was doing life the way the books said. Dream boards, hustle, goals, grit, endurance, hard work, and vision. Despite all my effort, I kept losing everything.

I lost myself when my first marriage ended. I lost myself again when my business ended. Again, when my kids moved out. And then again, when my body failed me.

I had to find a way to exist when everything that had defined me was gone.

SIGNATURE QUOTES

- ✓ If you feel like somethings's missing, it's YOU!
- ✓ Other people are not a messed up version of you.
- ✓ Your joy is your air, without it you aren't living.
- ✓ You were created to happen to the world, not the other way around.
