

Hair Detox Methods – SciTOX vs. Hair Razor vs. Livity Pro-Cleanse

Feature / Criteria	SciTOX Detox	Hair Razor	Livity Pro-Cleanse
Effectiveness (Claims)	~99.75% success rate when used correctly; works for cocaine, THC, meth, opiates, amphetamines, ketamine, alcohol/EtG, more. Reviews and user discussions across all review platforms and web forums support the accuracy of this claimed success rate. Most difficult substances to remove are daily THC use with little to no clean time as well as heavy daily coke use, generally 2 grams or more a day. Both situations recommend the Double Protocol used over at least 6 or 7 days to minimize irritation and strain on hair.	Claims to permanently cleanse hair of drug toxins; no independent verification of success rate. Very few independent or trustworthy reviews available; most reviews are only on their own website and appear moderated to likely show only positive ones. Appears to be generally ineffective at removing coke or at least requires an exorbitant amount of washes per gram used. According to one reviewer a gram a day would require over 600 washes so he ended up choosing SciTOX and was clean in a week.	Marketed to remove all drug toxins; very few reviews available to support effectiveness. Product was formerly marketed for swimmer's hair, but rebranded in January 2024 for hair drug detox. Archived versions on the Wayback Machine still show old swimmer's hair claims. Also copies other companies and claims to be cheaper Macujo method/Aloe Rid replacement, but also like Zydol with much more product. Overall messaging is inconsistent—Not surprising coming from a company that switched their target consumers after being in business already.
Scientific Basis	Developed by chemists; multi-step, lab-tested process with documented metabolite removal	Proprietary formula; limited transparency on formulation or testing. Appears to have similar ingredients to the Macujo method such as salicylic acid, just without the extra ingredients found in the household products like detergent and face wash.	Multi-step kit with pre-treatment & shampoo & conditioner; no standout ingredients from any other shampoos and conditioners; no peer-reviewed studies
Process Steps	7+ stages: scalp and outer shaft cleansing, cuticle opening, metabolite breakdown, molecular structure change, breaking of melanin-metabolite and keratin-metabolite bonds, leaching out, oxidation, optional bleach/re-dye, UV treatment	Single shampoo treatment (instructions may vary by hair length/type) Repetitions in the dozens to thousands	Two to Three-step process: pre-treatment cream + cleansing shampoo
Time Required	Min. 3 hours; up to several hours; often spread over 3 to 4 days for standard protocol and up to several days for heavy/frequent use requiring Double Protocol, mainly of THC. Plenty report success using same day in just a couple hours. Spacing out recommended to minimize scalp irritation and stress to hair	~1–2 hours per wash, but can take dozens to hundreds (even thousands) of washes over several weeks or months for some users	Several hours total, often spread out over a week or more
Permanence	Permanent on treated hair. New growth likely has toxins	Claims permanence, but not independently verified	Claims permanence, but not independently verified
Substance Coverage	Wide range, including stubborn THC-COOH and heavy usage of all other substances; supported by numerous independent customer reviews on own website, Trustpilot, Quora, Reddit, Competitors Amazon Product Page	Claims to work on all major drugs	Claims to work on all major drugs
Damage to Hair	Possible dryness/brittleness (especially if bleach used or used on thin or chemically treated hair)	Mild to moderate dryness	Minimal dryness but essentially an overpriced shampoo and conditioner so damage wouldn't be expected
Ease of Use	Detailed instructions; customizable to time frame & needs	Simpler single-step process but potentially requires extreme repetition	Straightforward two-step process
Cost	$150–$400+ depending on kit	$90–$150 but some cases might need several and cost $1000+	$80–$130

Guarantee	Money-back (double in rare cases); rarely needed as customers generally range from satisfied to ecstatic with their results	Some resellers offer a guarantee; own website only guarantees that it lowers your levels not that it eliminates them	Some resellers offer a guarantee; terms vary. No guarantee on own website
Customer Reviews	Mostly positive; high trust on forums/Trustpilot; failures rare with correct use	Mixed; some pass, others fail; limited independent reviews	Mixed; some pass, but most fail; limited independent reviews
