Saturday Sun shines

Away the sorry shadows

Of stormier days

Hide behind tricks and fancy

Of the verse's dance

Yet still no slumber,

Safely in my Safety Sheets.

Stay away Sunrise.

My Mind unbending,

Yet to learn more helpful tricks

Than Elbow offers.

My apologies Good Sir.

The fault's my elbow.

A shelf for silly,

Simple things, makes floor room for

More valu'ble things

Miscalculated,

The angle off the target.

Step back, try again.

Dumbstruck and Dopey, Drumming

Dang, Dude, Ding! Dong! Ding!

Amber lanterns light

Ambling fellows in foggy,

Late Provincetown night

A blazing nudge to sisters

Searching for home ground

Italian Sausage

Basted with dimples, strong hands,

Green eyes, and rolled 'R's

March 18th, Spark

Your thighs like firm flint

Spark the head of my match stick

My hunt now in sight

March 17th, Timer

Will the winding wind
abate my tell-tale timer telling it its Spring

March 16th, Lasso

Wand'ring Dreams too broad,
like scattered hillside cattle,
For my lassos length

March 16th, Stamp

Yet no one will know
In shadows, stampless, silent
Yes, once you were here
