

Political Candidate Qualifications

Every holder of, candidate for, or political appointee to any elected Executive, Legislative, Judicial and Government Administrative office should be required to pass the same standard U.S. Civics and Constitutional Compliance exam that anyone applying for United States citizenship must pass.

The tests must be administered publicly, and under the exact same conditions and testing environment, with the exact same materials, and the exact same passing score requirements and restrictions. No personal electronics, assistants, aides or study/reference materials of any kind should be allowed in the room.

This should be immediately required at all levels of elected or politically appointed office. No advantages. No special circumstances. No exceptions.

If they can't pass the exam that defines their power, they shouldn't have it.
