

AVBS recently extended its international profile via a new partnership with Bioscientifica's specialist journal Vascular Biology - in disease, injury and regeneration <https://vb.bioscientifica.com/>.

Vascular Biology is a peer-reviewed, open-access journal publishing the latest basic, clinical and translational research and reviews in the field of vascular biology and intersecting topics. Led by Co-Editors-in-Chief Marie-Jose Goumans and Paul Quax, it maintains the highest standards of publication and research ethics and looks to position itself as the 'go to' journal for consideration after Angiogenesis, Cardiovascular Research, and Arteriosclerosis, Thrombosis, and Vascular Biology (ATVB). Through a reciprocal marketing and publishing agreement, AVBS and Bioscientifica aim to elevate each other via website and social media opportunities, sponsorship of awards and possible publishing opportunities (e.g. conference reports). Publications are currently free of charge with a long-term commitment of a significant discount for AVBS members (likely 25%). Watch this space as our partnership evolves over time and elevates/promotes research from Australian scientists.