The conference was great for having a range of speakers with different perspectives. It was especially valuable in having so many people from the British government (e.g. OFSI, FCDO, Department of Transport)

Stephanie Broekaart

Partner - Agorax

An excellent event bringing together industry, consultancy, law firms, and academia in a truly valuable exchange of insights!

Jeremy Round

Managing Director - Active AML

Meaningful discussion, great access to government, people airing genuine thoughts rather than reciting prepared propaganda.

Andrew Roberts

Global Head of Financial Crime Prevention - Enstar Group

The agenda was well balanced, included practical and useful information that will be genuinely useful in solving some of the challenges faced by organisations today. The speakers all brought something different and interesting. It was great to have such an open conversation involving leaders from both private and public sector, learning from and challenging each other.

Dr. Mayya Konovalova

Lecturer Accountancy, Taxation, Anti-Money Laundering - Birmingham Business School

The Sanctions Conference in Manchester was exceptionally well-organised, bringing together a diverse range of stakeholders, from policymakers and academics to business leaders. I especially valued the breadth of perspectives and the depth of insight shared throughout the sessions. Thanks to Ian and Mathilde for making such a well-curated and enriching event.

UK Government

A great opportunity for people from across the sanctions world to come together and discuss their insights and views on pertinent sanctions-related topics. The time spent having and listening to different discussions was valuable. It was also great to meet so many attendees from different background and professions, all with an interest in sanctions. The day was organised brilliantly.

Monika Zejden-Erdmann

International Trade Partner - Eversheds Sutherland

The conference is an excellent opportunity for sanctions professionals to get together and share experiences and legal updates. It provides unparalleled networking opportunities and a platform for first class thought leadership.

Hui Hui

Senior Officer, CDD - Bank of China

Given the critical importance of Sanctions compliance within the banking and financial services sector, we are honoured and mindful of the responsibilities involved in participating in such high-level event [...]. I found the sessions highly insightful and relevant to our work, believe the knowledge gained will contribute meaningfully to our ongoing efforts in this area.

Peters & Peters LLP

The engagement of senior government officials was very impressive and made for an extremely valuable conference.

Flutter Entertainment

If you're based in the North West and want to know what's happening in global sanctions, this is where you go. Better depth and breadth than others I have attended. The conference featured informative sessions where both regulators and industry were well-represented.
