ATLANTA, GA – April, 3, 2020 – Atlanta attorney Tiffany M. Simmons today announced the launch of her new online reality court TV show, HOOD COURT, airing live Sunday nights at 11pmEST, Mondays 6pmEST, Tuesdays 9pmEST, and Fridays 6pmEST on Instagram Live @theplugslawyer.

The provocative new reality court TV show comes in hot with in-your-face, blunt conversation and arguments that don't care if its lawyers and jurors throw explicatives to win a case. In each episode of HOOD COURT, viewers can expect to have their legal questions answered live and to serve as the live jury for docketed cases being heard by Judge TIP (Simmons' bench alias). Docketed cases in past episodes have included: (1) Should the Florida Pastor who violated a COVID-19 social distancing order be charged with attempted murder? (2) Should Tiger King Joe Exotic receive more jail time for his use of the "N-word"? (3) Should Bill Cosby or RKelly be released from jail due to COVID-19 concerns? Unlike traditional court tv shows, HOOD COURT allows jury members to step up to make arguments for or against any case being mediated by Judge TIP. With this live, interactive format, HOOD COURT is sure to edu-tain its viewers.

As to why Attorney Simmons is doing this, she says, "As a lawyer, I'm known for my results, honesty, integrity, & always being me! I created HOOD COURT because people need help getting through problems." She also explains that HOOD COURT isn't a new thought. "I conceived this show years ago, but with everyone home sheltering-in-place and courts being closed, now is the best time to help the hood mediate and navigate their issues." To be sure of this, Judge TIP always closes her show with the legal TIP of the day.
