

A NATURAL TALENT

A unique collection of handmade garden features can be found at Red Gum & Iron in Freshwater Creek

From humble beginnings in 2004, Red Gum & Iron owner Ash has experienced tough times in a couple of locations since arriving at Freshwater Creek.

After being given a medical diagnosis approximately two years ago which proved quite challenging, Ash has taken the bull by the horns, landed on his feet and poured his heart and soul into his business improving not only himself but also the lives of those around him. Ash has grown his business as a talented craftsman working with 100 per cent recycled timber and metal materials whilst sharing his talents with others and creating works of art for homes and gardens.

Red Gum and Iron is situated on Anglesea Road – a great location with easy access where the business can continue to improve and expand. Having recently relocated, the business is currently in the process of filling the new site with examples of Ash's skills with the raw materials he transforms.

Ash invites customers to roam the property and browse before choosing an original piece of art and is on hand to chat about your particular needs or he can create what you desire to your design and specifications.

As a talented young man Ash spent 20 years in the UK where he was fortunate to work in England where he was commissioned to make a door to order for Queen Elizabeth which was fitted into one of her many properties at Regent's Park. During this time he also created a vanity unit for Sarah, Duchess of York, to place in her home in Windsor where she resided at the time.

Red Gum & Iron is also a participant with the Nelson Park Specialist School Program helping autistic children, teenagers and children who struggle with school or have slight disabilities. This program enables them to regain confidence and sense of self-worth and wellbeing. The children participate on site at Red Gum & Iron working with timber and steel creating and building their own projects. Ash is very proud of this community service and is eager to get the program back up and running once again in 2022.

Red Gum & Iron
675 Anglesea Road, Freshwater Creek 0487 921 083
redgumandmetal@hotmail.com
f redgumandiron
i redgumandiron