STORIARTS

WHERE STYLE MEETS LITERATURE

In 2011, our founder Tori Tissell, three years out of design school and living under a mountain of student loans debt, needed Christmas presents for her family. Remembering the books that had helped her through tough times before, the concept of the Pride and Prejudice Book Scarf was born, then mere weeks later, Storiarts.

Our passion, along with our charity partner, LitWorld, is to spread the love of great literature with tangible reminders of your favorite books, poems, and stories, because great literature can change the world.

#CommitToLit

OUR STORY CONTINUES WITH LITWORLD

At Storiarts we believe literature is a force for good in the world and we've partnered with LitWorld to prove it. We started a #CommitToLit campaign to fight worldwide illiteracy, and share all the ways people around the world are committing to literature.

Every Storiarts purchase helps children worldwide learn to read, write, and create. The next chapter in our story is helping kids write their own.

100%

All of our profits from our Commit to Lit tees go directly to LitWorld, helping children learn to read, write, and create.

Books are my favorite way to connect with people; the stories we love can reveal our deepest desires and nurture our hearts like nothing else.

-Tori Tissell, Storiarts Founder
