

Volunteers needed for an Intergenerational Project

Would you like to share stories from your life with a University of Tennessee Knoxville design student?

In this project, you would take part in a series of conversations with the University of Tennessee graphic design students. The students will then create graphic designs /art that visually communicate the stories you have shared.

At the end of the project, the designs that are based on the stories you have shared will be displayed at The John T. O'Connor Senior Center.

Participation is voluntary. Conversations will take place in September and October 2025, via phone or video call.

We hope that these designs that visually communicate your life stories will inspire those in our surrounding communities.

If you would like to participate, please sign-up: at The John T. O'Connor Senior Center front desk, or call the O'Connor Center at 865-523-1135

Project faculty (University of Tennessee Knoxville)

Kimberly Mitchell • College of Architecture and Design • kmitch57@utk.edu • 928-380-9810

Lizzie Bowland • College of Social Work • sbowland@utk.edu

