WHAT DOES FAILING WELL LOOK LIKE

In Education

- a student fails an important exam.
- Failing well = student seeks feedback from teacher (student cares)
- Student identifies weak areas = understanding the situation
- Student formulates a detailed study plan = setting goals

WHAT DOES FAILING WELL LOOK LIKE

In Sports

- an athlete misses a crucial penalty kick.
- Failing well = athlete analyzes their technique with coach (athlete cares and understands the situation)
- Athlete dedicates extra practice to improve, remains positive and sets goals

WHAT DOES FAILING WELL LOOK LIKE

In Personal Development

- individual attempts to start a new healthy lifestyle but reverts to old habits within a few weeks
- Failing well = individual does not give up but rather reflects on what led to the setbacks (understanding the situation)
- Individual reevaluates their goals to ensure they are specific, achievable and measurable
- Individual make small modifications to their routine to ensure progress

WHAT DOES GOOD DECISION-MAKING LOOK LIKE

In College Selection

- High school students looking for the appropriate college consider various factors including academic programs, campus culture, location and financial aid options.
- They visit campuses, speak with current and more importantly former students several years post graduation to gather perspectives.
- They eventually choose a college that aligns with their career aspirations and their personal values.

WHAT DOES GOOD DECISION-MAKING LOOK LIKE

In Major Purchases

- Before buying a car, a consumer researches different models, compares prices, evaluates fuel efficiency and considers long term costs like insurance and maintenance.
- A wise consumer might also read reviews and test drive several options to make an informed choice keeping in mind all cars are designed to get you from point A to point B safely.
- Eventually make choices based on multiple factors

WHAT DOES GOOD DECISION-MAKING LOOK LIKE

In Career Choice or Change

- individuals contemplating a career choice or change evaluate their skills (education and soft skills), interests, and present and future market demand for various roles in various industries.
- They might seek advice from mentors, conduct informational interviews, and consider further education or training to strengthen their qualifications.
- Move forward with an informed choice or change.

PRACTICE MAKING GOOD DECISIONS

- Decision making is a process whereby a person chooses between two or more possibilities.
- If you don't THINK about the possibilities, but just act, you are reacting and not deciding.

THE DECIDING PERSON

- Sees each new situation as an opportunity
- Thinks before responding
- Is always looking for more possibilities
- Chooses a course of action and implements it

DEFINING THE SITUATION

- External elements (facts)
- Internal elements (feelings)
- Objective self awareness (acknowledge the situation, take another look, ask questions, make changes)

SETTING THE GOAL

- Needs=Survival
- Wants=Nice to have
- Define your values (people, things, ideals)

DEVELOP POSSIBILITIES OF REACHING YOUR GOAL

- Accumulate information(experts, podcasts, friends/family, the internet, schools, libraries)
- Brainstorm (anything goes)
- Consider (reflect on unique approaches and new combinations)

EVALUATE THE POSSIBILITIES

- Desirability
- Risk
- Probability
- Other considerations (focus on self or others, a mission)

MAKE THE DECISION

- A decision is a conscious choice and you are willing to take responsibility for your actions
- A decision is not a reaction, a command or a wish
- Not to decide is to decide to give your decision away

IMPLEMENT THE DECISION

- Objective (achieving the specific goal and not being influenced by personal feelings or opinions)
- Strategy (a plan of action)
- Tactic (specific activities)
- Assessment Plan (keeping your eye on the prize as well as being realistic/honest with your achievement. May have to PIVOT due to external conditions).

SUCCEED WELL

- Being nice is underrated – acknowledge those who helped you along your journeys
- Self-reflection
- Learn from what works – success is not the end, but the start of the way forward.
