4 GROUND RULES

- Respect for self and others
- Listening the art of listening is not easy
- No Blame blame = making others wrong
- No Interrupting allow space for others = patience

A photograph of a colony of penguins on a large, jagged ice formation. The penguins are mostly black and white, with some showing yellowish-orange beaks. They are perched on the top edge of the ice, which has long icicles hanging from its sides. The background shows a body of water with white-capped waves under a clear blue sky. A dark, semi-transparent circular graphic is overlaid on the left side of the image, containing white text.
