"PUTIN'S WAR"

Washington, D.C.

Paulius Klimas, a North Potomac, Maryland resident has written a song and speech for Ukraine. Two friends helped him write the song and the studio band "Paulius & Friends," recorded it at Dynamic Recording Studio in Rochester, NY. You can listen to both original versions at pauliusklimas.com.

Volodymyr Sukhin, from Kiev, Ukraine, who lives in Columbia MD, has recorded a new version of Putin's War. You can listen to this new version at stayfreeukraine.org.

Paulius Klimas is a Lithuanian American activist and songwriter/lyricist. The KGB arrested Klimas' father during WWII and deported his paternal grandparents to Siberia. He has a personal message for Vladimir Putin: "Go Home Now!"

Klimas is using music and the written word to combat Russian propaganda. His book, Yellow Green Red: A Story of Faith details how faith enabled him to publicize the plight of then Soviet occupied Lithuania in the 1980s and 1990s. (You can view a video of Klimas' media interviews also at pauliuklimas.com)

Today, the time for dialogue is over. Ukraine is fighting for its very existence. We must act now! NATO and the United States must engage Putin's aggression before it reaches Poland or the Baltic States. Appeasement failed in Europe before, and it will again. If Putin is not stopped now, he will continue his vile crusade to rebuild the Soviet Union.
