WHAT IS RELATIONAL ANALYTICS?

Relational analytics is an internationally proven methodology used to measure the strength and proximity of relationships.

Our board evaluation surveys go beyond the common self-assessment scorecard, to provide benchmarked insights into
- levels of trust between board members
- the 5 domains which contribute to Relational Proximity
- the tension between conflict and cohesion.

Through our data-driven approach, your board will be empowered to take the steps needed to strengthen mutual understanding, shared confidence, and assurance in your collective decision-making strength.
