As a unique and powerful gift, here are three things you can tell your husband (and all the dads in your life) this Father's Day:

1. He Is Never Alone.

Jesus promises he is with us wherever we go—when we're home, when we're at work, in tough circumstances, in every difficult call, every difficult meeting. "I am with you always, to the end of the age" (Matt. 28:20). Remind your husband of this. But tell him that you are with him too. Remind him of your wedding vows—to have and to hold, from this day forward, for better, for worse, for richer, for poorer, in sickness and in health, to love and to cherish, till death do us part. Remind him that you are a team, that you are with him in every victory and every failure, every joy and every struggle.

2. He Is Loved, No Matter What.

We are precious sons and daughters of an outrageously loving Father God. God's love for each of us burns bright and true. It will never dim. Not ever. Not even a little. If you were to plot his love on a graph, the line would be high and flat. It wouldn't fluctuate over time; it would never swing in response to our good actions—or even our worst. He doesn't love us more because of the things we've accomplished or acquired in life. Remind your husband of this. But remind him too that you love him for who he is—the love of your life—not for what he does and what he brings home.

3. You Are Not Worried.

For husbands, it sometimes feels like worrying is just a part of being a man. They, like us, worry about the bad things that might happen—to them, to us, to our loved ones. So, they, like us, strategize and plan about how to get out in front of all those things. As we know, all that worrying can hang over our lives. It can haunt our thoughts and steal important moments—moments that should be joy-filled.

But Jesus teaches us that we don't need to worry. For he didn't come so that we'd live lives haunted by fear. He came and died to set us free from such things (Gal. 5:1). He assures us that our Father God will take care of us, whether we worry or not (Matt. 6:26). Remind your husband of this, as well. But even more, tell him that you are not worried. Tell him you trust God. And tell him that you trust him too. Encourage him. Tell him you believe in him. Tell him that you know it's all going to be okay, somehow.

Write your version of all these messages on a card. Or, perhaps better still, tell him with your own words, looking directly into his eyes. However you do it, surprise your husband with these uncommon, right-side-up gifts on Father's Day.
