The Silver Belles met March 18 at the home of Lucile Owen in Grey forest. Twenty-one members attended including a new member, Meta Zoeller of FM 1560. Projects for the summer were discussed, and Mrs. Babe Gilliam displayed the new club yearbook. A family luncheon followed. The next meeting will be at the home of Bonnie Bricker on Prue Road.

Fred and Ellen Hall of Grey Forest had as weekend guests recently two friends from Minnesota, Mr. and Mrs. Don Collins. They toured Helotes and downtown San Antonio.

Dale Hill, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schuh of Leslie, is a candidate for Bexar County District Clerk in the May primary.

This is the weekend of the Grey Forest Trailwalk. It will start at 7 a.m. both Saturday and Sunday from the Scenic Loop Playgrounds recreation area. Cynthia North, Trailwalk director, said they will go rain or shine. Last year the walk drew 1,300 participants. So when driving in Grey Forest tomorrow or Sunday be alert for pedestrians.

A Spring art show party will be held Saturday, April 3, at the Northern Hills Art Gallery featuring the works of Margie Barker of Helotes. The party will begin at 7 p.m. The gallery is located at 14118 Short Horn off Nacogdoches Road.

James Terrell, a teacher at Coke Stevenson, and Joseph Larocca at John Marshall, have been appointed to the 1982 Administrative Internship Management class of Northside District, and will work as administrators this summer.

3 Elections Set For April 3

March Rain Totals .8"

March was notable here for the somewhat tardy arrival of beautiful blue bonnets in field over which fog hung most of the month. According to local Helotes weather observer and rancher, Henry Brauchle, the total rainfall was eight-tenths of an inch for the month—with, he added six or seven inches of fog. April showers are in the offing—with Easter and Fiesta to encourage the usual change of weather.

Saturday is election day in Helotes—the first regular city election.

In addition, it is also an election for the Northside School District and another for the Helotes Park Estates water district, Bexar County Water District No. 17.

To vote Saturday, Helotes residents will need to go to:—Helotes Hills' United Methodist Church kitchen for the city election

—Helotes School library for the school district trustees election —Water Board office, 12906 Helotes Park Plaza, for the water district trustees election.

The polls will be open in each place from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Only persons living within the city limits of Helotes may vote in the city election. Persons throughout the greater Helotes area may vote in the school board race. And only persons living within the water district boundaries may vote in that election.

The first Helotes city election will determine the mayor and five city council members for the next two years. The election of city officials held last November was a special election to provide officials until the regular day for city elections in Texas on April 3.

The current mayor, Tom Beatty, has filed for re-election, and is opposed by Chuck Lee, Bennie Lyon and Frank Thompson.

The five incumbent council members also have filed for re-election. They are Guy Burnett, Leonard Hill, Ruddy Loeffler, Verna Thompson and Pat Wootton. Two challengers have filed—Pete Cantu and Mike Krisak.

Also on the city election ballot is a referendum on a 1 percent sales tax for Helotes. However, some political observers doubt that the vote on the referendum will be legal since neither a public hearing nor advertising of the proposed referendum preceded its being placed on the ballot.

In the school board election two positions are to be filled out of seven candidates. For Place 1 they are Nellie Reddix, the incumbent, and Kay Brown, Alice Asher and Walter J. Geraghty. For Place 2 they are Harry Cunningham, the incumbent, and Mrs. Lee Applegate and Dr. Gerald P. Burns.

The water board election also is to fill two places. The incumbent is Joe Shaffer, and the other candidates are Bee Geisler and Harry Sherblom.

Circle A Trail Gatebuster

Down went the gatepost at the entrance to Circle A Trail on Saturday afternoon, March 27. The gatepost was on the property of Mrs. Maureen Mullins at the site of her well-known real estate agency. With her husband, A. J. (Moon) Mullins, in charge of the operation, two shoves from the bulldozer leveled the stone gatepost. The matching gatepost on the Exxon Station side of the entrance to Circle A Trail was not involved.

Mrs. Mullins plans development of the Bandera road side of the property if she can get a zoning variance from the Helotes city council. Earlier last week she was blocked from selling the property after refusal of a zoning variance, under a city ordinance which recently zoned the entire city for single-family residential use.

Meantime, Mrs. Mullins has announced the opening of Helotes Used Cars on Circle A Trail adjacent to her real estate office. She also has filed a law suit against the city over the zoning of her property and has asked that the ordinance be declared void.

Along Our Route

Dear Mrs. Brown:

We gladly take off a few moments from our busy schedule to offer our appreciation for the Church Article pertaining to our Revival with Evangelist Cramer.

Thank you for printing it as given, and for mailing a copy to our church.

If we can be of service in any way, please feel free to contact us.

Sincerely,
Preston Dupre, Pastor
First Baptist Church of Leon Springs

Dear Editor,

Helotes, Texas

Ten long years have passed since the American prisoners came home from the prisons of North and South Vietnam. Yet the fate of more than 2,400 other American servicemen and civilians still remains unknown.

Many delegations both official and unofficial have been to Vietnam and other parts of Southeast Asia seeking an accounting. To date the only results has been the release of 92 sets of remains, most of whom were known to have been deceased before 1973 and consequently could have been returned at that time.

In recent years there have been more than 390 firsthand reports of "live Americans still in captivity throughout Southeast Asia," and our government continues to investigate. In addition there is irrefutable evidence that the remains of more than 400 men are being stored in a warehouse in Hanoi.

For the families of those men the war cannot truly be over until there is the fullest possible accounting. Each one is very realistic and thus prepared to accept the finality of death, however, what they cannot and indeed should not be expected to accept, is a declaration of death based on speculation. If it is true that Americans are still being held against their will in Southeast Asia — and our government's policy states "the weight of evidence indicates that they are — then we must do everything possible to see to it that those men are not abandoned.

The daughter of one of the missing men expressed it succinctly! "I need to know if my father lives or is dead. I need to welcome him home with open arms or carry flowers to his grave. I need to know that he lies sleeping in a comfortable bed or in a peaceful hallowed ground." She expresses the feelings that have haunted the families of those brave men, some for as long as 17 years.

Beyond the need of the families to secure the accounting, there are two more extremely important reasons why it must be achieved. First, for our country, our government, it is a matter of honor. Secondly and even more importantly, for all of us as caring people, it is a matter of humanity. We must see to it that the fullest possible accounting is obtained.

Won't you express your deep concern for your fellow Americans to your elected officials and the Vietnamese ambassador to the United Nations? These men and their families are depending on you.

Mrs. Peg Treadway

CHUCK LEE FOR MAYOR

"A Journey Of A Million Miles Starts With The First Step."

Let's take that step in the right direction. The next two years are crucial years. The people of Helotes have the task of building a foundation for our new city. Together we can build a strong and lasting one.

I would like to share with those of you who were unable to attend the "Meet the Candidates" event on Sunday, March 28, my response concerning the projection for Helotes 5 to 10 years from now.

In addressing that question I could not help but think of Helotes as a young bride wishing to wear something old, something new and something borrowed.

SOMETHING OLD — the unique history, beauty, culture and charm of our community.

SOMETHING NEW — new conveniences, new services and a new conservative government.

SOMETHING BORROWED — a need to borrow the time of every citizen to attain our goals.

If we allow her these things, Helotes 5 to 10 years from now, can be a united self sustaining entity that we can all be proud of.

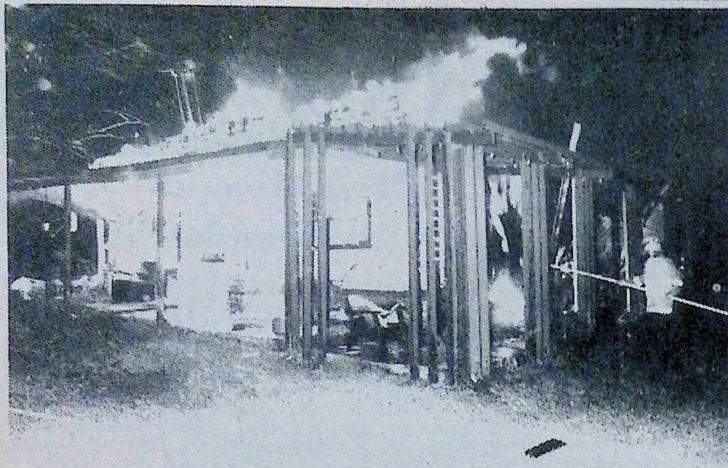

As a concerned citizen of Helotes, I favor:

1. Taxes at a realistic minimum.
2. Sales tax to allow non-residents who enjoy our conveniences to share our tax burden.
3. Cost conscious and conservative budget including short and long range planning.
4. Quality rather than quantity in our security system.
5. Promoting more support and enthusiasm from all served by our excellent Helotes Area Volunteer Fire Department.
6. Land use, to protect property owners against encroachment.
7. Allowing for selective business growth.
8. Preserving our natural and beautiful environment.

I WOULD APPRECIATE YOUR VOTE ON APRIL 3.

I have had a very gratifying experience meeting and discussing issues with many of you. Time has not permitted my meeting all of you, but I expect to have this opportunity in the near future.

Fire On Low Road

An early-morning fire Thursday did an estimated $60,000 damages to the home of John Schelling on Low Road. Mr. Schelling and his son were away on a trip at the time. The volunteer fire departments of Grey Forest, Helotes and Leon Springs responded to the 4 a.m. alarm. Low Road is off Scenic Loop Road near Grey Forest. Cause of the fire has not been determined. ## Fiesta Stars Bring Real Theater To Helotes Area

Wesley Eure

By Jeanette Akerson

Alison Arngrim and Wesley Eure, film and TV stars are playing at the Fiesta Dinner Playhouse in the romantic comedy, "Butterflies are Free."

Alison (as Jill Tanner) in person is warm, friendly and charming. With her outstandingly beautiful blue eyes sparkling, she is the opposite of the mean terror of Walnut Grove, the Nellie Olson character she played for seven years on "Little House on the Prairie."

Wesley (as Don Baker) states that he loves Texas. He offers a funny spoof about the Alamo City at the end of the play. He is the eight-year star as Michael Horton, Jr., in "Days of our Lives." He also starred in Sid and Marty Krofft's NBC series, "Land of the Lost," and Hanna-Barbera's major motion picture, "C.H.O.M.P.S.," to name just a few of his credits.

Talking with him after the show was a pleasant experience. He is very outgoing, witty and considerate. This good-looking Emmy winner could easily be the friendly boy next door with his charismatic personality.

Dan Carter (in the role of Ralph Austin) played at the Fiesta last year as the slow-talking Wiley in "Mister Roberts." His film work includes being a thorn in the side of Burt Reynolds in "Smokey and the Bandit II"

and "Cannonball Run."

Jacqueline Scott (as Mrs. Baker), whose first love is the theater, is probably best remembered for her role as David Janson's sister in the long-running TV series, "The Fugitive." She will be remembered by many in other films, such as four directed by Don Siegel. They are the Bette Midler film, "Jinxed"; "Charlie Varriack" opposite Walter Matthau; "Telethon" and "Death of a Gunfighter" opposite Widmark.

With a broad warm smile and giggle she said that one film in which no one will remember her was "Planet of the Apes." "But I loved doing it, it was fun," she said. She will be remembered for she is delightful and brings a lot of fun to her role as mother in this funny and entertaining play, "Butterflies Are Free."

The play will run through April 11. A Spanish version starring Rita Macedo, one of Mexico's top stars of film and stage, will begin April 13 and play through April 25. Joan

Alison Arngrim

Fontaine will star in "The Lion in Winter" from April 27 through May 30.

We are fortunate to have shows of this calibre so available to us here in Helotes. It's a short drive out Loop 1604 past UTSA to the intersection of Highway 281 North to the Fiesta Dinner Playhouse. It's a fun way to celebrate a birthday or some other special occasion.

With that in mind I am asking for your support and vote for Mayor. Although small in size, Helotes is full of ideas and opinions. It's been a long hard road from the idea of incorporation to where we are today.

I come to you with fresh ideas and an open attitude. We meet on the street, and I am one voice... hopeful that you will listen to the facts. I make no rash promises, but I consider your point of view.

ONE VOTE WILL DECIDE YOUR CHOICE OF MAYOR FOR THE NEXT TWO VERY VALUABLE AND DECISIVE YEARS. — THERE IS NO RUN-OFF.

It is obvious that I am seeking your vote and I would sincerely appreciate your support.

As for the future of Helotes... that's in your hands and your vote. Your vote for me is a vote for prudent, conservative, honest government... in a truly practical manner. We do not need "big" government and all its attitudes.

You may not entirely agree with your neighbor across the street or across the highway... but given the opportunity, I offer you a Mayor that will and can represent each of you fairly and openly.

Grey Forest Doctor Develops New Alcoholism Treatments

The following article is about the work a Grey Forest resident, Dr. Raymond Costello, who is a member of the faculty of the psychiatry department at the Health Science Center here. Dr. Costello has received international recognition for his work in alcoholism. (His wife, Sandra Schneider Costello, also is a researcher at the Health Science Center and formerly was a member of the Grey Forest city council.) The following article was written by Mike Lawrence for Texas Times, a publication of The University of Texas System, for the March issue.

Some time later, the doctor reports, the man went on a drinking binge and died.

"Alcohol abusers vary in their response to treatment," Costello says. "We have found that our program is as high as 60 percent successful with some patients and as low as 20 percent successful with others."

To arrive at his unique blend of treatment modalities, Costello reviewed alcohol treatment programs throughout the world. His findings were recently quoted in a BBC television documentary on alcoholism broadcast in Great Britain.

Based on his surveys, as well as on experiences at the VA hospital, the doctor and his colleagues have produced a treatment difficulty scale which gives them a method for predicting how successful treatment in their program will be.

"We count the number of life problems shown to be important in published findings on alcoholism," Costello explains. "The more of these an individual patient has, the more treatment will be needed and the poorer the chances of complete recovery."

Some of these factors are employment status over the past two years, financial independence, marital status, medical status, and psychiatric status other than from the alcohol itself.

A married, employed patient in relatively good physical and mental health has a much better opportunity to benefit from any treatment program, the doctor believes. The program he supervises is operated as a therapeutic community.

"Alcoholics treated in an in-patient setting where only physical symptoms are emphasized realize very little good in the long run," Costello says. "In our approach, we treat 30 patients on the ward for six weeks. In group sessions, we watch the way patients relate to the emerging society of the

"As we comment about what we see, the patients begin to realize that their actions in the hospital community are similar to their actions outside. They then begin to observe their own behavior more realistically and can practice behaving differently in the hospital so as to make changes on the outside more easily," Costello says.

In small groups, patients tell the story of their lives to one another.

"Initially, the stories are fragmented because the patients are emotionally upset and because of alcohol's effects on memory," Costello notes. "Gradually, the stories begin to make more sense and the patients begin to understand better the purposefulness or lack of it in the way they have been living their lives."

Costello credits Drs. Jacques Baillargeon and James Lee, also San Antonio health science center faculty members, with maintaining staff morale and creating an atmosphere of healthy attitudes about living.

The doctors view alcoholics as living their lives in a socially fragmented way. The more important alcohol is, the less socially integrated alcoholics are.

"We look for substitutes for alcohol's effects," Costello says. "If alcohol obliterated memories, we look for someone who will listen to those memories. If it helped to pass the time, we try to find activities to fill the time."

"Many of these patients do not confide in anyone and have no friends," Costello says. "For one of our sessions, each patient is asked to bring their spouse or a significant friend or relative to the meeting. One patient went out on the street and found a wino—a total stranger—and brought him to the meeting. We went ahead and worked with this man in the group. It was good for all of us. I know it showed me something about one alcoholic's social patterns."

Many alcoholics also have very disturbed sleep patterns.

"Dreams are frequently intense and frightening and the alcoholic wakes up nearly as tired and troubled as when he first went to sleep," Costello says. "It's hard for them to keep nighttime fantasies separate from daytime thoughts, because their sleep-wake cycle is so disrupted."

The doctor notes that many alcoholics acquire a psychiatric diagnosis suggestive of serious thought disorders because they are interviewed when they have not been sleeping well.

*Sandman, I'm so alone,
Don't have nobody to call my own.*

Please turn on you magic beam—

Mr. Sandman, bring me a dream.

*Please release me, let me go,
for I don't love you anymore.
To waste our lives would be a sin;
release me, and let me love again.*

Was this popular song lyric written by an alcoholic about the hold that alcohol had on his life?

One day some years ago, a man who claimed to have written "Please Release Me" and other popular songs including "Mr. Sandman" literally crawled onto the alcohol treatment ward at Audie Murphy Memorial Veterans Hospital.

Recalls Raymond Costello, Ph.D., associate professor or psychiatry at The University of Texas Health Science Center and assistant director of the therapeutic community for alcoholics at the VA hospital, "The man had damaged his brain with alcohol to the extent that he couldn't stand up. The motor functioning of his hands was still good, however, and he was an excellent piano player."

By the end of his 42-hour stay on the ward, which is the standard length of time for the program, the patient was able to walk out of the hospital, "although he had to keep his feet widely separated," Costello remembers.

Better To Skip 'Toys' For Easter

With Easter fast approaching, Paula Moore, president of the local humane organization, Man and Beast, Inc., cautions against buying live chicks, ducklings and "bunnies" for youngsters to treat as "toys."

"The baby animals are almost certain to die within a few weeks if not sooner," said Moore. "Often they are given to children who are too young to know any better who literally squeeze the life out of these delicate creatures."

Also a hazard for the baby animals, she said, is figuring out what to do with them after the youngsters lose interest. In the end, many of the creatures are deliberately abandoned in San Antonio fields, woods or ponds. Some are dropped off at animal shelters in the vain hope that "someone" will adopt them. "The reality is," she said, "that they will be put to death along with all the other unwanted animals in the city."

"There is also a possible health hazard for both the youngsters who receive these Easter animals and for their parents," Moore noted. "That cute, fluffy little creature may be harboring infectious salmonella, which can cause diarrhea, fever and severe enteritis."

Her best advice—for the sake of the children, the parents and the frail baby animals—is to stick with cuddly stuffed toy animals.

Apples, grapes, cranberries, plums and cherries should be stored in the refrigerator immediately after purchase and are best eaten within a week.

Look Dear—here comes another Easter!!

Health Tips

FAULTY VALVES LEAD TO VARICOSE VEINS

If man had four legs, he would be less concerned with varicose veins. But he is short a couple, and his upright stance places greater stress on the veins of his legs.

This is particularly true of occupations that require prolonged standing. Police officers, dentists, surgeons and cooks are susceptible to varicose veins.

These swollen, thin-walled blood vessels appear just under the skin of the legs. Blood is flowing backwards into the veins from above because their valves are not keeping the circulation going toward the heart. Pressure builds and the legs swell.

The Texas Medical Association says deeper veins within the leg often can compensate for the shallower, varicose veins and maintain circulation without significant swelling. But if the deep veins also have faulty valves, swelling increases and more varicose veins may develop.

The problem of weak valves may be inherited. And diseases, such as phlebitis, can destroy valves and lead to the enlarged veins.

Varicose veins often develop in pregnant women because of the increased amount of blood in the body. The problem usually goes away after delivery.

The common first symptom of varicosity is the veins protruding from the leg. Other signs include fatigue in the leg muscles, cramps and tenderness near the swollen veins, and a feeling of congestion in the veins. In later stages, the skin of the legs may become deeply pigmented and ulcerated.

Treatment includes surgery to remove the veins just under the skin's surface or more-risky injections that harden the vein to block it off. With either method, the goal is to remove the varicose veins from the leg's circulatory system so it can perform better.

Complications arising from varicose veins can be prevented by wearing support stockings to reduce the pressure on the veins, elevating the legs above the heart level daily, avoiding long periods of standing, exercising lightly (swimming, cycling, walking, dancing, golf), and not wearing tight garters or girdles.

A pound of cheese makes about five cups of grated cheese.

Fire Ants Committee

State Representative Dan Kubiak says campers and picnickers have virtually abandoned Stephen F. Austin State Park in San Felipe County because of heavy fire ant infestation...And at Washington-on-the-Brazos, areas around picnic tables and other facilities are being treated on a regular basis to keep the historic park safe for visitors.

Kubiak, chairman of the Select Committee on Fire Ants, says fire ants don't recognize man-made boundaries and invade the state's parks as readily as farm and ranch land. "It was already difficult to estimate the dollar damage to crop and grazing lands," Kubiak says, "and now we have to add in the loss of tourist dollars if the pest spreads into state parks." He says it's important to insure that state-owned lands be written into any treatment program the state adopts.

Kubiak says there are 67 state parks in the 109 infested counties containing over 78 thousand acres. (78,693) not including land around state-owned lakes and reservoirs or national parks. "I have already invited the Parks Department to send a representative to the next hearing before the Select Committee on Fire Ants to help us determine which areas have already been affected and to pinpoint areas in danger of infestation."

Kubiak says Texas must find out what Brazil is doing in fire ant control, since the pest brought no disease or natural enemies along when it landed in Mobile, Alabama.

LOVE BREAD, POTATOES, PASTAS?

HERE'S HOW YOU CAN ENJOY ALL YOUR STARCHES AND LOSE WEIGHT, TOO!

More than 50% of all adults over 30 are overweight. And at least 10%, if not more, of all teenagers are not at their best weight. Obesity is a major health problem and much of it is due to high calorie foods in the form of sugars, fats and starches.

Many people have a craving for starches which include such foods as potatoes, rice, oats, beans, lentils, bread, cereals, macaroni, noodles and pastas. These foods help add up to poundage!!

The starch blocker is an extract from the kidney bean. It was discovered by a famous biochemist and is a safe, natural formula that helps to block the starch calories without affecting your vitamin, mineral and protein digestion. This protein complex attaches itself to your body's starch digesting enzyme (amylase). When this happens the amylase is prevented from digesting starch, so that many of starch calories simply pass through your digestive tract. One tablet taken after 5 or 6 bites of a starchy food will eliminate 400 calories from your meal. If you are going to eat a large, starchy meal, use two tablets for good results.

Remember, you can lose weight only when you take in fewer calories, than you use. So, as with any diet plan, watch what you eat and get plenty of exercise.

Come see us — We have your starch blocker...

Bake A Bunny Shaped Carrot Cake For Easter

Baking at Easter is a tradition in many families; most use recipes that have been handed down from many different countries and cultures. Sweet breads are the most popular — the Russians bake Kirlich, a tall sweet bread baked in a mold rounded on top to represent the dome of a Russian church, and most European countries have a traditional egg bread with brightly colored hard cooked eggs baked in a sweet braided yeast dough.

Americans, too, have established Easter traditions. One uniquely American custom is the baking and decorating of an Easter cake which can double as a dessert and a centerpiece for an Easter dinner or buffet. Since carrot cake is a favorite, why not try a delicious carrot cake baked in the bunny shaped pan and start your own special Easter tradition? It's easy to bake and decorate, and sure to impress family and friends.

Professional results are easy to achieve with the Wilton Easter Bunny Pan because the bunny pattern is baked right into the cake. A decorating bag and tips are used to outline the contours made by the pan; then zigzags, dots and stars decorate the egg. The bunny's fur is simply fluffed on with a spatula. To make it even easier, Wilton includes complete decorating instructions and icing recipes with each pan.

The Easter Bunny Pan is available in your favorite department or discount store, cake specialty shop or directly from Wilton Enterprises, Woodridge, IL. 60517.

CARROT CAKE

1-3/4 cups sugar
3 eggs
1 cup vegetable oil
1-3/4 cups sifted flour
2 tps. cinnamon
1-1/2 tps. baking soda
1-1/2 tps. baking powder
3 cups grated carrots
2/3 cups chopped nuts

Generously grease Easter Bunny Pan with solid vegetable shortening. Dust pan with flour; tap bottom to remove excess flour. Preheat oven to 350°.

In large mixing bowl, beat sugar and eggs until thickened; add oil. Sift flour, baking soda, baking powder and cinnamon together; add to egg mixture. Fold in carrots and nuts.

Pour batter into prepared pan and bake in preheated oven for 45 — 55 minutes.

Cool cake and remove from pan.

BUTTERCREAM ICING

1/2 cup solid vegetable shortening
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1-1/2 tps. vanilla
5 cups confectioners' sugar (there are 4 cups in a pound)
3 Tablespoons milk

Cream butter and shortening with electric mixer. Add vanilla. Gradually add sugar, one cup at a time, beating well on medium speed. Scrape sides and bottom of bowl often. When all the sugar has been mixed in, icing will appear dry. Add milk and beat at medium speed two to three minutes. Keep icing covered with a damp cloth until ready to decorate. For best results, keep icing bowl in refrigerator when not using.

Historic Homes On Tour

Another of the homes featured on the Boerne Area Historical Preservation Society Historical Tour on Sunday, May 2, 1982, will be the Erna Davis Pioneer House located at 103 E. Kronkosky.

It is typical of the frontier homes of the 1860's. The house was built by Johannes F. Stendebach who immigrated to Texas from Germany in 1852. Mr. Stendebach was noted for his rock work, and the house is built of handhewn stone and has cypress flooring.

There have been several owners of the Pioneer house, including Mrs. Mary Dienger who lived there from 1921 to 1961. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Davis bought the house and restored it in 1965, and added a kitchen and bath.

The house originally consisted of the first two rooms with a back porch and a shed behind the house. The stairway to the loft was on the outside of the building as Sunday houses were built in those days.

Mrs. Davis has fulfilled a longtime dream by restoring the home to its original decor. Each piece of furniture has been carefully selected and the home is now decorated with authentic antiques from spinning wheels to cradle, old wood beds, milk safe and crescent wood stove. A cozy fireplace nestles in the corner of the parlor.

Another of the places of interest on the Boerne Historical Tour sponsored by the Boerne Area Historical Preservation Society which will be held on Sunday, May 2, 1982, is the Theis House, located at 104 Newton Street, behind Bergmann's Lumber Company, 235 So. Main Street.

The Theis House is the best preserved early frontier home in Boerne. It was built in 1858 by Phillip Jacob Theis, a blacksmith and wheelwright who immigrated from Germany in 1855. The Theis house was one of ten residential structures existing in Boerne in 1858.

Visitors can see the original chink and daubing construction, hand hews beams, willow reeds for lattice, adobe with straw for plaster, some rock construction and an old style cedar fencing.

Newton Street, adjoining the south boundary of the Theis property, was initially surveyed in 1852 as a public access to the Cibola Creek. It was left open for the use of bucket brigades and later fire hoses when there was a fire in town.

Mr. Theis operated his blacksmith shop under a mulberry tree in his front yard. Jacob Theis and his wife, Margaretha, raised seven children in the Theis home. One son, August Theis, took over his father's blacksmith shop and he and his wife, Agnes, lived in this house, where they also raised seven children.

Theis who died in 1879, was one of the signers of the petition to create Kendall County in 1859. August Theis, a son, was an officer in the state militia in the 1870's, during which time the old Theis homestead was used as an armory for the militia's guns and ammunition.

The youngest of the August Theis children is Max H. Theis, a loved Boerne senior citizen, who has been a lifelong resident, businessman and civic leader in the city. He and his lovely wife, Laura Bell, live at 119 E. Evergreen, in Boerne.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Bergmann are the present owners of the Theis house, and have restored it to its original state, complete with furnishings of that period. The house is filled with antiques and family mementos, providing a fascinating look into Boerne's past.

Pipe Creek To Host Chili Cookoff

The cookoff, to be conducted under rules of the Chili Appreciation Society International (CASI), will take place in Pipe Creek on Highway 16, approximately one-quarter mile south of FM 1283. Food and drinks, music, games, raffles and arts and crafts booths will also be part of the activities.

The entry fee for chili cooks, or for space to sell arts and crafts, is $10. For information, call 1-535-4541 or show up on April 3 to register.
