The new Helotes Christian Church on Highway 16 is ready to open as soon as the parking lot is completed, said Rev. Frank Flacy, minister. The church formerly had been meeting in San Antonio. They decided to move out of the city, and looked first for a location in Leon Valley but then came on to Helotes.

When the Trailwalk was held in Grey Forest, the Grey Forest Volunteer Fire Department sold helium-filled balloons to which a tag was attached with the buyer's name and then released. One balloon bought by the ECHO reached the ranch of Charles M. O'Donnell near Fresno, Texas, in the Houston area. Mr. O'Donnell found the balloon in his pasture and returned the tag.

Edwards Wells Rise

As the result of heavy rainfall in May, all water well levels throughout the five-county Edwards Underground Water District recorded increases by the end of the month, the EUWD office has announced.

Gains ranged from one foot at New Braunfels and Uvalde to 8.5 feet in San Antonio, Tom Fox, general manager of the EUWD, said. Spring flow also increased over April's readings. Comal Springs at New Braunfels were up 29 cubic feet per second to a flow of 326 cfs, compared with the longterm average of 299 cfs. San Marcos Springs gained 18 cfs to a flow of 141 cfs, still somewhat below the longterm average of 168 cfs.

Leona Springs at Uvalde, measured every six weeks, were flowing at 36 cfs, well above the average of 13.5 cfs.

The May readings reversed a four-month downward trend, but Fox pointed out that the levels likely will decline during the summer as lawn, garden and farm irrigation increases. He urged all consumers to follow prudent conservation practices in their use of water during the hot summer months.

The Edwards Underground Water District is planning to sponsor and hold a series of public meetings in July and August throughout the five-county area of the district to provide a regional forum to discuss future water resources in the area and the public's concern for water problems and solutions.

Beginning early in July, meetings will be scheduled in New Braunfels, San Antonio, San Marcos, Hondo and Uvalde. An advisory group consisting of area city officials and water district executives will work with the EUWD staff in planning the forums, said Tom Fox, EUWD general manager.

discussed ways of keeping operating expenses, now financed chiefly by donations and franchises, in the black, until the first city tax period arrives after October, 1982.

It was announced that the anticipated loan for $250,000 to be used to raise interim income had been disallowed by the officials of the University National Bank upon the advice of their director. A bank official told the Echo that questions raised by the Internal Revenue Service as to the responsibility in paying taxes due on the income to be engendered on the Certificates of Deposit was a chief factor in withdrawal of negotiations with the City of Helotes. The Council at the last meeting had passed an ordinance to allow the Mayor and two aldermen to complete such a contract.

No action was taken on a request for a beer and liquor license by a local merchant, due to the absence of the merchant.

The chairman of the traffic committee has resigned for personal reasons and a new chairman will be appointed, it was reported.

Mayor Tom Beatty said that Helotes had entered into a two-year contract with the City of San Antonio effective Jan. 1, 1982 through Dec. 31, 1982 to provide EMS and 911 response at the price of $8,859.68 with the payment deferred until the City of Helotes has sufficient revenue to meet the obligation.

Col. Leonard Otten, as a citizens committee chairman, is looking into garbage disposal plans for the City to adopt, and has been in contact with various companies now entering the City of Helotes to serve customers. He was given a go-ahead to look into billing and other important factors regarding this service.

The meeting was adjourned while the City Council spent a half-hour in executive session with the attorney discussing legal ramifications.

Mayor Beatty had the City Clerk read a statement for

Foster Home Volunteers Are Very Special People

Some very special people have accepted the challenge of helping kids in trouble turn their lives around. These people are participants in the Voluntary Foster Home Program.

The kids are 10- to 17-year-olds who may have committed minor violations of the law, may have a record of truancy or may have severe conflict at home. Many of them do not need a "lock-up" facility but should not be placed back in the home situation where there is a lack of supervision.

Short term foster care helps these adolescents by providing a warm, caring home situation for anywhere from a week to a month while permanent arrangements are being worked out.

A unique aspect of the program is the diversity of the families. A volunteer foster family may be a single adult, a couple or a traditional family. They may be a young couple with children or retirees. There are no 'age' restrictions. Similarly, there is no minimum income required, so participants are from all economic groups. The major requirements are a sincere interest in young people, a "big heart", and a willingness to share one's home and family with a young person in need.

Clothing, school supplies and medical and dental care for the child are taken care of by the Program. As the name implies, the families are not reimbursed for their services. For them, participating in an adventure, and the satisfaction of sharing their home and helping a child, is payment enough.

Persons interested in becoming one of these very special people may contact the Voluntary Foster Home Program at the Bexar County Juvenile Probation Department by calling 220-2732.

OLLU Gets Gift To Tune Of $10,000

A violin purchased out of a teenaged shoe repairman's wages in the 1920s became a $10,000 gift to Our Lady of the Lake University in a private ceremony recently.

Ed Benzing, a retired sales representative for World Book Encyclopedias, presented the approximately 160-year-old replica of a Jacob Stainer violin (1621-1683) to Sister Emelene Matocha, a music instructor, for use by the University's music students. At age 13 Benzing bought the violin from his father's cousin who had brought it from Germany to Blue Island, Illinois.

"Because of my high regard for the University and especially Sister Jane Marie Barbour, I decided to donate the violin to Our Lady of the Lake," said Benzing. Sister Barbour, now retired, was director of the University's school of library science when Benzing was a salesman.

The violin's value was determined by Julio Voirin, owner of the Voirin Violin Shop, based on tone quality, craftsmanship, wood selection and age. Voirin did some restoration work on the instrument.

"I started working for wages when I was eight," Benzing commented. After seeing the violin, he decided to purchase it. "I played the mandolin, but never had the time to dedicate to playing the violin... Well, I did play for awhile with the symphony, but I wasn't very good," he laughed.

Linn, U.S. Marine Corps, this Saturday, June 19, at the Fort Sam Houston Post Chapel, with a shower and reception at the Lion's Club Bldg. The Lions Club members also attended. Texas has more fairs, festivals and expositions than any other state—over 500 each year.

Statistics show that the Caribbean islands rank as one of the most popular locations for honeymoons by Texans. June bookings for Frenchman's Reef Beach Resort in St. Thomas, for example, were up 37 percent last year, due primarily to the increased popularity of the islands among honeymooners.

Richard Todd, captain of the New York Jets, and his bride chartered a boat from the Reef's Undersea Centre for daily scuba diving among the many wrecks of ships that went down in the area years ago. They were joined at the hotel by Mike Kadish, of the Buffalo Bills, and his wife who discovered the area on their honeymoon and decided to settle in

The YMCA of the Hill Country was recently granted a charter from the National Council of YMCA's.

"We are now part of the national and international network of YMCA's" says Jim Cawley, Executive Director of the HCY. There are operating YMCA's in every state in the U.S. and most foreign countries.

The majority of YMCA's are chartered as municipality YMCA's with their services and programs directed at residents within that community. The Y of the Hill Country was chartered as a geographic YMCA because of its intent to utilize natural and historical resources within a significant geographic areas, the Texas Hill Country, to serve members that will come from everywhere. The geographic area defined in the charter has a center-point in Blanco, Texas, bounded on the East by the Balcones Fault and on the West by an arc that intersects Mason, Texas.

The HCY will be similar in structure to the Y of the Rockies, a successful geographic Y in the Rocky Mountains. The difference is that they HCY will never use buildings or a central program site. "We will use multiple natural sites and literally be a Y without walls," Cawley said. "The Texas Hill Country offers more classrooms than we can fill if we only leave out the walls."

Annual membership in the new Y is $20 per individual or $30 for family or household.

For further information regarding the HCY call (512) 477-2897.

New Detector Helps Effort To Determine Age Of The Universe

"One of the most powerful new astronomical tools in the world," is the way scientists are describing a now proven "detector" and sensitive photodiodes that, with large telescopes, can measure the light spectra of very faint galaxies and quasars throughout the known universe.

Built by the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory, the detector and its associated spectrographs use a sensitive EG&G Reticon photodiode array coupled to a high-gain image intensifier package to count individual photons from the very faint celestial objects. The resulting spectra are yielding important astronomical information about the expansion of the universe, its age and history.

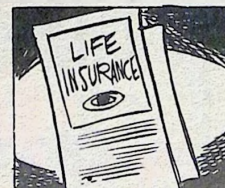

Installed two years ago on the Multiple Mirror Telescope (MMT) atop Mt. Hopkins near Tucson, Arizona (the world's third largest telescope), the Smithsonian detector has been instrumental in the spectacular discoveries of distant quasars (known as gravitational lenses) whose point-like images have been split into multiple spots of light by intervening galaxies.

Besides these discoveries, the Reticon system is being used to study the dynamic behavior of distant galaxies.

These studies are expected to have significant impacts on calculations of all the mass of the universe — a key factor in the long-standing controversy over theories as to whether it will go on expanding or eventually draw back in on itself.

Reports from Washington

The European Alliance

At a time when the Western Alliance may be facing its most serious crisis since its founding in 1948, President Reagan embarked on his first overseas summit.

The current positions in the alliance reflect a broad spectrum of differences between the United States and our allies, ranging from interest rates to sanctions against Russia, from nuclear strategy to the defense of the Persian Gulf region.

The President's European trip — his first since being elected 16 months ago — offered a unique opportunity to face the entire agenda of political, strategic, and economic problems.

By all appearances the Versailles summit and the following NATO meeting in Bonn were a success. We know that the many problems facing all nations of the world today cannot be resolved by a stroke of the pen, or issuing a broad statement of goals. But the ability to discuss the issues intensely, and together, heightens the level of awareness.

The joint communique issued by the seven major industrial nations at the conclusion of the economic conference in Versailles affirmed that the world leaders had deepened their mutual understanding of the gravity of the world economy. They also agreed on a number of objectives for urgent action with a view to improving the economic, social and political situation.

The free world leaders at Versailles acknowledged what our nation has been learning during the past year. An improvement of the present situation, by a further reduction of inflation and by a return to steady growth and higher employment levels, will strengthen our joint capacity to safeguard our national security, to maintain confidence in the democratic values we share and to preserve the cultural heritage of our peoples in all their diversity.

Full employment, price stability, and sustained and balanced growth are essential objectives. They are attainable in the coming years only if we pursue policies which encourage productive investment and technological progress. If, in addition to our own individual efforts, we are willing to join forces, if each country is sensitive to the effects of its policies on others, and if we collaborate in promoting world development, this can be accomplished.

President Reagan, particularly in Bonn, was charged with diffusing European concern over the Soviet threat and this country's response. The passion for detente exercised by some of our allies, in some instances, fails to recognize the Soviet threat and our response to it.

In addition, on how best to defend Europe — a factor in which this country figures prominently — the Persian Gulf region remains linked to the security of our nation as well as Europe. We must face up to these realities and the sooner the better.

This summit, for all its pomp and circumstance, was important. It is necessary for this nation to define its relationship with our European allies and keep that definition firmly in mind on both sides of the Atlantic. Europe and the United States have a common destiny and a relationship that includes both affection and irritation. We may differ in some points of view or lines of conduct, but we know that we must come to the aid of our allies when necessary. Nations, after all, are not moved by sentiments but by vital interests. It is important to recognize that all of our security goals are the same.

It takes you thirty minutes to reach a level of deep sleep.

warded by University National Bank officials regarding the possible CD loan, which said the bank would not be able to enter into the agreement, with a brief explanation.

The question of moving the incorporation of Helotes from Chapter 11 to Chapters 1-10 was deferred. Under Chapter 11, the highest rate of taxation is 25 cents per $100 evaluation.

An air-conditioner for the City Hall was discussed and plans made to acquire one.

No action was taken on zoning and planning. The next regular meeting will be Thursday, June 24 at 7 p.m. at PARC Building, Mayor Beatty announced.

Security Pays

The Social Security Program, during the fiscal year ending on September 30, 1981, paid benefits amounting to $140 billion to approximately 36 million beneficiaries.

Cancer Answer Line

American Cancer Society
M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute

Question: "I took DES during pregnancy. Is my daughter in danger of vaginal cancer?"

Answerline: This synthetic hormone has been implicated in vaginal cancer among a relatively small number of young women whose mothers took the drug during pregnancy. The risk is small but you should discuss the situation with your physician, especially if your daughter has developed vaginal bleeding or spotting.

Question: "What is a biopsy?"

Answerline: It is a surgical procedure to obtain tissue which can be examined microscopically. There are three kinds of biopsies: incisional, excisional, and needle. The incisional cuts only a part of a tumor away for examination. The excisional removes the entire tumor, as, for example, a growth on the skin. The needle is used to withdraw fluid or tissue for examination.

Question: "How many chemicals cause cancer?"

Answerline: About twenty chemicals are regulated as carcinogens by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration. As of October, 1979, 2,590 substances have been reported to cause a tumorigenic response in animals, although not necessarily in man. These were tested by the National Cancer Institute (NCI) or reviewed by the United Nations International Agency for Research on Cancer (IARC).

Since controlled studies that would expose humans to suspected carcinogens are difficult to carry out, evidence for human carcinogenicity has to be projected from animal studies or epidemiological data. In view of the long latency period for human cancer, it is possible that only now, evidence may be showing up of human cancers that could have been triggered many years ago.

Question: "What is multiple myeloma?"

Answerline: It is a type of cancer which originates in the bone marrow. It causes the bones to become fragile and brittle. It occurs most often in middle-aged men. The chief symptom is pain of the bones, and there may be fractures. Treatment may involve both chemotherapy and radiation.

Question: "Do young men get prostate cancer?"

Answerline: Although cases of the disease have been diagnosed in young men, it usually occurs after the age of 50. Incidence and mortality rates are higher among black American males than among whites. Cancer of the prostate gland also occurs more frequently among married men than among single men.

Highways List Top Cities

Among out-of-state auto visitors who came to Texas during 1981, Dallas, San Antonio and Houston proved to be the state's most popular destinations according to a profile of auto travelers released today by the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

"That may be no surprise," said Tom H. Taylor, director of the department's Travel and Information Division, "because those cities are always among the top visitor destinations in Texas. But where last year's highway travelers came from was a bit of a surprise.

"While it's logical that neighboring Oklahoma was our number-one supplier of auto visitors," said Taylor, "our figures show that distant California and Illinois were right behind.

"We thought cross-country auto travel might have faded after the shocks of oil embargoes and dollar-a-gallon gasoline," Taylor explained. "But at least for 1981, the long-distance drivers were back on the highways."

Daryapayma-Noyes Wed Here June 12

Roxie Louise Noyes of Helotes and Nozar Daryapayma of Plano, Texas exchanged wedding vows June 12 before the Rev. Jerrie Jones of the Helotes Hills United Methodist Church in a garden ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, also the setting for the reception.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Roland R. Noyes of Helotes, and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Mansour Daryapayma.

Serving as Matrons of Honor were Mrs. Joel Clark and Ms. Susan Miller. Other attendants were Mrs. Davis McLellan, Ms. Christine Noyes, Mrs. Abbas Abtah, and Miss Kathy Fisher.

The bride's gown was of voile. She carried yellow roses in her bridal bouquet, and wore a wreath of fresh flowers.

Best man was Bruce Green, and the other groomsmen were Nasser, Daryapayma, Nader Daryapayma, Bahram Daryapayma, Charles Noyes and Duane Hallsted.

Following a wedding trip to New Orleans, the couple will live in Dallas.

Many area bikers will be coming together on Sunday, June 20 for a Father's Day ride to fight muscular dystrophy. The trip will be a 70 mile ride into the Hill Country around New Braunfels.

The Motorcade will be leaving R & D Harley-Davidson at 303 W. San Antonio, New Braunfels, at approximately 10 a.m. with the ride coming to a halt at Cypress Bend Park. There will be music, contests, food available and free beer.

Happy Father's Day

Dear Dad,

Sometimes when I think of how you worked your way through college, and then did so much to work my way through A&M, I wish I could do something special for you. Then last September I started working your grandson's way through college, and I appreciate what you did more everyday.

A Childhood Memory

*When somebody mentions something about their dad,
I think of my father's childhood and the fun he had had.*

Some people say that I'm too young to know things about long ago, but how do they know.

*I spend hours talking with Pop as he tells me of his boyhood.
He told me once that there was a candybar called "Damfino" and boy they were good!*

*"Five cents," he said, looking at me and patting my head.
Then he looked at the wall, tracing back his memories one and all.*

I watched him silently as the minutes ticked by, a smile flicked across his face so I asked him why.

*He told about the time back in 1924, when he walked into the old general store.
"I want a candybar," Pop said,
"What kind?" asked the clerk cocking his head.*

*"Damfino," Pop replied, holding out his nickel which the clerk then spied.
Getting that candybar was such a joy, to a young, carefree, growing boy.*

*Peanuts, chocolate, and marshmallow too!
"I loved it," Pop said, "And so would you!"*

I looked at him then and thought of his past, and wondered why the good ol' days just didn't last.

Blanco Jamboree Held June 12

The Rancher Family, singers at the Blanco Jamboree.

Erik Harwell enjoying the festival (close to his mother Peggy). Blanco Jamboree.

I arrived shortly before 10 a.m. in Blanco where the Parade was forming. The first thing one of the judges said was, "It's raining on our parade." Indeed it was. I followed the judges and took pictures as they passed out the ribbons for the winning floats but the weather, being what it was, the pictures didn't turn out very good. The first place winner was the Country Amateur Theatre with Lea Twidwell riding on it. She was dressed in an old fashioned southern belle costume and was sitting on the porch of a southern mansion overlooking a garden of flowers.

The second place went to Citizens County Unit. Sheila Wolfe was sitting in a very romantic old time swing in a garden with a picket fence around it. Just as I took the picture Gary DeLaun of KENS news, sat down in the swing with Sheila. I did not realize who he was at the time. Other winning entries were Blanco Co., which had a field of wildflowers and blossoming trees. There was a prospector with his burro, an old Model A. Ford with occupants dressed in early twenty's costumes from Blanco Lumber & Hardware Co., the Boerne Berges Fest called a Fathers Day Weekend had a cottage with a picket fence and several children around it. The largest float won third place. It had a theme of early 1900's with children playing with a ferris wheel, having a tea party, playing with their dolls, some girls were lounging on a large parlor chair and the queen was on an old time romantic swing. The float was Hill Country Store and Cheri's Frolics.

The most colorful float was the Strawberry Festival from Poteet with their queen sitting on the large red strawberry and the queen and her court all wearing red.

I went to the square around the old courthouse in Blanco where the Festival was set up. The first event was the "Little Dudes & Dolls Contest." This contest consisted of children ages one to six. They were judged on Charm & Poise but many had on costumes ranging from little girls in old fashioned dresses and bonnets, hooped skirts and pantaloons to cowboys complete with boots, big hats and guns. The children were divided into 3 categories: ages 1 & 2 were "Little Dudes and Dolls", ages 3 & 4 were "Little Country Charmers & Cowboys" and 5 & 6 were "Miss Jamboree & The Jamboree Kid."

As they crossed the platform these children showed all types of personalities. Some cried and didn't want to come on, some wouldn't stay off the stage. One little girl when asked if she would wave at the audience, blew a kiss instead. One little boy in the Little Dude group (his name was Erik), stood facing the front, gave a great big grin and held both hands above his head in a victory sign, then did a little jig before they could get him off the stage! Music was provided by the Rancher Family and Joe Hargis of Country Clover Band was at the microphone while Cheri Harwell interviewed the children as they came across the stage.

The next events were the Texas Toe Tappers, a clogging group from Seguin, children's groups doing Square Dancing, Mexican Dancing, and German Dancing.

I wandered around the square checking out the food and novelty booths and watched the gunfighters. There were chuck wagon demonstrations from LBJ Ranch and a Medicine Show. For the children there was a space walk and other fun things. Crossing the creek I found the Chili Cook-off and other events going on. These included a jalapena eating contest, an egg throw and a mechanical bull.

Other contests included the beard contest, the fiddlers, and later the queen and costume contests.

I wandered over to the Bijou Theatre and watched a melodrama complete with Little Nell, a villain and a hero with popcorn to throw and a sign telling the audience when to Boo and Hiss. The Rancher Family sang and The CanCan Girls performed.

The Polka Band back at the Pavilion was delightful, the girls in the queen's contest beautiful and dressed in colorful dress. They had been walking around all day being judged. The winner was announced at the Pavilion at 6:30 p.m. The Chordsmen sang nostalgic Barbershop Quartet type songs.

The Town Crier went around all day with his scroll announcing the different events. It was a clever idea.

The Costume contest was really an all day affair too because they were observed all during the day, then the awards given at 6:16 p.m. There were old fashion dresses and bonnets, old ti suits, a country farmer, Indian, a civil war uniform and a town crier. Many others wore costumes which did not win prizes. They made the day more colorful as they wandered around the Festival Grounds.

Among the added attractions were a soap making demonstration, a lost wax method of jewelry making demonstration, a booth with wooden "puddle jumper" toy aircraft and rubber band guns, an art show, ceramic guessing games and many others.

The day ended with dance with music by "Middle of the Fiddle" at Twi Sisters. At this rate "Blanco the best kept secret in Texas won't be secret very long!"

Check Out Herb Teas

Some herb teas may have possible side effects that are more than just relaxing, says Dr. Cass Ryan-Crowe, a food and nutrition specialist.

Ryan-Crowe is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Reports have shown that senna tea can cause abdominal cramps and watery diarrhea, the specialist points out.

Deaths have even been reported in Africa from ingesting overdoses of senna preparations, she adds.

Chamomile, made from flower heads, can cause anaphylactic shock, unusual or exaggerated reaction to a foreign protein or allergic rhinitis in persons sensitive to ragweed pollen she explains.

Many herbal teas do have a list of ingredients, be sure to ask what the tea contains before purchasing them, Ryan-Crowe suggests.

Lockyer led his Northgate High School team in scoring, rebounds and assists last season while making the all-league squad for the second straight year. He was named to the Contra Costa All-Star team and the Superstar Invitational Camp All-Star team.

Don Eddy, coach of the UTSA Roadrunners, is glad to add Lockyer to his team, which will be competing in its second NCAA Division I season next fall. "Kent is just an exceptional perimeter shooter," says Eddy. "He is very sound fundamentally."

Lockyer popped in 17 points per game last season, connecting on 58% of his attempts from the field and hitting 76% from the line. He also grabbed nine rebounds per game.

In addition to his basketball accomplishments, Kent is an all-American swimmer in the freestyle. "That shows a lot of agility and endurance," notes Eddy.

Lockyer will major in business at UTSA.

Dental School Makes Football Mouthguards

Football players from Prairie View A&M University will have new, custom-fitted mouthguards when they begin practice this fall.

The custom mouth protectors are being made by a team of dentists, dental students, dental assistants and dental laboratory technologists from The University of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio in cooperation with Prairie View's department of athletics.

The mouthguard program is part of an elective course offered for dental students at the San Antonio school. Drs. Robert Morrow, William Kuebker and John Jones from the school's prosthodontics department are course directors.

Last year the dental team made mouthguards for the Texas Longhorns at UT-Austin and will fit the incoming freshmen at the school later this summer.

"The mouthguard program provides a unique opportunity for dental students to gain experience in the special problem area of mouth protection for the athlete," Morrow said. "Also, the athletes enjoy the mouthguards because the custom fit and occlusion are improvements over some earlier designs."

Mouth guards are not a new accessory for football players. The standard type of guard can be adjusted to the mouth by immersing it in hot water to make it pliable, then molding it over the teeth. Players customarily do this themselves.

However, the health science center dentists believe they have improved the comfort and protective ability of the devices which are made of a thick, clear plastic that holds its shape, yet is flexible and comfortable.

"Some of the players want to be able to remove the guards during huddles or at other times, and have them attached to their helmets so the guards won't get lost," Morrow said. "We provide this feature."

"We also include in the construction a layer of soft material to lie between the upper and lower teeth. This provides a comfortable 'bite,' and protects against injury if the teeth are knocked together.

The health science center dental team made its initial visit to the Prairie View campus in April and will return in August to make impressions of the incoming freshmen on the Panther team.

Roadrunners Sign Five

The University of Texas at San Antonio has signed five women's basketball recruits to scholarships for the '82-'83 season.

Among the UTSA prizes are four high school players and one junior college transfer. By position, the new Lady Roadrunners include a center, two forwards, one guard/forward "swing player and a point guard.

"We tried to get some talent at each position, and I think we did," says Ginny DeHaven, head coach.

The lone transfer student is Valerie Wells, a 5-10 forward from Western Texas College in Snyder. Wells, whose hometown is Amarillo, averaged 12 points and eight rebounds per game last season.

Stacey Eitner, 5-10, is the other UTSA forward signee. She averaged 14 points per game plus nine rebounds as a senior at New Baltimore, Mich.

The Lady Roadrunners acquired some much-needed size by signing Karen Vogts of Arlington, Wisc. Vogts, 6-2, will be the tallest player on UTSA's roster. She averaged 19 points, 13 rebounds and five blocked shots per game as an honorable mention all-state selection at Poynette High School.

Becky Dube of McAllen, Texas will be counted on to play guard and forward at UTSA. Dube, 5-8, was named "Valley Player of the Year" each of the last two seasons.

The Lady Roadrunners captured an excellent point guard prospect in Lynn West. The 5-7 recruit from Bentonville, Ark., sparkled with averages of 21 points, six rebounds, four steals and four assists during a three-year high school career.

The five new Lady Roadrunners will join seven returning letter winners on the UTSA squad next fall.

Drum, Bugle Corps To Play

Seven of the nation's finest drum and bugle corps meet in exhibition at Harlandale Memorial Stadium, San Antonio on Monday, July 5.

More than eight hundred young musicians will take part in this colorful new show.

The Highland High School Band Boosters are sponsoring the show called "Alamo City Drums and Bugles."

Also featured in the show will be the Alamo Marksmen, San Antonio's new drum and bugle corps. The corps is directed by Highland's Band Director Cecil Morris. About sixty young men and women from the San Antonio area are in the corps.

Drum corps are an outgrowth of the old fife and drum corps from around the turn of the century. These were usually associated with the military. Most early drum and bugle corps were sponsored by the American Legion, V.F.W., or by churches.

Through the years, the drum corps have become self-supporting, and have evolved into colorful, imaginative musical groups.

The music used by drum corps ranges from classical, through jazz, rock, pop and country to middle-of-the-road.

Tickets can be purchased at Joske's or Ward's stores, or they can be ordered from Alamo City Drums, 2615 Stratford, San Antonio, Texas 78223. For more information, telephone (512) 533-8902 or (512) 533-7865.
