

Helotes Festival Set for May 5-7

Person-to-Person

Visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Gibson, Circle A Trail, is their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Julia Gibson. Julia will leave in May for Italy to join her husband, Lt. James P. Gibson, at his army station in Vencizo . . . An Easter vacation visitor at the Gibsons' was their daughter Judy, a senior at Southwest Texas State College. Judy will be graduated in June.

Art Fair, Parade Get Top Billing

The Second Annual Helotes Arts Festival will begin a three-day run on Friday, May 4, at 7 p.m. with the Festival Queen Beauty Pageant at the Hickory Hut Party House.

But that's only the beginning. In just two years the spring festival has become the biggest civic event in Helotes. It represents the all-out combined efforts of all communities in the Helotes area and all organizations.

Sponsors this year are the Helotes Art Guild. The first festival, in 1966, was sponsored by the Helotes Lions Club. It was an instantaneous success.

General chairman of the 1967 festival is Mrs. Jean Gibson, newly-elected vice president of the art guild.

A FEATURED EVENT will be the Roadside Art Fair to be held up and down Bandera Highway Saturday and Sunday afternoons. But, as Paul Kime, newly-elected president of the art guild said at a recent all-organizations meeting to plan the festival, its an "arts festival"—with an "s" on the word.

"We mean to include all arts—not only painting, drawing, sculpture, and ceramics, but also entertaining, dancing, cooking, riding, and everything else that Helotes people do. Everything we do well is an art," Kime said.

MRS. MAGAVERN AT CANYON LAKE

A former resident of Grey Forest and officer of the Scenic Loop Playgrounds Club, Mrs. Lydia Witte Magavern has recently completed her home at Canyon Springs Resort on Canyon Lake. Grey Forest residents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Faust and sons, Byron and Bruce, will visit her soon, and Bruce—an expert angler—may bring back a big one.

GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis E. Spiller of Helotes recently celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary at a reception in Hermann Sons Hall on Braun Rd. They were married March 29, 1917, at Merryville, La. Hosts for the reception were the Spillers' son and five nieces.

SCHOLARSHIP TO COLLEGE

All Northside Independent School District, Holmes High School faculty and students, and former teachers of Pat Corbin, Holmes senior, were justifiably proud of him recently. Pat received a college scholarship presented to him April 5 at the third annual Employers Appreciation Assembly honoring 900 distributive education trainees in the San Antonio area. Mrs. Lou Braendele, training supervisor, Sears, Roebuck & Co., made the presentation. Pat's present employer is C. W. Brandfest, manager of Bruner's Department Store on Bandera Road.

LINDA IS RUNNER-UP

In the April 3 District FFA Sweetheart contest, Linda Bandy, Marshall High School senior, was chosen runner-up. She was escorted by Dennis O'Neil. She also will participate in the Lion's Club Beauty Contest.

Grey Forest Elects Four To City Council

The citizens of Grey Forest elected four new alderman in an election held April 11. The new members of the city council are Kurt Schumacher, Mrs. Ike Parrott, Robert M. Duty, and Hermann Mikel.

The terms of incumbent Mayor Jack Nottingham and Alderman Richard Miller have one year to run. Mrs. Schumacher is city secretary.

Election judges were Mrs. Ed Kempf and Mrs. C. F. Sterzenback. The two other candidates for the four council places were Dewey L. Hart and Leonard Pison.

The city of Grey Forest still is accepting applications for the natural gas system to be installed this year, Mayor Nottingham said. More than 700 families had signed up by early April.

The Grey Forest city hall and fire house building was improved recently by the addition of a natural rock covering on the outside walls. A community rummage sale netted $184 to help pay for the rock work.

Scenic Loop Club To Install Officers

New officers of the Scenic Loop Playgrounds Club will be installed at the annual meeting in May. They are Norris Parrish, president; B. P. Melgaard, vice president; Mrs. C. O. Brown, secretary; and Mrs. Harley Thompson, treasurer.

The club is composed of property owners in the Grey Forest area.

Kime Heads Art Guild

At their annual election held in the gallery April 7, the Helotes Art Guild elected Paul Kime its second president, succeeding Rod Ayres. Other officers elected were Jean Gibson, vice president; Lanna Gaines, secretary; A. J. Grothues, treasurer; and Lillian Hurlbut, parliamentarian.

Mr. Ayres, before turning over his gavel to Mr. Kime, said that he appreciated having the opportunity to serve as the guild's first president in a year which saw the club grow from some 30 members to over 125. He also was one of the founders of the guild.

Community Asked To Party April 23

The new pastor of Helotes' Our Lady of Guadalupe Church will be welcomed with a community-wide reception on Sunday, April 23, from 7 to 9 p.m., in the parish hall at the church on Riggs Road.

He is the Rev. Louis Trawalter, S.M., former pastor of Holy Rosary Church in San Antonio. He replaces the Rev. Cyril M. Kuehne, S.M., who retired last June because of illness. The church had been served by temporary pastors in the interim.

Everybody in the community is invited to the reception, said Mrs. Kurt Schumacher of the Our Lady of Guadalupe Altar Society.

McGuire To Head Jay High School

Terry McGuire, former principal of Helotes School, has been named principal of the new John Jay High School to be opened next September by the Northside Independent District on Marbach Road. McGuire currently is vice principal of John Marshall High School.

He holds bachelor's and master's degrees from Southwest Texas State College and has been with the Northside district for five years. He has been teaching for nine years.

John Jay High School will serve the western part of the Northside district, chiefly the rapidly-developing Lackland Air Force Base area. It is about four miles west of Olive Wendell Holmes High School.

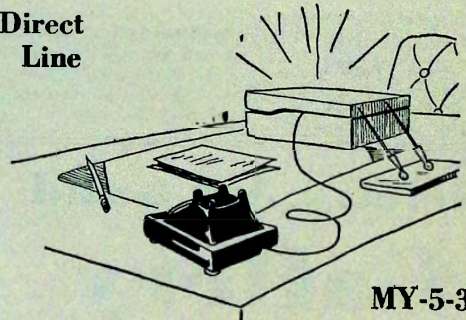

Beard, Busby Win School Board Slots

Bob J. Beard, Shavano Park, and Billie F. Busby, Leon Valley, won the two places open on the seven-member school board of the Northside Independent District in the annual election held April 1.

It was the fourth time that Busby had been named to the board. He serves as the board's secretary. Beard who was elected to his first term has served as president of the commission on education of the Jefferson Methodist Church.

Six candidates were in the race for the two places. A total of 473 votes were cast.

Direct Line

MY-5-3525

DIRECT LINE is one way to find answers to questions that keep popping up around here. Merely call MY 5-3525 Monday through Friday mornings. Your answer will be printed if it is of general concern in the next ECHO.

"We're new here and I wonder . . . where did Helotes get its name?"

HELOTES is a Spanish word for what we call corn-on-the-cob, roasting ears, or green corn. The Helotes Creek received its name from the fact that the Indians used to grow corn—maize—in the fertile valley adjoining it. Early in the nineteenth century, Monsieur Guilbeau established his vast Helotes Ranch here, although it is not easy to say who first called the town Helotes.

Is our Congressman out here still Henry B. Gonzales? I didn't see his name on the ballot in the last elections."

No. Due to redistricting, Bexar County was given to three representatives. At the last election, the Helotes area helped choose Rep. O. C. Fischer of San Angelo as Congressional representative. His territory includes the Northwest corner of Bexar County. The Southeast corner of the County is represented by Abraham (Chick) Kazen, former State Senator from Laredo. Of course, Representative Gonzales represents San Antonio and he has said that he channels all questions from our area to Rep. Fischer.

"Where is Maltzberger's Store? Our friends told us they used to shop there."

It's still here—it's now called Andrews Grocery.

6 Marshall Students Take Science Honors

Rodney Jordan, a John Marshall High School senior, was winner of the high school biological division at the recent Alamo District Science Fair.

Second prize in the senior physical division went to Herbert G. Uecker, John Marshall High School junior.

Honorable mention went to four other Marshall students. They are Chris Cooley, Beethia Arnold, John Hall, and Peter Offers.

Helotes Arts Festival—

Other events in the three-day festival will include:

The Helotes Volunteer Fire Department's Annual Dance, Friday night at 8 o'clock, on the Floore's Country Store patio, with music by Dale Keith. Admission will be $1 per person. Door prizes will be awarded at intervals during the evening.

The first annual Festival Parade, Saturday at 11 a.m., beginning in the Helotes Park Estates shopping center plaza and proceeding up the Bandera Highway to the main part of Helotes and breaking up near Scenic Loop Road.

CHAIRMAN OF THE parade is Dade Rayfield, and grand marshal will be Alex Parrigin, 93-year-old Helotes realtor. Entries will include high school and military bands, floats sponsored by Helotes business firms and civic organizations, a western group entered by Gallagher Ranch which will include a surrey, carriage and sulky and various riders, and "anything and anybody else in South Texas that is big enough and ugly enough to do it," Rayfield said.

For the Roadside Art Fair to be held Saturday and Sunday afternoons, more than 150 artists and craftsmen from San Antonio, the Hill Country, and as far away as Dallas have applied for exhibit space, said Mrs. Gibson. She expects the work of at least 200 artists to be shown.

Cash prizes in three categories, oil, water color and crafts, will be awarded at 1 p.m. Sunday.

Other artists and craftsmen wishing to enter may phone Mrs. Gibson at MY 5-3157 or Mrs. Gaines, guild secretary, at MY 5-3573.

ENTRIES FOR THE Queen Contest, open to girls 13 to 15 years old who live in Grey Forest, Helotes Ranch Areas, Helotes Park Estates, Hills and Dales, and Stage Coach Hills, may be made by calling Mrs. Betty Wilson at MY 5-3420.

A second dance will be given Saturday night at Floore's Country Store with music by Hugh Toepperwein, and a free dance will be held there Sunday afternoon beginning at 4 p.m. again with music by Hugh Toepperwein's band.

Carnival booths will be set up on Bandera Highway both Saturday and Sunday, and special entertainment will be presented at intervals. This will include square dancing and mock gun-fights.

Traffic control for the festival will be directed by Joe Wallace, who has been designated "The Law East of the Pecos" by Sheriff Bill Hauck.

Assisting the Helotes Art Guild in underwriting the festival are the merchants of the Helotes area.

Open House Held At New Gallery

Two Grey Forest residents, Mrs. Miriam Jersig and Mrs. Dot Parrott, are members of the Little Studio Gallery of San Antonio which has opened new quarters at 225 S. Presa St. opposite La Villita. An open house on Sunday afternoon, April 9, marked the opening.

Seven other San Antonio artists are associated with Mrs. Jersig and Mrs. Parrott in the gallery. Both also are members of the Helotes Art Guild.

April Roadside Show Features Lillian Hurlbut

SPECIALIZING IN Chinese water color and ink drawings, Mrs. Lillian Hurlbut is shown before some of the scrolls that she has painted.

The Helotes Art Guild spotlighted the Chinese ink and water color drawings of one of its member artists, Mrs. Lillian Hurlbut, at the guild's monthly roadside art fair, Sunday, April 2.

Mrs. Hurlbut, 10814 Bar X Trail, Helotes Park Estates, is the wife of retired navy captain Dr. Herbert Hurlbut, now a scientist at Southwest Foundation for Research and Education.

She became interested in Chinese painting during a four-year stay in Taipei, Taiwan, where Dr. Hurlbut was assigned in 1960.

Her subjects are the traditional mountain landscapes and oriental flowers. She uses Chinese brushes and paints on rice paper in the basic colors of black, red, blue, yellow and brown.

The larger drawings are mounted on a silk or paper scroll with a wooden roller at the bottom. She sends them to Taiwan to be mounted. Her smaller drawings may be framed.

In the roadside fair she also exhibited a recent group of oil paintings, mostly still life and flowers. Mrs. Hurlbut, 63, paints in a studio in her home. She is experimenting with applying Chinese techniques to subjects in the Texas Hill Country.

Both Mrs. Hurlbut and her husband are natives of western New York state. They had lived all over the world before coming to San Antonio a little more than a year ago.

4 Students Win in Meet

Four Northside District students won top honors in the 16AAAAA' University Interscholastic League spring meet April 8 at Holmes High School, which saw Laredo's Martin High carry off most honors in the eight-school speech and literary meet.

Sara Weidner of Marshall High School won in journalism, Janice Burkey of Marshall won the typing contest, and Robin Tawney of Holmes took a poetry interpretation title. Dennis Deegear of Holmes took second place in the boys' informative speaking contest.

Sara, who is on the Marshall Rampage staff, qualified for regional competition April 22 at San Antonio College against journalists from such schools as San Antonio's Lee, Jefferson and Alamo Heights.

The other titlists also advanced to regional before going on to state competition.

Robin was also named to the all-tourney acting team.

Women's Club Sets Meeting for May 2

The Helotes Women's Club will meet Tuesday, May 2 at 7:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Roy E. Stensland on Scenic Loop Drive in Grey Forest and will elect a new vice president and treasurer for two-year terms.

The program will feature the Scottish Rite Children's Hospital with films shown by Capt. Stensland, who is active in the support of the work done, especially for burn victims.

Elected to the nominating committee in the April meeting at the home of Mrs. Walter Johnson were Mrs. Joe Wallace, chairman, and Mrs. B. P. Melgaard and Mrs. H. E. Brown.

There's one sure way to stop a red-hot argument—drop one cold fact on it.

Helotes Pastor Writes First Book-Length Story of Medina

The first book-length account of the development of Medina Lake, "Ripples From Medina Lake," has been written by the former pastor of Our Lady of Guadalupe Church in Helotes, the Rev. Cyril M. Kuehne, S.M.

Father Kuehne spent nearly 25 years in research on the story an interviewed hundreds of persons. Although the book was published more than fifty years after construction of the dam, he found a surprising number of men among the living who had worked on the dam and canal system.

THE ATTRACTIVE BOOK with large page size and spiral binding is illustrated with 50 full-page pictures of the construction of the dam. The pictures are remarkably good and give a graphic view of the magnitude of the project.

The story begins with the settlement and development of Medina, Bandera, and Comal counties. Comal county is included because some of the early German colonists who had come into the New Braunfels region fanned out into the surrounding country as far as the Medina River in Bandera county.

The dream of a lake on the Medina River began, Father Kuehne says, with Henri Castro, the founder of Castroville. "He explored the Medina Valley and perceived how nature has fashioned the country, producing the possibility of irrigating the farm lands to the south, if only some means could be found to hold the water that periodically flooded the Medina Canyon."

The man who actually began the project was Alex Y. Walton, who came into the Box Canyon of the Medina about 1894 to hunt.

"In due time he confided his project to Terrell Bartlett, recently graduated from Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who had come to San Antonio and opened an engineering office." Bartlett had as his partner another engineer, Willis Ranney. Both became interested in the project, and to raise money for it turned to Thomas B. Palfrey, a former railroad operator and successful business man.

PALFREY IN TURN interested Dr. Fred Stark Pearson, world renowned engineer and promoter of vast projects, and his chief engineer, Clint H. Kearney, native San Antonian.

"On May 1, 1910, Fred Pearson applied to his wealthy friends in London . . . He suggested selling bonds of the San Antonio Land and Irrigation Company . . .

aggregating some $6,000,000. The British responded by over-subscribing that amount, so that it eventually became necessary to turn back a large amount to the investors."

The first pouring of concrete for the dam began on November 10, 1911, and the dam was completed one year later on November 24, 1912. It ranked then as the largest in Texas and fourth in the United States.

But, writes Father Kuehne, "the construction of Medina Dam was only the first phase of a master plan, conceived by Alex Walton, planned by professional engineers, and promoted by Fred Pearson."

The dam was designed to impound a vast supply of water in the reservoir of Medina Lake. This supply was to be controlled and released, as needed, for the irrigation of farm lands in Medina, Bexar, and Atascosa counties. The long range objective was to sell the land to prospective farmers and to supply the farmers with water, for a price, on a permanent basis.

SELLING OF LAND was delayed after completion of the dam because of a lack of rain. The year 1912 turned out to be one of the driest on record in the Medina watershed. Good rains didn't

Speaking for the cast, Frances Kneupper commented, "I think 'Curious Savage' could be the best play Marshall has ever had if the people in the play work extra hard."

HELOTES TO GET VET

Dr. Richard W. Foster, San Antonio veterinarian, intends opening an office in the Helotes area. He has eighteen years of practice since his graduation from Texas A&M College and will be available to help our four-footed friends.

The Post Office will issue the Duvy Crockett 5-cent stamp on Aug. 17, 181st anniversary of the birthday of the Alamo hero. San Antonio has been picked as the site of the issuance of the new stamp in the American Folklore series.

Presbyterians Have New Brick Church

The Forest Hills Presbyterian Church has been a part of the Helotes community for about three years. It was started about this time of the year in 1964 when some people in the Scenic Loop decided that the time had come for them to stop driving all over Bexar County to worship God. They began to work together to build a church in their own community.

The church started as members of many different denominations met for worship and study, first in the Scenic Loop Youth Building. They soon moved into the Helotes Elementary School cafeteria. Then, around Christmas, they moved into the rock house which is located on the present six-acre church property.

The new brick building, in which the church now meets for worship, study, and fellowship, was designed with the needs of the Helotes community in mind. It consists of a fellowship hall and kitchen which can accommodate a crowd of 160 people comfortably, five classrooms large enough for about twenty-five

Tall Texan Owns Big Gallagher Ranch

By DADE RAYFIELD

At age 78, the owner of an historic Texas ranch still sits tall in the saddle. She operates the largest working ranch in Bexar County and the oldest guest ranch in the Lone Star state.

Monetarily, however, her spread represents only white chips in a no-limit game. A multi-millionaire, her blue chips are in minerals, gas and oil. Just to sweeten the pot, there are, of course, six other ranches in Texas, New Mexico and Missouri.

She is Mrs. Amy Shelton McNutt, widow of the late Vachel H. McNutt, noted Southwestern mining engineer and geologist who discovered the first commercial potash in the Western Hemisphere. She owns the fabulous 10,000-acre Gallagher Ranch at San Geronimo, nine miles west of Helotes. It predates the fall of the Alamo.

TOUGH AS RAWHIDE and as enduring as the centuries-old live oak trees which shade her sprawling ranchhouse, Mrs. Mac is no "lady farmer." Up with the sun, her driving energy is directed to every phase of ranch life that knows nothing of the eight-hour day. She attacks each morning with the zest of a person a fraction her age.

One friend has said that the reason Ponce de Leon did not find the Fountain of Youth in Florida was because it was really in Texas. Mrs. Mac found it on her Gallagher Ranch and named it Indian Mounds Spring.

Although qualified for acceptance among modern America's "senior citizens," most of whom, if they can afford it, retire to planned existence in the security of California-Florida colonies for the elderly, Mrs. Mac embraced the challenge of a 10,000-acre cattle spread. She and her late geologist husband bought Gallagher Ranch in 1927. Mrs. Mac operated it as a cattle ranch from the start, but leased the guest ranch facilities until she made it her home in 1936.

For the next 10 years the ranch took something of a back seat in Mrs. Mac's life while she continued to amass a fortune in US Borax, ranches throughout the Southwest, oil and gas, and eventually ground-floor investments in blue-chip stock. Gallagher Ranch was, primarily her home. Dudes were welcome if Mrs. Mac found them pleasant and entertaining. They included celebrities in the world of art and science, financial tycoons, and just "plain folks."

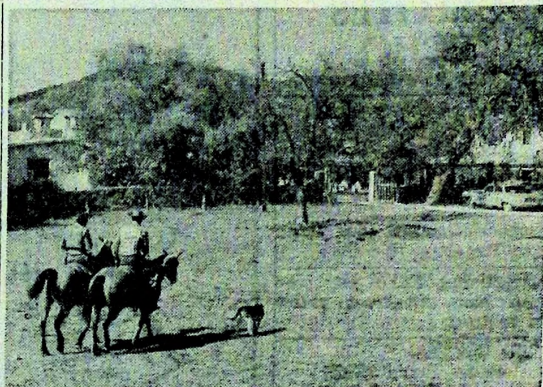

WITH THE DEATH of her second husband, Bob Dye, in 1955, Mrs. Mac returned to Gallagher Ranch from Northern Ontario, Canada, where Mr. Dye, a lifelong friend of Mrs. Mac and a classmate of her first husband, had been the manager of the Dome gold mine. It was then, at 65, that Mrs. Mac directed her major interest to the development of Gallagher Ranch into an enterprise for which she recently refused a million-dollar offer.

Although close friends say Mrs. Mac has increased her financial holdings several times since the death of Mr. McNutt almost 30 years ago, Mrs. McNutt credits everything but Gallagher Ranch to the foundation laid by her geologist husband. Her broker in San Antonio says that Mrs. Mac's net worth has increased many times since the death of Mr. McNutt, and that she has "accomplished tremendous things in the financial field on her own."

"Mac taught me everything I know," Mrs. McNutt says quietly but firmly. And then her eyes light up as she declares proudly: "But Gallagher Ranch is mine. I've done it all myself!"

And Gallagher Ranch is something of which to be proud. Dating back to a Spanish grant given Peter Gallagher in 1833, the 10,000-acre spread was established three years before the Alamo fell. In the 100-old years since Peter Gallagher selected the valley of the San Geronimo River as a supply base for a Mexican army intent on driving the gringos out of Texas, the ranch and its buildings—some of the original still stand—has served as a fort on the Indian frontier, a post office, stagecoach stop and changing station, headquarters of a 300,000-acre ranch project, and a modern, efficient cattle and dude ranch.

MRS. MAC GLORIES in the RIDING TOWARD the headquarters of the Gallagher Ranch are two of its working cowboys. The cattle-and-dude ranch contains 10,000 acres.

About the Author

Dade Rayfield, a resident of the Helotes area for the past ten years, is a native of Springfield, Mo. Now a free-lance photographer and writer, his background includes 16 years as a newspaperman and 15 years in Air Force public relations and photography.

After attending Southwest Missouri State Teachers College in Springfield, he worked as a reporter, photographer, desk man and editor on newspapers in Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas. He left the Arkansas Gazette in Little Rock to enlist in the Army Air Corps and in World War II served in North Africa and with the 8th Air Force in England.

Later he became a combat photographer in Korea. He received the Commendation Medal for photo and editorial coverage of the Marine withdrawal from Yalu and the Chosin Reservoir in December-January, 1950-51. His combat photos appeared as covers on Newsweek and The New York Times Magazine and were used to illustrate "The Bloody Trail Back" by Marguerite Higgins in The Saturday Evening Post.

Since his retirement his material has appeared in national and regional magazines including Leica Photography, True West, Texas Parade, Texas Magazine of The Houston Chronicle, and Texas Parks and Wildlife.

Dade's goatee, Western hat, cowboy boots, and camera are familiar to most people in Helotes.

early history and rich tradition of the old ranch, but it is her modern business enterprise of which she is most proud. Financier, philanthropist, practical geologist she may have become in later life, but basically she is a woman of the land and loves most those things which the land produces.

Her story is almost one of "rags to riches." She was born August 24, 1889, on a farm near Paris, Missouri, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeff T. Shelton. She never knew her father. He died when she was only two weeks old. She was orphaned nine years later with the death of her mother.

"I grew up on a 200-acre farm in the blue grass of Southeast Missouri," Mrs. Mac recalls. "After my mother died, there were three of us, my Grandmother, Mrs. Lucy Ann Shelton, my brother and I."

The Sheltons were not rich. Mrs. McNutt describes Grandmother Shelton as a "Kentucky Lady in the best Southern tradition." Grandmother Shelton had all of the social graces of the Old South, along with the genteel poverty of many Southern families after the War between the States. She was a charming hostess, but not much of a business woman, and even less of a farmer.

"I started running the farm when I was 12 years old," Mrs. Mac remembers. "My brother was a hard worker and would do whatever I told him, but he didn't have the drive to scrape a living out of a 200-acre farm."

It was in Missouri that Amy Shelton fell in love with the land and the things it would produce. There was corn for the table and for the milk cows and the chickens. A vegetable garden and some fruit trees, and eggs from the hen house provided food for the Sheltons or could come until the latter part of 1913, and the reservoir didn't fill for the first time until 1919. Meantime, Dr. Pearson had perished in the sinking of the Lusitania on May 7, 1915. He had been en route to England to work out a reorganization of the company.

Father Kuehne describes the development of the lake as a fishing and boating center, and discusses proposals for trying to maintain Medina as a constant level lake.

This well-written, carefully researched book is a must for collectors of Texana and of personal interest for all who live in the neighborhood of Medina Lake.

Come to the Fair

Have you made your plans for the Helotes Arts Festival on May 5, 6 and 7 and sent out your invitations to your friends everywhere to come have a big time?

Last year we had a ball, but we expect to be even better this year.

If you are a merchant and haven't been contacted about sharing in the festival—with a parade float, a special event, or helping on expenses—don't be bashful. Contact somebody at the art guild gallery and tell him that you want in, too.

The festival is the one event that brings us all together every year. Not only that, it brings to Helotes many new people, and it certainly brings us much publicity and good will. It's good for Helotes.

Echo Returns

Your Helotes Echo is back on a monthly basis and will have a Desk in downtown Helotes located in the Art Guild Gallery where news, classified and display advertising and pictures may be left any afternoon.

Publisher is C. O. (Charlie) Brown, Jr., and editor is his wife, Lucy. They are experienced journalists having worked on Brownsville, Laredo, Austin and San Antonio newspapers as reporters and feature writers, and on the editorial staffs of the Texas Livestock Journal, the Hotel Review, and Naylor Publishing Company.

From journalism families, both have sponsored high school papers at Jefferson, Brackenridge, McAllen, Northside's Marshall and Holmes, and have been in charge of public relations and advertising for military, educational and business institutions in this area.

They both hold degrees in journalism from The University of Texas. They have had a home in Helotes for 15 years.

"So the kids had a holiday?"

Child-to-Child Art To Cross Border

A number of Helotes area young people will take part in the Children-to-Children art show to be held Saturday, April 15, at Wonderland Shopping City, Charles Hendrie, Helotes Art Guild member, has reported. Later the exhibition will be sent to Mexico City for a Cinco de Mayo show.

The artistic exchange program for school children was begun in San Antonio in 1964 by Judson R. Briggs, prominent artist of Cuernavaca, Mexico. The young exhibitors put their names and addresses on the back of the pictures and are encouraged to write to each other.

Winning pictures will be awarded gold stars by the judges.

Along Our Route

Dear Sirs:

It is most gratifying to learn that you are going to revive the newspaper. I personally feel that this can be a tremendous asset to the morale and spirit of the people in this community, and maybe can be the thing to draw us together as ONE community rather than a scattering of four or five different little communities.

Please let me know if there is any way that I can help you to get this paper off the ground, other than subscribing. You can count on me as a subscriber.

Sincerely,
Rev. Jerry P. Alexander,
Pastor, Forest Hills
Presbyterian Church

Club Provides Center For Grey Forest Teens

When the Scenic Loop Playgrounds built its Youth Building back in the 1940's with Col. Claire Cheney, who now lives in California, as the leader of a group of far-sighted citizens, they didn't have to call any formal meetings.

Young people in those days—who had to go all the way to San Antonio or Boerne to high school—were so few that they all knew each other. And to get up a party they had to invite the kids from the city. The Youth Building made a fine location for early dances and barbecues as well as Scouting activities.

In the 1950's, things began to pop. There was a high school in the District—John Marshall—and teen-agers in the Helotes area became numerous. Luckily, Ed Faust, who works at Kelly Field, had the interest of the teen-agers in mind. He formed a Youth Club—which was renamed Grey Forest Youth Club when the Scenic Loop incorporated into the city of Grey Forest in the 60's.

High school boys and girls have made this club the center of their social and civic life in this decade, with Mr. Faust as the sponsor.

Present officers include Betty Cason, president; Johnny Mayfield, vice president; Butch Barrera, treasurer; and Fay Cason, secretary. The club meets on the first and third Mondays of every month. In addition to planning a tamale booth in the Helotes Arts Festival next month, they are also preparing for an End-of-School Party in May.

YOUTH CLUB HAS CANDIDATES

Four charming teenage candidates for Queen of the Helotes Arts Festival next month are being sponsored by the Grey Forest Youth Club, of which they are members. These lasses—Denise Michel, Sherry Hall, Fay Cason, and Penny Snodderly—are helping the club plan its tamale booth to be set up during the Festival.

A HAPPY ANSWER

"Ask Any Girl," Marshall High School's senior play, proved a box office smash in three performances March 30, 31 and April 3 at the school. According to the ticket committee chairman, the play grossed $500 with expenses totaling $200.

LITTERBUGS UNLIMITED

In an effort to curtail the American habit of dropping things on the ground or floor, the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute conducted a study and found that people in all age, social and economic groups were potential litterbugs. Teenagers were no more litter prone than adults.

JOINS LOVELY LADY STAFF

It's a happy surprise for patrons of the Lovely Lady Beauty Salon to discover Mrs. Gladys Davenport, formerly of Frost Bros. Beauty Salon, is a full-time staffer right here in the new Helotes Park Estates salon owned by Mrs. Edith Boubel.

What happened when Larry Pauly and Jane Alwin met face to face?

Nothing. You see, they're both defensive drivers. So when Jane wanted to make a left turn, she waited for a safe opening. And she kept her wheels straight, so if a car hit her from behind she wouldn't be knocked into opposing traffic. Are you a defensive driver?

be turned into cash on the Paris market.

LITTLE AMY SHELTON did the banking. She had a savings account at the Paris Savings Bank, where Fletcher Farrell was the cashier. Whenever she sold produce at the general store, part of the money went into the savings account for her education.

"I loved to go to the bank," Mrs. Mac says. "I put everything I could into the savings account, I wanted to see it grow."

The cashier, Mr. Farrell, and the little farm girl became fast friends. He was as interested in her ever-growing balance as was she.

"One day," Mrs. Mac recalls, "Mr. Farrell asked: 'Amy, what do you want to do when you grow up?' I said, 'I want to make money . . . what do you want to do, Mr. Farrell?' He said, 'Amy, that's what I want to do, too.'"

"Do you know, Fletcher, became president of the Fort Dearborn Bank in Chicago and that he did the initial financing of Sinclair Oil? He was its first treasurer!" Mrs. Mac recalls.

Still managing the Shelton farm, Amy Shelton entered William Woods College at Fulton, Missouri, in 1906. The precious savings account in the Paris Savings Bank was tapped for tuition and other expenses, but was renewed each fall with "egg money" made on the Shelton farm during summer vacations.

"When I entered William Woods," Mrs. Mac says, "I was the most unattractive orphan, with the worst looking clothes, who was ever there. But I had a yen for 'book larnin'." I graduated in 1907, returned the next year for postgraduate work in home ec., then known as domestic science. The department was new then—it was Mrs. William Woods' pet project, for she felt that every girl should know how to run a house. Since I was from her hometown, I felt a loyalty to her ideals, and besides . . . I liked to cook!"

Mrs. Mac was running a Missouri farm when her path crossed that of a young assistant professor at the Missouri School of Mines and Metallurgy at Rolla. Mrs. Ethel Umstatt of Austin, Texas, recalls the way in which the two met.

"I was a house guest at the Shelton farm," Mrs. Umstatt remembers. "Amy was having a house party for some girls with whom she had gone to college. We were a man short one evening and I said I had a brother who lived about 20 miles from there, and that he could get on the evening train and be down in no time."

THE BROTHER WAS Vachel Harry McNutt, then teaching at Rolla School of Mines, where he had received his BS in 1910 and his master's the following year. He was an assistant professor in the Geology Department and was doing research for a doctorate.

"I called Harry," Mrs. Umstatt continued, "and he said: 'If she is beautiful, has a lot of money, and can support me in the manner to which I have become accustomed, that will be fine.' Amy said: 'Tell him I'm not beautiful, but that I'm awfully smart and that I can support him in the manner in which his father has always done.' He came down on the evening train, and it was love at first sight."

However, Amy Shelton was too practical to think people could live on love alone, and entertained doubts about a married couple living on an assistant professor's salary. That she would support Harry McNutt might have been said in jest, but she did mean to do her part. That savings account in the Paris State Bank was sizeable, and some of the Shelton farm negotiable assets were hers.

"I had some little pigs," Mrs. Mac recalls. "They had become pets and would follow me all over the farm, come when I called them . . . cute as buttons!"

TO GET MONEY for furniture she would need in her home with Mr. McNutt, Amy Shelton sold her pigs to a neighbor . . . at a profit, and a good one. She planned to lead them over a hill to the neighbor's farm to make delivery of the porkers. However, the farmer showed up at the Shelton place with a stake-bed truck to haul his property home.

"I told him," Mrs. Mac relates, "that he would never get them home in the truck . . . that they would get out and come back to me. He scoffed at the idea that he couldn't manage a half-dozen pigs and started loading them in the truck. I knew they would get out and told him so. It made me so mad when he laughed at me and I told him to have his own way, but that if they came back he would have to pay me for them again, if he still wanted them."

"Well, they did come back. They scrambled out of that truck like squirrels and were back with me before he could get home. My neighbor came back . . . pretty sheepish . . . and said he guessed I was right about the pigs. He said he didn't suppose I had been serious about wanting him to pay for them again. I said I had never been more serious about anything in my life."

Amy Shelton led her pets through the Missouri woods and over the hill to her neighbor's farm. Collecting double for the porkers, she added to her savings account at the Paris State Bank.

The pigs paid for the furniture in the McNutts' first home.

"When I married Mac in 1912, life began for me," Mrs. Mac says. "He was so clever, gay and brilliant . . . everything that I adored in a person. His logical reasoning and independent thinking were the necessities for a pioneer."

In 1912, Vachel McNutt had the brilliance and geological genius which in later years would gain him a fortune and official recognition by the Congress of the United States, but at that time he had only the meager pay of an assistant professor of geology.

"Harry didn't have any money when he married, and Amy didn't either," Mrs. Umstatt says. "They went to Rolla and taught like anyone else would start out. He wasn't a professor, but an assistant working for his doctoral degree. They started from scratch, so much so that Amy helped out by taking in roomers and. I think even boarders. She started there helping Harry get where she knew he wanted to go."

ALTHOUGH THE YOUNG science professor and his bride were without much of this world's goods in 1912, Mrs. Mac remembers her first home at Rolla, followed by other lean times in the mid-continent as Vachel Harry McNutt established himself as a consulting geologist in the booming oil fields, as probably the happiest period of her life.

"We didn't have any money," Mrs. Mac says, "but we had a great deal of wealth within ourselves. We never felt poor. To me, then and now, wealth is a mental quality. When I look at water gushing out of a two-inch pipe all over my lawn here, I'm the wealthiest woman in Texas." (To be Continued in Next Issue)

Construction is well underway on an addition to the Helotes Elementary School. It will contain six new classrooms and an administrative area.

Construction is by Calvin V. Kollermann, who was awarded the project on a low bid of $81,499.

Completion is scheduled for next September.

Basketball Letter Won by 15 Rams

After two years of fine post-district play, which included AAA bi-district and state championships, it seems odd for the Ram season to end after district play has been completed.

Dockerymen have, however, reason to be proud. They compiled a 21-9 season record and a 15-5 district record while playing against many AAAA powerhouses.

Three Receive District Honor

Three Marshall High Ram basketballers received district honors in the selection of the 16AAAA all-district teams.

Those selected are Stanley Menn, who failed to receive unanimous backing by only one vote, Dean Krueger, selected to second team honors, and Tom Lillard, honorable mention all district.

SYNCHRONIZE YOUR CLOCKS

Texas will join most other states in observing daylight saving time this summer. Clocks should be set ahead one hour on April 30 and left there until Oct. 29.

The Ram squad, plagued throughout the season with illness and injuries, finished third in District 16AAAA.

Marshall's varsity lettermen, recently announced by Coach Ted Dockery, are as follows: Seniors Dean Krueger, Tom Lillard, Terrell Lillard, Tommy Cullinane, Carl Steinle, Johnny Pedroza, Todd Kloss, George Weynand, Ross Oliver, and manager Joel Trevino; Juniors Stan Menn, Carl Cody, Dennis Petersen, Tommy Ogden, and manager Bill Bacon.

The future varsity teams look excellent due to the performances of the younger Rams. The B-team had a 9-win, 10-loss record, one of the best of any Ram B-team in years. Coach Earl Hesong's lettermen are David Autry, Tom Benke, Ted Jenkins David Lower, Johnny Meyer, Mike Monahan, Wayne Rhodes, Eugene Stannard, and manager John Scott.

The Sophomore team's record was not very impressive (2 wins, 12 losses), but the experience they gained was invaluable. The Sophomore lettermen are Chris Swalm, John Badders, Bruce Bealor, Mark Botheras, A. C. Gonzales, Tim Mess, Eddie Riddle, Ricky Rogers, and Jerry Scott.

Coach Homer Steven's Freshman team had a 9-9 season record. The frosh lettermen are Craig Bryant, Gene Mundahl, Bruce Faust, Richard Halloway, Calvin Kneupper, Henry Wood, Neil Richardson, Penn Robbins, Robert Heath, and Steve Holloway.

Also lettering are Robby Schuchardt, Kevin Maddox, Eugene Holliday, Kenneth Franz, Mark Moore, Louis Mack, Ricky Little, Victor Rinkle, and Bill Ralston.

So with all this material and four junior varsity starters returning, the 1967-68 season could offer even more excitement and victories than the past years have.

STRIKE UP THE BAND

John Marshall High School's pep squad and band will march in the Battle of Flowers parade April 21. According to Mrs. Betty Reynolds, pep squad practice sessions began April 10.

Ram Band Plans Trip to Monterrey

By Roger Wolfe

Why is the Marshall High Ram Band learning the Mexican National Anthem?

It's because they are planning a trip to Mexico to act as goodwill ambassadors from the HemisFair city and will play two concerts while staying in Monterrey.

The band will leave for Laredo by school buses on Friday, April 28. From there they will proceed to Monterrey by train. That Saturday they will play in one of Monterrey's largest auditoriums and on Sunday at an outdoor concert.

The San Antonio Chamber of Commerce is backing the excursion.

QUICK PERSONALITY TEST

A motor club in Chicago says the color of your car can be a tip-off to the kind of person you are and lists these characteristics for owners of different colored cars: Blue—for conservatives. Green—for adventurous, young, outdoor people. Red—for those who enjoy living, loving, and laughing. White—for the artistic people who like pretty things.

SCOUTS TO CAMPOREE

Local Boy Scouts, Troop 401 with Scoutmaster Ernest Barrera and Troop 110 with Scoutmaster Tom Lobert, have scheduled attendance at the McGimsey Park Camporee to be held April 14-16.

These troops are also working on raising money for a trip to Big Bend National Park to be scheduled in the summer, according to Boy Scout Bruce Faust.

Rams Play Non-District Hardball vs Antonian

As the Marshall Rams took to the field to play Antonian High School in a nondistrict hardball game on the homefield Thursday afternoon, April 13, some of their more superstitious fans were keeping their fingers crossed.

Not only was it the 13th of the month but this was also the 13th game on the Ram schedule and their rooters could only hope that it would be lucky 13 indeed.

In a chequered career, the McCollum Cowboys roped the Rams 11-2 on April 7. But in two recent wins over Tech and Burbank in district games played at home, Marshall demonstrated plenty of suspense.

For instance on March 31—combining near perfect pitching with a vicious barrage of hits—the Ram hardballers whipped the Fox Tech Buffaloes 10-0 at the Northside stadium.

Johnny Meyer pitched four scoreless innings for the Rams to get the win. Richard Stroman and Terry Poehlman collaborated in the next three innings to insure the win.

Leading Ram hitters were Stan Menn, Lorenzo Perez, and Tommy Ogden. Menn had a grand slam homerun while Tommy and Lorenzo each had a double and single. This win evened the Ram's district record at 4-4.

Earlier, on March 23, the Rams defeated the Burbank Bulldogs in a close 4-3 game. The Rams scored two runs in the first inning and fought off a tying run until the fifth inning.

After the Rams pulled ahead in the sixth, the Bulldogs scored in the top of the seventh to tie up the game again. The Rams came charging back and scored the winner in the same inning.

The Ram's hitting attack was led by Tom Lillard and Gene Hoty who each got two hits.

On the mound, the Ram's pitching was contributed by Stan Menn, who pitched a four-hit game.

HELOTES TEAM WINS

At a recent Holy Name Society tournament game between the St. Luke's baseball team and the team of Helotes' Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic, the Helotes nine emerged victorious, 11-9. Father O'Neill, who has been acting pastor here, proved a valuable player in the game credited to Earl Moos and Herbert Hill, pitchers.

Ram Golfers Take 3rd in District

Supporting a 3-1 district and a 4-4 season record the Marshall High golf team entered the district tourney April 8 at Willow Springs golf course and came in third among the eight teams participating. Roger Patton and Pete Olfers led Marshall with 79 each.

Chuck Moore, Patton, Olfers and Gary Plack comprise the first team. Following them are Jim Mormann, Raymond Hunter and Ed Heskeew.

The golf team—which according to Chuck Moore is the strongest the school has had in three or four years—is coached by Vice Principal Terry McGuire.

EXPLORER POST PLANNED

Being finalized are plans to organize an Explorer Post of the Boy Scouts of America here with Scoutmasters Ernest Barrera and John (Butch) Chapman as Post leaders. Charter members of the new group will include Johnny Mayfield, Ernest (Butch) Barrera, Bruce Faust, and Mark Bishop. Those interested in joining the Post or in taking over duties of Scoutmaster are requested to contact Mr. Barrera or Mr. Chapman.

Girls' Team Nets 2 Wins

In two matches recently, the Marshall High School girls' tennis team emerged victorious over Fox Tech and McCollum high schools.

Successful in first-division doubles competition were Carol Mathews and Rosemary Judson. Winner of first singles was Carol Judson.

Competing in second division doubles were Rita Bluemule and Barbara Mazurek, and in second singles was Jo Carol Smith.

Scores vs. Fox Tech
1st Singles	6-3, 6-2
1st Doubles	6-0, 6-0
2nd Singles	6-2, 3-0
Scores vs. McCollum
1st Singles	6-2, 8-6
1st Doubles	6-3, 6-3
2nd Singles	6-4, 6-3
2nd Doubles	6-2, 8-6

District Split In Two Zones

Next year 16AAAA basketball will start playing under zoning conditions which were set up at the recent district meeting.

The South zone will consist of Marshall, Burbank, Laredo Martin, Kennedy, Fox Tech, and McCollum. The North zone will be comprised of Holmes, Brackenridge, Edgewood, Harlandale, Lanier, John Jay, a new Northside District School, and Memorial, the new Edgewood District School.

The district championship will be decided by a single game between the two zone champions.

COURT OF HONOR

In a recent Court of Honor, Boy Scouts of America, the following were cited: Ernest (Butch) Barrera, Mark Bishop, Johnny Mayfield and Johnny Sorrell.
