Person-to-Person

Mrs. Norma Pittman, Mrs. Margie Hopf and Mr. and Mrs. Baxter Melgaard returned recently from a 23-day tour of Europe, with stops in England, France and Spain.

Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Costello just completed a month's lecture tour of Europe. Dr. Costello is on the faculty of both the University of Texas Health Science Center and Trinity University and is a member of the professional staff at Audie Murphy Veterans Hospital. He was invited to present his recent research findings regarding international evaluations of the effectiveness of treatment programs for alcoholism and alcohol abuse. His lectures were at the University of London and University Brugmann in Brussels.

Mrs. Costello—Sandra Schneider Costello—toured research laboratories and hospitals in England, Switzerland and Belgium. She is a research scientist in immunohematology at Southwest Foundation for Research and Education—as well as being a member of the Grey Forest city council.

Accompanying the Costellos on the trip was Sandra's mother, Mrs. Evelyn Schneider of Glendale, Calif. Before returning home she visited Grey Forest, where she was impressed by the Texas hospitality of Claude and Molly Yeager, Gretchen Stappenbeck and Virgil Cifers. A special treat she said was Sandra Chaney and her daylilies.

Two Marshall High students are spending the summer abroad as American Field Service exchange students. They are Irene Page, who is spending the summer with a Japanese family in Tomoika-Shi, Japan, and Jim Isaman, who is in San Jose, Costa Rica, with a family there.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McClellan vacationed in Las Vegas, Nevada, last week. They were there the day another vacationer hit a slot machine jackpot of $285,000. While Gordon and Terry were in Las Vegas, their two daughters, Antoinette and Lisa, went to New Orleans to visit an uncle and aunt and cousins.

1st Annual Picnic To Be Held June 30

Helotes Has Visit From 'Little Miss Marker'

Helotes' own "Little Miss Marker,"—Sara Stimson—who has just finished her first role in the upcoming Universal Studios production of Damon Runyon's classic—has been home these two weeks enjoying a holiday before making personal appearances to promote the picture. Sara, at six years old, was chosen from play with Walter Matthau and Julie Andrews the part made famous by Shirley Temple.

From the time Sara left Helotes in mid-March for Los Angeles until she returned this month, almost every day somewhere a great newspaper or major magazine has gone to press with her picture and latest activities prominently displayed. She has appeared in Life magazine, Newsweek, the Washington Post and the New York Times, not to mention Texas publications. The Echo has received many clippings from former residents who have spotted the story in Alaska and Chicago, and in foreign languages.

But when Sara came walking into Helotes General Store last week with Robby, her older brother...he's 8 years old...her grandmother, Mrs. Orville Oye, and her mother, Dana Floyd, all well-known here, she was the same poised attractive child, a trifle older, that her friends and neighbors remembered. She and her brother looked over the toys displayed on the swinging rack as they had been accustomed to do, and discussed the more intriguing ones.

Sara paid no more attention to remarks about her than she would have if her own family had made them, and she answered only the most direct questions put to her.

No doubt, she will be able to win hearts all over America as she meets her future fans head-on.

She had a birthday June 10, and this event still is to be marked in a party being planned by friends and neighbors for Sunday afternoon at the Mother Earth Early Childhood Development Center. On Monday, her mother will be taking her and the boys back to California to make plans for a permanent move. According to word received here, Sara's seven-year option with Universal Studios will be formalized into a seven-year contract.

Regardless of how "Little Miss Marker" fares, Sara can always come home to the hills of Helotes, where she has her own faithful fan club made up of friends and neighbors who don't worry too much what fame and fortune will do to her.

Hermann Sons, VFW To Sponsor

For the first time, VFW Post 7108 and Helotes Hermann Sons Lodge #76 will jointly sponsor an all-day picnic, softball tournament and dance, on Saturday, June 30, at Braun Hall. The public is invited.

The all-day softball tournament will begin at 9 a.m. Barbecue sausage and chicken, prepared by the expert barbequeurs of both organizations, will be served starting at 1 p.m. and continue to 7 p.m.

Tickets for the barbecue are $3 for adult plates and $2 for children.

In the evening, Dale Keith and the Starlite Ramblers will play for a dance starting at 9 p.m. and going to 1 a.m. Dance tickets are $2.50 per person.

Braun Hall is located on Braun Road near Loop 1604.

Spokesmen for the all-day affair promise entertainment and delicious food in a real country atmosphere.

Free Heat Machine To Be Shown At Helotes Plaza

Prompted by fuel shortages and the skyrocketing cost of heating a home, technologists are seeking to improve the common fireplace which until now has been noted more for beauty and ornamentation than for its warmth.

The latest attempt to increase fireplace heating efficiency is a California invention known as the Free Heat Machine, which will be demonstrated on the parking lot of Helotes Park Plaza shopping center from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., Saturday June 30.

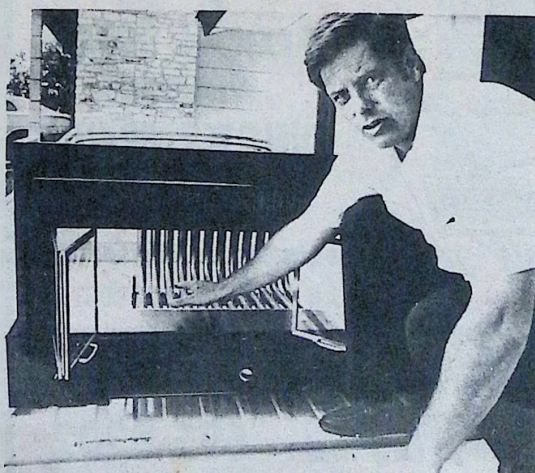

The device, which converts an ordinary masonry fireplace into a home heating system, consists mainly of two built-in blowers that force cool air through 12 C-shaped tubes located under, behind and over the fire. A normal three-log fire in the unit is said to produce up to 38,000 BTU's, enough useable heat to heat from 1,300 to 1,500 square feet of living area.

The Helotes demonstration will be conducted by Kent Anderson, president of Anderson Engineering Company, who recently founded a second company, N.R.G. Savers, Inc., for the specific purpose of researching and developing alternate energy sources that can replace or supplement gas and electricity.

Anderson said any fuel—wood, coal or paper logs—can be used to fuel the fire in the machine. The fire is enclosed with glass doors to prevent heated room air from being drawn into the fireplace and wasted up the chimney.

Kent Anderson is shown with the Free Heat Machine which he will demonstrate from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., Saturday, June 30 at Helotes Park Shopping Center.

Jerry Null Off Critical List

Off the critical list Thursday at Methodist Hospital was Jerry Null, local businessman injured in an accident at the 11-way 16 Raceway Saturday night, June 16.

When Jerry lost control of his car during one of the races that night, it was hit broadside on the driver's side by another racer. Suffering a broken pelvis, broken leg, several broken ribs and internal injuries, Jerry was listed in critical condition for several days.

He is owner of the Hill Country Auto Service garage, Helotes Park Exxon, and Hill Country Stables on Scenic Loop.

Mrs. Tom Stribling of Waco has been spending some time at her country home, Normandie Rose Farm, near San Geronimo. She had as guests this week eight members of the Waco Art Institute. They have been sketching and painting the hills and creeks of the San Geronimo valley. Mrs. Stribling—Jo—was painting, too.

Kelly 'Slide To Happiness'

Practicing for the Kelly Air Force Base 1979 Family Festival are Lina Mitchell, four young members of the Dice family—Sisie, Eva, Greg and Tricia—and Mary Bruehler. The festival will be held June 29-July 1 at Lindbergh Park. Entertainment will include playoffs in softball, volleyball and tennis, music and dance performances, a carnival, and a summertime food smorgasbord. The annual event is sponsored by the Kelly AFB Civilian Welfare Council. The 1979 festival is expected to draw the largest crowd ever, according to Charles Roel, chairman.

Community Mourns Loss Of Jesse C. Algueseva

Jesse C. Algueseva—Grandpa Jesse, actual or honorary, to so many in the Helotes area—died Monday, June 11, and was buried Thursday afternoon, June 14, in the Helotes Catholic Cemetery after a funeral mass in Our Lady of Guadalupe Church. He was 74.

Besides 40 grandchildren and several great-grandchildren, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Yolanda Davis and Mrs.

Della Garrison of Helotes; two stepdaughters, Mrs. Lena Balero of Helotes and Mrs. Sally Barrera of Lubbock; two sons, Jesse of Helotes and Reynolds of Von Ormy; and three stepsons, Severo and Benny Menchaca of Helotes and Ray Menchaca of San Antonio.

Other survivors are two sisters, Mrs. Mary Lee of Helotes and Mrs. Rosie Dentner of San Antonio. A cousin is Joe Algueseva, owner of Floore Country Store.

A rosary was recited for Mr. Algueseva on Wednesday evening, June 13, at Our Lady of Guadalupe. Both the rosary and the funeral the following day were attended by large crowds of friends in addition to the family.

Following the burial service, the family and friends gathered at Floore Country Store, where a bountiful lunch was provided by Joe and Stella Algueseva, members of the Altar Society of Our Lady of Guadalupe, and other friends.

Jesse was born in Boerne but lived most of his life in the family home on Menchaca-Wagner Road. He was a large, strong man of many skills and high standards, and much in demand by property owners here. He was very helpful to the Helotes Echo during the past ten years, not only in overseeing various conservation projects for the Echo building and grounds but also as a friend and advisor and source of much lore and information about the Helotes area and its people.

The Algueseva family was well-known in the Helotes-Boerne-Bandera area in the early 1900's. In J. Marvin Hunter's book, "100 years in Bandera," there is a picture of Jesse's father, Ray, and uncles, Cal and Jesse, with the first power-driven threshing machine brought into the area. That was in 1912. The thresher was driven by a big steam engine which resembled an early-day steam locomotive. Water for the steam engine had to be brought from a nearby creek in a large tank on a wagon pulled by two horses.

Jesse had been very active and still working hard until last winter, when he suffered a massive heart attack. He was in and out of the hospital for several months, but his heart had been so severely damaged that he could only grow weaker. He had been staying at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Davis, but the Saturday before he died he went to Von Ormy to be with his son, Reynolds.

There he died quietly two days later during the early hours of Monday, June 11. He will be missed by his family and many longtime friends in this community.

Woodward Rites

Lester Allen Woodward, 71, of Menchaca-Wagner Road, died Thursday and was buried Friday afternoon.

He is survived by his wife, Wava, and son, Jack, of Helotes, his mother and sister in Houston, and a brother in San Juan.

Mr. Woodward formerly was associated with Interstate Theaters for 35 years and a resident of the Helotes area for 11 years.

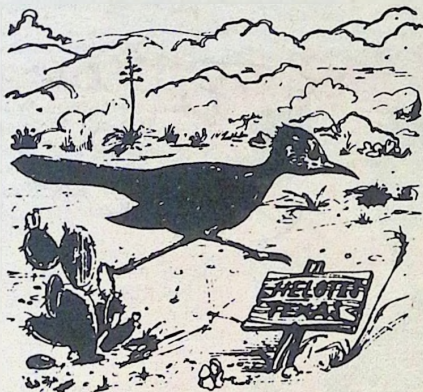

Funeral services were held at the Sunset Mausoleum Chapel in San Antonio with Rev. Samuel L. Terry officiating. Mr. Woodward was a member of Forest Hills Presbyterian Church.

Northside Adds

Trustee

The Northside school district has its second new appointed school board member in two months.

He is James A. Smith, 8527 Timberwild, who was appointed June 15 to fill the unexpired term of Wayne T. Nance. Nance resigned because of increasing time demands of business and personal commitments, according to a statement by Board President Olan Phillips.

In May, Trustee Leslie McNelis resigned, and Robert

M. Garza was appointed to fill out his term.

New Trustee Smith, 55, is an examining attorney for Chicago Title Insurance Company and on July 1 will become office manager of the company branch to open on Bandera Road.

He has lived in the district for five years and served on the bond advisory committee which developed a $25 million school building bond issue approved last year by the voters. He also is past president of the Federal Bar Association of San Antonio.

Ex-Trustee Nance is president of Nance and Associates and Forest Glen Utility Company, and serves on the board of directors of both the San Antonio Home Builders Association and the National Home Builders Association.

Mrs. Jan O'Hara Bennett of Bandera Road hosted recently a garden party honoring Karen Emrich, supervisor of Special Education for the Northside District, on Karen's birthday. Many of the Special Ed staff attended, including Ed Rawlinson, Mrs. Laura Ivaldi, Stephanie McMillan, Carl Wanke, Ruth Felder, Billie Mayo, Virginia Rios, and Mr. and Mrs. Quivillan—as well as many other friends of Karen's. At the entrance to the driveway to the O'Hara home, a large lighted sign (borrowed from the AAA Sign Company) extended congratulations to Karen on her day and pointed the way to the party.

Dr. Joel Gunn, UTSA assistant professor of anthropology, will participate in an international conference on climate and history July 8-14 in Norwich, England.

Benny and Modesta Lyons' Nature's Nook Health Foods store was one year old on June 19—and very healthy.

Baptism In Helotes Creek

When Terri and Lee McVey, left, of Floore Drive, decided to have their son, Jason Lee, baptized they wanted him baptized in Helotes Creek behind their house. Rev. Bill Henderson of Helotes Hills Methodist Church agreed that it was a good idea.

Jason Lee, born in Helotes one year before on May 30, seemed a little perturbed by the immersion, but Rev. Henderson enjoyed it. The date of the christening, June 2, also was the thirtieth birthday of the father, Lee McVey.

Jason's paternal grandparents, Harry and Eve Hewlett, took these pictures and attended the barbecue for family and friends at the McVey's house following the unique christening. The maternal grandparents, Glenn and Florence Winch, live in New Jersey.

School Tax Forms Due

According to Northside School District Tax Assessor John White, about 20 percent of the eligible taxpayers have not returned their homestead tax exemption forms to his office. White is appealing to citizens who own their homes to mail the forms they received in March and earn the $5,000 tax exemption this tax year.

Residential Homestead Exemption Forms require the taxpayer to verify he or she is living in the house at the time. Of the nearly 35,000 forms mailed this spring, about 80 percent have been returned to the district's tax office.

Taxpayers who did not receive the form can obtain copies at the tax office, 5900 Evers Road. Citizens can verify whether or not the office received their completed forms by calling 681-0330.

Northside's tax office began preparing exemption credit forms last winter when voters approved the Texas Tax Relief Amendment just now signed into law by Governor Bill Clements. As an example of savings homeowners will incur if they complete the form, a homeowner whose house has a market value of $30,000 and would normally pay $360 in taxes, but by taking advantage of the exemption, would pay only $300 in school taxes.

Senior citizens (over 65) also qualify for an additional $10,000 exemption in Northside School District.

Local 'Hams' To Compete In National Field Test

Special to the Helotes Echo Datapoint Corporation's amateur radio club—the Datapoint Amateurs & Technicians Association—will man emergency radio stations in Helotes during this weekend.

The Datapoint 'hams' will be taking part in the annual national test of emergency preparedness known as Field Day. For twenty-four hours during the June 23-24 weekend, U.S. radio amateurs will compete for the largest number of completed two-way communications made using emergency equipment under field conditions.

The competition prepares them to furnish authorities a full range of emergency communications in the event of flood, storm, or other civil disasters.

For the hams employed by Datapoint Corporation, the San Antonio manufacturer of business computers, this year's Field Day contest will begin Saturday at noon. They will raise emergency antennas, start a large, propane-burning motor generator (to avoid reliance upon commercial power which might be disabled in a disaster), and set up transmitters and receivers on all authorized frequency bands.

The D.A.T.A. hams will take turns operating this emergency equipment until mid-afternoon Sunday. They expect to exchange messages with more than 2,000 other radio amateurs throughout the U.S. and Canada, as well as around the globe.

Being Datapointers, the D.A.T.A. group will employ a DATASHARE (R) time-sharing computer system to keep running logs of the number of successful contest contracts, avoid duplicate contacts, and make contest scoring simple.

Site of the D.A.T.A. Field Day will be the home of Associate Member Charley Becker, 14507 Circle A Trail. The club will also use Becker's call, K5CB, because it is short and easy to send.

Visitors to the site will see Datapoint hams sitting in folding chairs under tarpaulins, earnestly listening to radios and hoarsely calling: "See-Queue Field Day, from Kilo Five Charlie Brown in Beautiful South Texas!" or pounding out the equivalent signals with telegraph keys.

In between their stints at the key or microphone, D.A.T.A. members may be found eating, chatting, getting sunburned, or even catching forty winks, in spite of the tradition that calls for staying awake and on the air twenty-four hours without sleep.

Some of them will be glad to explain to visitors what Field Day means and demonstrate how an emergency preparedness contest works.

And perhaps, when the contest scores have all been compared, the Datapoint Amateurs & Technicians Association may emerge as a national winner. Win or lose, they will have a good time, and spend eleven months planning a bigger and more successful Field Day for 1980.
