Catholics Celebrate Unity Day

City Council Says Laws Followed

The Helotes Boy Scout troop will celebrate its 25th anniversary on Tuesday, Oct. 23, at the PARC Building of Helotes Hills United Methodist Church. All former members, including scoutmasters, are invited. Dick Miller, former scoutmaster, will present the old troop flag used when he was with the troop. Jim Wilson, another former scoutmaster, also will attend. The observance will begin at 7:30 p.m.

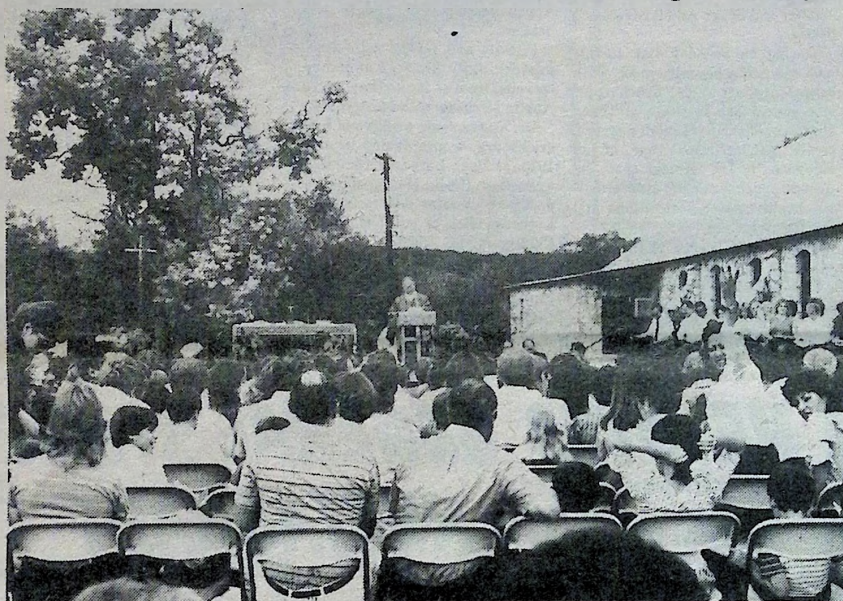

Helotes artist and firefighter Ron Binks was honored Thursday night with a reception at the Bank of San Antonio to mark the opening of a three-week showing of his watercolor paintings at the bank. Also honored was Agnes Welsh Eyster, who shares the exhibit with Ron. Ron is on the fine arts faculty at UTSA.

Elizabeth Madla planned the menu for the "Fest ala Tex" to be staged by the faculty of Pat Neff Middle School on Friday night, Oct. 26, in the school cafeteria from 5 to 7 p.m. During the Mexican food dinner the Neff Chorus and the Neff Band will entertain. Our Lady of Guadalupe Parish in Helotes observed its Unity Day on Sunday, Oct. 14, with an outdoor mass celebrated by Archbishop Patrick Flores, a barbecue dinner and games and visiting. The 11 a.m. service was the only mass that day, replacing the usual four masses on Sunday morning. Sunny and cool weather dawned for the Unity Day activities after a night of storm and rain.

After the barbecue dinner, parishioners and guests were invited to stay and play games or visit with friends and neighbors. This volleyball game was one of several games in progress. The games mostly attracted young people.

A total of 1,056 persons were served at the catered barbecue which followed the Unity Day. Here are some of the people in line on the covered walk from the church to the Parish Community Center.

The regular meeting of the Helotes City Council was routine until they got down to Item No. 8 on the agenda—"Citizens To Be Heard"—and then the meeting became quite irregular.

Some thirty citizens had turned out for the meeting (instead of the usual 3 or 4) and many of them had plenty to say—mostly about old complaints.

The closing of the Happy Acres Child Care Center and the unhappiness of many parents over where to place their children is still a hot issue. Mrs. Maurene Mullins has offered the Aguilers, operators of the child care center, a building on the rear of her property, facing Old Scenic Loop Road.

The Aguilers are reluctant to reopen because of restrictions in the current city ordinance limiting the number of children who may attend such a center. They believe that the restrictions would not permit them to operate financially.

Further, the site was opposed at the city council meeting by Walter Bragg, who also lives on Old Scenic

District Warns Water Users

Customers of the Bexar County Water Control and Improvement District No. 17 received letters Thursday saying that they should boil all drinking water from the system for two minutes before using it.

The letter was sent out at the request of the State because of the muddy condition of the water. The district serves Helotes Park Estates.

One homeowner said the water was black with mud. Another reported that the well on Flying W Trail is just about out of water, and the system is relying on the Bandera Highway well.

Meanwhile, the district has begun extending a water main to the Helotes Creek Ranch area north of Helotes Park Estates.

on Scenic Loop Road near Bandera Highway.

The jury unanimously voted him not guilty on the first ballot, it was reported.

Other charges against him that also developed out of his arrest last January are still to be tried.

Survey Documents Newspaper Superiority

Newspapers pack a solid wallop for Texas business and residential communities alike . . . far outdistancing all other forms of communication.

Results of Texas Consumer Survey 84, the largest and most comprehensive study ever conducted on readership, listening, viewing and shopping habits heavily documents Texas newspaper superiority.

—86.3 percent of Texans read a newspaper every week, with 80 percent reading their local community newspaper;

—70.6 percent of Texas newspaper readers usually read local merchant ads, and

—87.6 percent of the readers say that the ads in their local newspaper are important to them personally.

These are just three of the dozens of highlights revealed by the statewide study which was conducted by Consumer Data Service (CDS), of Oklahoma City.

The massive survey was under the supervision of Dr. Ernest Larkin, director of the Journalism Research Center, University of Oklahoma.

The study also provides in depth detail of the vast audience appeal of Texas newspapers. This is a portion of the data emphasized:

(A) 69.6 percent read at least five issues of their local daily, and 84.3 percent read every issue of their local weekly newspaper;

(B) 72.6 percent of local newspaper readers who responded to the survey are married;

(C) Over 50 percent of the families subscribing to local newspapers comprise three or more people;

(D) Husbands and wives in 43.3 percent of the Texas newspaper reading families both have jobs with combined incomes totaling more than $20,000;

(E) 64.19 percent of Texans who voted in the 1982-83 elections are newspaper readers, and

(F) 79.4 percent of Texas newspaper readers own their own homes.

Lyndell Williams, Executive Vice-President of the Texas Press Association (TPA) in Austin, after receiving the huge study report said this week:

"This survey not only confirms what major advertising retailers already know, but also provides undeniable proof of newspaper strength in all other areas as well."

He cited the high readership interest in local news as an example of "newspaper wallop for a better informed community and state." Williams pointed out the following additional facts that were revealed by the survey data:

—82.8 percent of Texans read all local news in their newspapers;

—70.3 percent read the special sections;

—58.4 percent read the editorials, and

—54.3 percent read the state news.

Williams also cited local merchant ads as the most thoroughly read advertising matter. Those figures read:

—89 percent of Texas newspaper readers usually or at least sometimes read all local merchant advertising;

—85.4 percent usually or sometimes read all the inserts in newspapers, and

—85.59 percent usually or sometimes read department store advertising.

The survey also outlined the strengths and weaknesses of direct mail along with radio and television.

Direct mail advertising in Texas, much of it conducted by out-of-state firms, is usually read by 43.7 percent of the addressees with only 31 percent of that number reading all of a single mailing.

Radio and television while being listened to by as much as 73 percent of Texas consumers and seen by at least that many people, nevertheless, must divide those numbers by dozens of stations and channels.

And the most watched cable television channels of all don't even accept advertising.

John Taylor, Director of the Texas Newspaper Advertising Bureau (TNAB), explained that an analysis of the massive survey easily reveals numerous additional newspaper assets that may be overlooked at first glance.

Taylor explained:

"Every Texas newspaper is a dues payer to its community and state, as well as a major contributor to a better society. Texas newspapers, their publishers and staffs have spent lifetimes creating communities that justify the investment of millions of dollars by major retailers.

"Our newspapers represent major local payrolls and substantial taxpayers to the local, county and state governments. And in all cases, one newspaper and not more than two thoroughly dominate the markets which they serve.

"Texas newspapers represent quite a choice from the major direct mailers who often don't even pay state taxes, and the electronic media which must share its hour-by-hour audience with about 50 competitors."

"Have you had a kindness shown? Pass it on."

Edwards Continues Voluntary Water Conservation

Tom Fox, general manager of the Edwards Underground Water District, has determined that the district will remain in Phase II, voluntary conservation of water, through the end of October.

Although the water level in the Bexas County index well has risen to 634 feet above mean sea level, October frequently has warm days which could cause increases in consumption.

Recent rains have not only caused a reduction in consumption but also have resulted in some recharge to the aquifer.

Fox said, "Thanks to all region residents, voluntary conservation is having a positive effect. We are asking people within the district to continue to avoid water waste." District staff hopes that conservation techniques will become a part of the lives of all residents in this semi-arid area of Texas.

Game Dinner To Be Oct. 29

Invitations are in the mail for the 14th annual Game Dinner from 6:30 p.m. to midnight, Monday, Oct. 29, at the Witte Museum, 3601 Broadway.

Tickets to this year's gala, which is held in the gardens at the Witte and has a Hill Country Harvest theme, are $85 per person, and $1,250 for the Boone and Crockett tables (10 people). German minstrels will stroll the gardens before an open bar and among banquet-like tables laden with a cornucopia of harvest foods.

Eating, drinking and dancing will continue until midnight, while two auctions will take place at 6:30 and 8:30 p.m. The first will be a silent auction featuring more than 40 items, including hunting trips as well as antique quilts and S.C.U.B.A. lessons for two.

The live auction, run by renowned auctioneer H.V. Bert Reyes, will offer a 1000-pound-plus grain-fed steer (processed to the buyer's specifications), a natural ranch mink jacket with fox trim, an evening for 50 at the Museum of Art during the "Art of the Muppets" exhibition, six nights in London for two, and a Blackbuck Antelope hunt at the Y.O. Ranch.

The evening's entertainment also will include exhibitor booths selling antique quilts, wildlife paintings, hunting clothes and gear and hand-crafted folk art.

Game Dinner, chaired by Lyn and Pete Selig, is expected to raise $200,000 for the operating fund of the San Antonio Museum Association, the oldest association in the state formed solely to create and operate museums.

For more information and reservations, contact Linda Llewellyn at 226-5544 ext. 234.

Other programs in the series include "Dr. Jonas Salk" on Nov. 5; "The Woman Rebel: The Life of Margaret Sanger," Nov. 7; "Eduardo the Healer," about a curandero, Nov. 12; and "Paul Starr's Social Transformation of American Medicine," Nov. 14.

The series is sponsored by the health science center library and the P. I. Nixon Medical Historical Society.

Roadrunners Look Good As Drills Start

Six returning lettermen and a host of new faces took the court Monday, Oct. 15 as the UTSA Roadrunner basketball team opened fall drills in preparation for the 1984-85 season—their fourth in NCAA competition.

Coach Don Eddy welcomed All-America candidate Derrick Gervin, along with seniors Ike Thornton, Robert Wallace, Scott McKoin and Vince Cunningham back to the Convocation Center as the Roadrunners began official practice. Other key lettermen returning include Calvin Haynes, Tim Gabrish, David Singh, Kevin Morris and Gary Payne.

The Roadrunners' newest recruiting class got its first taste of Don "The Teacher" Eddy's system Monday. Topping the newcomer list is Bernard Brown, 6-7 junior center from Cleveland, Ohio. Brown is heir apparent to Rick Doyle's spot at the center position. Doyle was drafted in the fifth round of this year's NBA draft by the Detroit Pistons. Also, Chuck Johnson, 6-0 junior point guard from Los Angeles Community College; Gary Heyland (6-4 sophomore transfer from Baylor); freshmen Joe Baker (6-5 forward Kerrville); Roger Durden (6-7½ forward Corpus Christi); Todd Joyner (6-9 center/forward El Paso) and Troy Nini (6-6 forward Odessa) took the court for UTSA.

One of Eddy's immediate goals in early workouts will be establishing team defense as the foundation of this year's club. Last year's Roadrunner team was Eddy's best-ever offensive unit, but was also his worst defensively. A strict defensive advocate, Eddy drills his charges on tougher half-court defense and will begin work on more full-court pressure.

A tough battle at the point guard spot is brewing this year as veteran Vince Cunningham, who started 27 games last season, will be pressured by Chuck Johnson for the starting nod Nov. 29 when the Roadrunners open in the Convocation Center against Texas A&I. "Chuck will put a lot of heat on Vince," Eddy said. "Our starter at point this year will depend on who's playing the best defense when the season starts."

The Roadrunners put their first winning season on the court last year, finishing 20-8 after going 10-17 in 1982-83. "We could be a fun team to watch this year," Eddy noted. "Our players have learned how to win and I think we can be better than last year's team. We'll have to make a significant improvement for that to happen. A lot of things have to happen. If we can stay healthy and get the big-time crowd support we had at the end of last season, we can have another winning year."

Parade To Open Stagecoach Days In Leon Valley

Leon Valley Stagecoach Days, an annual event celebrating the history of the Northwest Bexar County municipality, will feature a parade down Evers Road and the Second Annual Miller High Life World Championship Riding Lawnmower Grand Prix.

The parade, featuring forty units including marching bands, Scout Troops, business floats and the Leon Valley Pageant Association Float with the new Leon Valley Queen, will begin at 10 a.m. at the NISD Administration Offices and head west to the park. Following the parade, food and fun booths, a carnival with kiddie rides and an arts and crafts show will open at 11:30 a.m.

The Miller High Life Lawnmower Grand Prix will be held at 3:30 p.m. in the park. The event is open to anyone with riding mowers 10 horsepower and under.

In addition to the fun race, Stagecoach Days will feature a tug-of-war between the KBUC Good Guys and the Leon Valley Fireman at 12:15 p.m. Men from the area will vie for the title of "Hairiest Legs in the Valley" at 12:45 p.m.

Frankie the Clown will visit the pageant to delight children of all ages. Music by the Society German "Oompah" Band will be provided from 1-3 p.m.

Members of the Swingin' Singles Square Dancers will exhibit do-si-dos and promenades from 3-3:30 p.m. The evening will conclude with more music by Billy Mata and the Texas Tradition playing for a Free Western Dance in the park Pavilion.

Texas Ranch Women Featured In Exhibit

When Amanda Nite Burks went "up the trail" in 1871, little did she know she would help change the image of the Texas ranch women. The same is true of six other women, whose unique experiences are also featured in the exhibition, "Ranch Women: Roles, Images, Possibilities" on display at The University of Texas at San Antonio Humanities-Business Building Galeria from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., Nov. 1 through Nov. 30.

Produced by The University of Texas Institute of Texan Cultures at San Antonio, this exhibition offers a vivid potpourri of pictures and vignettes on the lives of Lizzie Johnson, Sallie Mathews, Molly Goodnight, Laura Wallace, Mabel Day, Margeret Borland and Amanda Burks.

There is little doubt that life on the trail was solitary and rugged. Yet ranch women, like their cowboy counterparts, have been romanticized by the media. Advertisers and movie producers are not totally to blame—by riding horses astride packing guns and bossing ranches, ranch women violated traditional norms and thereby significantly shaped their own public image.

At the same time, ranch women created new roles for themselves, particularly in such popular festivals as Wild West shows, rodeos and parades. With new roles came new possibilities. After exploring the complex and fascinating process of change in these images, the exhibition closes with the thought-provoking question: what can the Texas ranch women become?

The exhibition, "Ranch Women," sponsored at UTSA by the University Center Program Council, is free and open to the public.

Museum To Open New

This seated figure of Buddha dates from the Ming Dynasty in the 15th and 16th Centuries. Buddha is seated in the diamond pose on a separate lotus throne. The figure is 26½ inches high. The gallery will open Nov. 11.

San Antonio Museum of Art Director John Mahey has announced Nov. 11 as the opening date for a new permanent gallery of Oriental Art.

The new gallery will open with an "impressive display of Chinese art" spanning nearly 4,000 years, including ancient bronzes, jades, snuff bottles and paintings. Mahey says the main feature, however, will be the more than 100 pieces of Chinese ceramics.

Perhaps the strongest group of Chinese ceramics presented, he says, is the extensive array of porcelains from the K'ang Hsi reign of the Ch'ing Dynasty (1644-1912 A.D.).

Gallery Of Oriental Art

One of the items in the new Oriental Art Gallery at the San Antonio Museum of Art is this earthenware tomb figure of a horse dating from about 650 A.D. The saddled and caparisoned horse is 24½ inches high curator from New York, has secured long-term loans from private collectors in America and Europe. Some have never been on public display ever before.

The oldest objects in the new gallery are a group of bronze ritual vessels from the Shang and Chou dynasties. These are followed by Han Dynasty ceramics, including burial urns, storage jars, models of a wellhead, a kitchen stove, a pigsty, and the fanciful figure of a rhinoceros. Several of these pieces illustrate the earliest types of glazed ceramics produced in China.

Painter To Give Art Demonstration

Painter Philip Tarlow, who has studied the delicate and difficult medium of egg tempera in Greece for several years, will give an illustrated lecture and technical demonstration of the process on Wednesday, Oct. 24, at The University of Texas at San Antonio. Admission is free.

The artist will begin his lecture, illustrated with slides, at 3 p.m. in the painting studio, Room 2.02.24 of the Arts Building on campus.

Tarlow paints large, realist canvases that depict city scenes such as buildings, colonnades, sidewalks and passersby, focusing on reflections of old facades in the steel and glass of new highrises.

According to one reviewer, he creates "an urban reality that dislocates reality... he makes us think about—and finally, wonder at—our urban surroundings, their skin-deep appearances, their monumental illusions."

The 40-year-old artist received a National Endowment for the Arts grant in 1981, and has exhibited his paintings in London, Athens, Los Angeles, Amsterdam and most recently, in New York's Fischbach Gallery. In the fall of 1985, Tarlow's new series of works will comprise the exhibition, "The Old and The New in Architecture—Five Texas Cities," at the Adams-Middleton Gallery in Dallas.

Housing Sales Up For 3rd Quarter

The Greater San Antonio Builders Association found that in its third quarter survey both single family home sales and starts were up from the second quarter of 1984. Starts for the third quarter numbered 2,700 for the three-month period ending Sept. 30. Single family starts numbered 2,505 in the second quarter of this year.

Sales of new single family homes reached 2,560 in the third quarter which compares with the 2,078 homes sold in the second quarter.

Although both starts and sales were down from the third quarter of 1983 when 2,985 homes were started and 2,700 homes were sold, 1984 reflects a steady paced year in housing for San Antonio, which has slowed slightly from 1983's blistering pace.

The median price of a new home in San Antonio rose to $82,700 up from $79,900 in the second quarter. This increase of $2,800 now puts San Antonio ahead of the national median price of $80,900 for the first time since national and local statistics have been recorded by the National Association of Home Builders. This increase in the median price of housing in San Antonio in the third quarter was primarily due to rising costs in finished lots and a greater volume of custom home sales.

The figures were compiled from builders in 154 active subdivisions in Bexar, Comal and Guadalupe counties. Of the 154 active subdivisions in the three county area of the San Antonio SMSA, 42 of those subdivisions were located in the northwest quadrant of Bexar County between Interstate Highway 10 and Potranco Rd. If current growth pattern continues it is likely that over half of all housing starts and sales will take place in the northwest quadrant of Bexar County by mid-1985.

Medical School Enrollments Set Record

The largest number of students in its 16-year history registered for classes this fall at The University of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio.

In addition to the record-setting overall total of 2,334, the medical school figures broke two records of their own. Minority enrollment in the medical school has increased dramatically over the past three years and this year set a new high with 61 students out of 204 in the freshman class.

In addition, more students this year than ever before listed the San Antonio university as their first choice among the four UT medical schools in the state.

Fall enrollment figures for all levels in each of the five health science center schools are as follows:

238 allied health students, 507 dental students, 799 medical students, 345 graduate students (including graduate nursing students) and 445 undergraduate nursing students.

Also on campus are public health students from The University of Texas Health Science Center at Houston, undergraduate pharmacy students rotating from UT-Austin, and students pursuing doctor of pharmacy degrees jointly awarded by the health science center and UT-Austin.

There are 62 women in the first-year medical class of 204. Average age of the medical freshmen is 25 and the median grade point average is up slightly from last year to 3.49. Texans number 186 of the total.

Coral Snake Found Here

Edmund Gomez of Scenic Loop Road in Grey Forest shows the 24-inch long coral snake which he killed this week near his back porch. The coral is one of Texas' poisonous snakes - along with rattlesnakes and water moccasins - and is to be avoided. They are seen only occasionally in the Helotes area and usually much smaller than the one Mr. Gomez found.

H. "Pulse Martinez, State Republican Executive Committeeman, reminded San Antonio and South Texas voters that the State of Texas guarantees to them the right to cast a secret ballot on Nov. 6.

Citing the Texas Election Code, Martinez said, "Election officers are required to arrange voting machines or provide space for the marking of paper ballots so that each voter is ensured secrecy in preparing his or her ballot." He also said, "The Texas Election Code requires that a voter must vote alone and may not be given ANY assistance while voting." The only exceptions, he pointed out, "are in those instances where the voter requests assistance from an election officer or another registered voter of his precinct because he is unable to read either English or Spanish, cannot speak English, is blind, or physically unable to write a paper ballot or operate a voting machine."

"Where the voter meets one of these exceptions," Martinez said, "the law is very specific in spelling out that any requested assistance must be impartial and non-partisan. The person assisting the voter MUST NOT TELL the voter HOW to vote for a certain party, ticket, or candidate. The person assisting the voter MUST ONLY MARK the voters ballot as the VOTER DIRECTS."

Martinez asks each voter to be aware of these requirements and to be alert to any violations which may occur in the General Election on Nov. 6. He asks any voter who becomes aware of a violation of any voter's secret ballot to bring the matter to the attention of the voting officers at the polling place, to the Sheriff's Office, or to any member of the news media (radio, television, and newspapers).

He said he wants San Antonio and South Texas voters to realize, "We all lose when anyone of us has his right to a secret ballot violated." Martinez said, "The right to a secret ballot is the greatest EQUALIZER we have. It gives each and everyone of us an equal voice. It must be safeguarded at all costs."

Archbishop Asks More Foster Parents

Archbishop Patrick Flores recently launched a campaign urging members of the Catholic Church to consider becoming foster parents.

The campaign, which calls for information within each of the 144 churches in the Archdiocese, includes sermons, posters, Sunday bulletin appeals, orientation meetings, and pamphlets concerning foster parenting.

A critical shortage of families to provide temporary homes for abused and neglected children prompted the Archdiocese to conduct the foster parent recruitment campaign, in conjunction with the Texas Department of Human Resources Foster Home Program and Catholic Family and Children's Services.

The Catholic Church's belief in the right to life "does not stop at a child's birth," according to Archbishop Flores. "It lasts a lifetime. Children have the right to a safe and happy life, growing up in a home where they are loved and nurtured. Foster parents give children and their families the chance at a better life together."

Texas Department of Human Resources will hold two orientation meetings for couples and singles interested in foster parenting. The first will be at St. Mary Magdalen Church, 1710 Clower, on Wednesday, Oct. 24, at 7:30 p.m. The second will be held at the department's offices on 700 Steves Ave., Thursday, Nov. 1 at 7 p.m. Further information on the Foster Home Program may be obtained by calling 533-3161.

THE CATERPILLAR NICKNAMED "ASP"

By Terry Vincent, M.D.
Helotes Family Practice Clinic

Most caterpillars with obvious spines and bristles are treated with proper respect, but the "asp" looks perfectly harmless with its covering of soft hair. And it produces the most severe sting of all caterpillars found in the USA. Prevalent throughout the South, it is most abundant in Texas.

You'll have a hard time finding this insect in the dictionary, for "asp" is a nickname for the larval form of the flannel moth. It's also known as "puss" caterpillar, possum bug, wooly slug, or el perrito (little dog) in Mexico. For convenience, we'll call it asp, even if that does really refer to a snake.

The asp is about an inch long and is covered with fine, soft hairs that vary from grey to reddish brown. It resembles cat hair, hence its other common name of "puss" caterpillar. Just beneath this harmless-appearing hair are stiff, venom-filled spines. A very light touch may cause these spines to penetrate the skin.

Intense burning pain arises almost immediately after contact. Within minutes the entire arm may ache severely; swelling, numbness, or a feeling of paralysis are common. Faintness, nausea, and headaches are other sequelae. Red streaks may rapidly travel up the arm from the bite site to the armpit, where the lymph nodes quickly enlarge. Not all of these uglies happen with each sting, of course, and some folks are more sensitive than others. No matter; the victim is in for a few moments of extreme discomfort, one way or another.

Treatment consists of the immediate application of ice. Taking an antihistamine (such as Benadryl) seems to help. If a person is hypersensitive, injections of cortisone and adrenalin might be necessary. It has been reported that intravenous calcium gluconate offers quick relief. The pain can be very intense, requiring even morphine or demerol.

The innocent-appearing asp is no trivial nuisance. The appearance of large numbers of these caterpillars with resulting painful bites has caused the temporary closing of schools, and at least one Army maneuver had to be canceled when a third of the soldiers received this painful envenomation during a one-night bivouac!

The moral to this story is plain: If you see a wooly caterpillar of any kind, avoid it! You might get an asp in your grasp.

So Why Not Let Our Money Work For Us? By Michael Scheft

*Mr. Scheft is a Financial Consultant and Registered Representative for Knibbe Financial Group, San Antonio, Texas.
Mr. Scheft is a resident of San Antonio Ranch.*

This is a column about how to make your money earn more money for you by investing it. More specifically, it's a column about investing in stocks and bonds, which is one way of putting your extra money to work so that in the long run it will earn a good return for you — either in the form of a regular income from dividends or in the form of a profit resulting from growth in value or a combination of both.

Most people, if they are fortunate enough to have anything left after paying their bills, will think first of putting those extra dollars into a savings account. Nobody could possibly quarrel with such a prudent course, but you have to be willing to accept a return of 5½ % a year and you must realize that a savings account offers no protection against the risks of inflation. One can also put their money in various bank time deposits, some with a return of over 10%, however this all depends on the amount deposited and the length of time you agree to leave it with the bank.

Today there are millions of people who have come to regard securities (stocks and bonds) as an equally good form of investment. Of course, there's a risk in buying any form of investment. Most banks invest in stocks and bonds with the money you deposit with them. They do this in order to earn the interest they pay you and to earn a profit for themselves. The same is true of insurance companies. Both kinds of institutions have always invested heavily in bonds but today they are buying more and more stocks. Why? Because over the years, the record shows that the average stock has paid a better return and provided a better balance of protection against the risk of inflation than any other form of investment.

There are some 30 million shareholders in our country. Not all of them have prospered all the time. Of course not, but most of them have prospered most of the time. Some have made millions and some have gone broke. Just as some companies have succeeded and some have failed. However over the years, the average investor has generally earned a significant return on their money. Most important of all, they have seen their stockholdings go up in value as prices generally have risen. They have been able most times to sell their stocks at a profit, especially if they have held them a long time and they have thus protected their money against the unseen risk of inflation.

The stockholders of America have invested in America's business-companies like IBM, Exxon, General Motors, Sears, McDonald's, Coca-Cola and virtually all its more important business companies. As that business has grown, stockowners have prospered. As it continues to grow, they will continue to prosper.

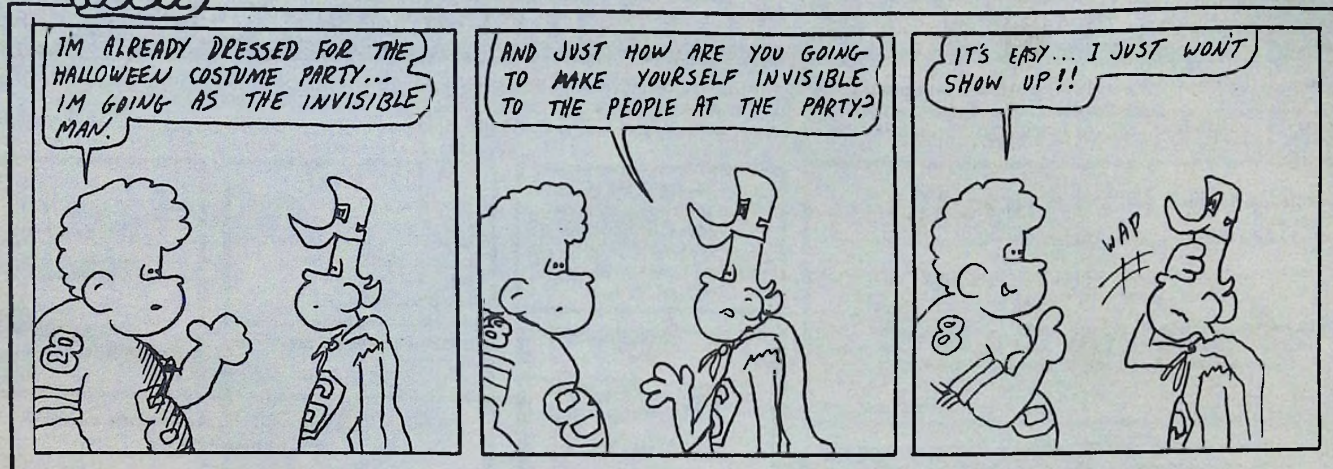

In the weeks to come we will discuss the many facets of investing. We will get into the cost involved with buying stocks as well as selecting which stocks to invest in. We will try to answer questions and discuss strategies to minimize losses and maximize profits. We will talk about philosophy and we will talk about human nature. I hope it will be both enjoyable and informative.

Loop Road next to the day care site. He pointed out that the road is in poor condition and he believes it could not support the traffic that the proposed day care center would generate.

Mrs. Margaret Aguilar presented a petition favoring the child care center, but the council tabled action on the petition as the members and the mayor had not had time to study the petition.

Other complaints focused on the slowness in getting any action through the City and Planning and Zoning Commission, the Board of Adjustment and the city council.

Dottie Watts asked why a mobile home had been permitted to stay on the lot next to the post office for two years when other mobile homes are kept out of the city. Council members explained that another public hearing on the mobile — used only as an office — is scheduled.

Also revived was opposition to the Longhorn Building materials Company, formerly the Longhorn Pipe Company, which moved into the former Ibarra Ranch House property. Mrs. Barbara DeMartino reported that she has had literally 150 people phone her about the Longhorn Company. She signed a formal complaint during the meeting so that the city council can have the city building inspector check the Longhorn company and see if it is operating according to the certificate of occupancy. If not, he can recommend that the certificate be rejected.

In earlier business, the council had appointed Harold Palmer as the new city building inspector. It also appointed Richard DeHart and Dennis George to be fire inspectors.

Two public hearings on zoning change requests, scheduled at 8 p.m. during the council meeting, were cut back to one when Guy Williams did not appear and by letter requested that the hearing on his property on Floore Drive be postponed. The request from Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Burks for a zoning change from R-1 to B-3 on their property, also on Floore Drive, was approved.

In the executive session part of the meeting (from which the public is excluded), the council interviewed James Brigman of Helotes Ranch Acres as possible replacement on the council for Herbert Mayfield, who resigned two months ago.

No action was taken on Brigman's appointment as the council had one other possible appointee to be interviewed. The Helotes Business and Professional Association at its meeting last Wednesday recommended the appointment of Allan Thompson to the vacancy.

The next meeting of the council will be on Thursday, Nov. 1, in the PARC Building at Helotes Hills United Methodist Church, beginning at 7 p.m.

Realtors Sign Up 14,000 New Voters

The San Antonio Board of Realtors as a follow-up to its recently completed voter registration project urges the more than 14,000 new voters they registered and all San Antonians to vote in the Nov. 6 General Election.

"The board encourages all people to exercise their citizenship rights by voting for the candidates of their choice," said William J. Chapman, president. "Because we live in America, we don't HAVE to vote. Unfortunately, in the last general election 74 million Americans took advantage of that freedom and did not vote."

"But when you really think about it," Chapman concluded, "WE OUGHT TO VOTE—because we live in freedom."

The average American's vocabulary contains 10,000 words.

Rattlers Could Repeat Last Year's Sweep

St. Mary's University has announced a 28-game schedule in men's basketball competition for the 1984-85 season—one that includes tough contests with four NAIA Division I schools, two District IV teams and two Lone Star Conference competitors.

The Division I powers include the University of Houston, Texas A&M and the University of Oklahoma, a road trip to Norman. St. Mary's also meets the University of Texas at San Antonio in HemisFair Arena, a cross-town rivalry that began last year. The game is televised before an arena crowd of thousands.

The contests with Lone Star Conference teams are with Howard Payne University and Texas A&I.

St. Mary's opens the season this year with a trio of games in Honolulu against Chaminade-Hawaii, Brigham-Hawaii and Hawaii Pacific.

"This year's team is the best nucleus of talent and athletes we've had in several years," says Coach Buddy Meyer, entering his 17th year at the San Antonio university. "This is definitely a team with the capability of being a national champion."

Heading the list of starters is Darren Brunson, a 5'7" point guard from Independence Community College, who averaged eight assists per game last year. Also back is

Zoo Receives Highest Award

At the 60th Annual Conference of the American Association of Zoological Parks and Aquariums held in Miami, the San Antonio Zoo received an Edward H. Bean Award, the highest honor that the AAZPA can confer on its institutional members. This award is shared with the Honolulu Zoo for the propagation of the endangered Madagascar angulated tortoise.

The Madagascar angulated tortoise is in imminent danger of extinction, its total population is estimated at only a few dozen animals. Only five tortoises are in captivity outside of Madagascar. Of these five, two are owned by the San Antonio Zoo. The zoo received two tortoises in 1977. Both were later sexed as females. To aid in the worldwide propagation effort, one female was loaned to the Honolulu Zoo to be paired with their male. The other female was paired at another institution.

Over the last twelve years, six clutches of eggs have been laid by San Antonio's female at the Honolulu Zoo, but all were infertile. On Sept. 16, 1983, the first and only Madagascar angulated tortoise was hatched in captivity. Said Louis R. DiSabato, Director of the San Antonio Zoo, "We are quite proud of receiving this honor, but no more proud than we are to have contributed to the propagation of this extremely rare animal."

All-District performer Kenneth Cook and sophomore forward Pete Hansen, who started all 33 games as a freshman.

Other lettermen joining those three are 6'8" Greg Hoffman, 5'10"

Ervin Monier, 6'2" Michael Speight, and 6'8" Ken Lacue.

Meyer has five top recruits to his team's credit this year, plus one player, Russel Jackson, who is returning after a year's absence.

James Douglas, 6'8", of East St. Louis, comes from Butler County Junior College in El Dorado, Kan. Pat Sheridan, 6'5", comes from a traditional winning program at Central Catholic High School in San Antonio.

David Gray, 6'2", comes from a basketball power in Los Angeles, Crenshaw High School. Todd Gandy, a 6'6" forward, transfers from Independence Community College. Top recruit of the season is junior Kenneth Jackson, 6'2", from Los Angeles.

Last year, St. Mary's produced a 10-0 conference record to become Big State Conference champions. Coach Meyer was named the conference's Coach of the Year, and senior Melvin Roseboro was Player of the Year.
