

ISSUE#13
FEB, 2026

February is a month that reminds us why this work matters. Across healthcare, education, and community spaces, we continue to see the power of connection, mentorship, and human-centered leadership. At AEHP, our focus remains clear: empowering professionals, uplifting communities, and building systems that see people first.

Thank you for being part of a movement rooted in compassion, equity, and action.

AEHP continues to expand mentorship pathways for professionals at every stage, from students and early-career practitioners to seasoned leaders seeking purpose-driven growth.

What we're seeing:

- Increased demand for trauma-informed, inclusive leadership training
 - Strong engagement in peer mentorship and professional coaching
 - Growing interest in values-based leadership models that center humanity, not hierarchy
- Our upcoming Mentorship & Leadership initiatives are designed to meet this moment, supporting growth that is both professional and personal.

Advancing Neurodiversity & Inclusive Care

Through AEHP's Neurodivergent-focused education and advocacy initiatives, we remain committed to moving beyond accommodation toward genuine inclusion.

This month's focus includes:

- Strengthening neurodiversity-affirming education models
 - Supporting families, educators, and providers with practical tools
 - Promoting awareness that celebrates difference as strength
- Inclusion is not an add-on, it's the foundation of ethical, effective care.

A Look Ahead

AEHP is proud to offer National Association of Long Term Care Administrator Boards (NAB) approved continuing education courses that include CPD accredited certifications upon completion, allowing professionals to earn CE credit and a formal credential.

Business Office Management for Long-Term Care

- NAB Approval Code: 20270116-6.50-A114528-DL
- Credential: Accredited Certificate in Business Office Management for LTC

Change Management for Healthcare Professionals

- NAB Approval Code: 20270116-6.75-A118566-DL
- Credential: Accredited Certificate in Healthcare Change Management

With Appreciation

AEHP exists because of a shared belief: that empowered professionals create stronger, safer, more compassionate communities.

Because at the end of the day, all we truly have is each other, and that is more than enough to build something better.
