Math

When we aren't testing, we will spend time reviewing skills we have learned this year.

Science

The chapter test and "paper pet genetics" project have been graded and entered into FACTS. We will take a break this week from Science and begin our next chapter the following week.

Reading and English: The students will take their iLEARN tests on Tuesday-Friday this week. With the limited regular class time we will have, the students will continue reading their Pilgrim's Progress novel and creating a map of Christian's journey. There will be a vocab test over ch. 1-10 next week, April 20th. The students will bring home a study sheet for their words this week.

ELA

Jar of Books: This is our last month for our Jar of Books reading. The students have about three more weeks to finish their fictional chapter books and fill out their bookmark response form.

Word Study: The students will take their test over #26-30 on Monday. There will be no new words to study this week due to testing.

History

The students will get a glimpse at the battle of Gettysburg. They will also begin the expedition of Lewis and Clark to explore the West. One new Washington landmark is introduced each day.

Bible

Bible: For Missionary Monday, we will learn about missionaries who are in Botswana and The Republic of the Congo in Africa, serving the Lord despite the unrest and danger in these countries.

Memory Verse: There will be no memory verse this week due to testing.
