Math (Nash)

For this week, we will have a test on Monday then test corrections on Tuesday. There are no new IXL skills this week! When we return from Thanksgiving Break, we are going to start our next chapter over

Science (Nash)

For this week, we are going to finish our in-class project on Monday. Then students will present their posters to the class on Tuesday! When we return from Thanksgiving Break, we are going to start our next chapter over stars.

ELA (Baker)

Reading: For this short week, students will explore various Thanksgiving-related texts. They will also get to share these fun books with their first-grade Reading Buddies!

Word Study: There will be a test over Suffixes #1-5 on Tuesday.

Jar of Books: The students have only one more week to read for November! When we return to school on Dec. 1st, students must turn in their book reviews and signed books! Remember, each student is required to read at least one book per month.

Reading: When we return from Thanksgiving break, the sixth graders will dive into an adventure story titled “A Ride to Honor.” Throughout the lesson, they will focus on identifying the key elements of the plot.

English: We will continue our chapter on nouns and comma placement.

Word Study: No test this week. The test over #6-10 is on Tues., Dec. 9th.

Jar of Books: Because class time will be limited in December, students will have free-choice reading. They may select fiction, non-fiction, or graphic novels. There is no page requirement, but books must be appropriate for their reading levels. If they’re unsure about a choice, they’re welcome to ask me.

History (Newton)

Over the next two weeks, the students will learn about time zones around the world as they continue to develop their map skills. We also are traveling down the Road to Revolution as we study the various events and people that led to the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

Bible (Baker)

For December, we will take a break from Proverbs and learn verses from Luke 2 about the birth of our Savior.

Memory Verse: There is no new Bible verse this week. The students will be tested over Luke 2:10-11 on Fri., Dec. 5th.
