Math (Nash)

Next week we will finish the chapter over ratios and proportions. The test will then be the following Monday (23rd). This chapter is full of completely new concepts, so students will need to study extra hard for this test. Also, those students that have been struggling with focus will need to put in extra effort this week to catch up & understand where we are at.

ILEARN Checkpoint #2 retakes are finished, and the reports will come home on Tuesday. Be on the lookout to see how your child is doing with skills taught the second quarter.

Science (Nash)

The Science test is on Tuesday. We will then spend Wednesday and Thursday finishing up our planetgram project. Projects will be presented to the class on Friday.

ELA (Baker)

Reading: As we continue reading A Wrinkle in Time, the students will analyze the point of view. They will also analyze the characters' responses to see if they line up to what the Scriptures teach.

Read-a-Thon begins Monday! Please sign your child up, so they will be able to begin reading and logging in their minutes. Remember that you will register them under Mrs. Nash's class because she is the sixth-grade homeroom teacher. She will be awarding prizes each morning and needs to access their minutes.

Jar of Books: It should be pretty simple to read a book this month due to the Read-a-Thon! Please remind your child to fill out their response form and turn in their little book, signed by you!

English: This week, we will write humorous limericks for our Grandparents which the students will read to their grandparents on Grandparents Day!

Word Study: The students will take their test over #6-10 on Tuesday.

History (Newton)

The history students will have a test on the Revolutionary War on Wednesday, February 18. They were given a study sheet this past Wednesday. On Thursday, they will view a movie on Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. We will begin a study of the Constitution and the Bill of Rights the following week.

Bible (Baker)

There won't be a verse test this week due to Grandparents Day. The verse we will study for this week and next will be 1 Corinthians 13:1. The next verse quiz will be on Friday, February 27th.
