Math
(Nash)

We will begin chapter 13 during group lessons and independent practice. This chapter is over ratios and proportions. During small groups, we will continue to work on statistics and inequalities for the iLearn Checkpoint #2 retake which will be Friday, February 6th.

Science
(Nash)

This week we will finish the chapter we have been working on over the Solar System. We will be taking the chapter test the following week.

ELA
(Baker)

Reading: We will continue our Greek mythology study this week. The students will compare and contrast the stories they've read and participate in a fun play based on Greek mythology.

Jar of Books: This is the last week the students have to complete their Bible reading for January. They should choose two subjects from their Bible reading page, but they only need to write their response about one of the subjects. These are due by the end of the day on Friday.

English: We will continue our unit on verbs this week.

Word Study: The students will have their test over #11-20 on Tuesday. They will study #1-20 for a test the following week on February 3rd.

History
(Newton)

The history students used our weekend winter storm to study weather maps and predict weather. They will finish that project and then travel down the wintry road with the Continental Army to Valley Forge. They will continue to develop an appreciation for George Washington's leadership which was crucial for our independence.

Bible
(Baker)

We continue our study on the "House of Truth" this week. The students will memorize Proverbs 3:12. For the test on Friday, they will be tested over Proverbs 3:9-10, & 11.

Friday's Team Challenge!
