Math (Nash)

We will be taking the ILEARN checkpoint #1 (attempt 2) on Tuesday. We will then be finishing the chapter over expressions and equations.

Science (Nash)

We are going to start the next chapter over Natural Resources. We will be working on this chapter for the next couple of weeks. We will be taking the chapter test on Monday, November 24th.

ELA (Baker)

Reading: This week, the students will compare two versions of the tall tale, Mose, a story about a firefighter from New York City.

Jar of Books Challenge: Please encourage your child to pace their reading, so they will finish at least one non-fiction book by the end of November.

English: The students will review proper nouns and abbreviations this week.

Word Study: The students will be tested over units 5-8 on Tuesday. Beginning on Wednesday, the students will review all of the prefixes/roots they've learned. There will be 50 in all. Students who master all of them will get a special treat after the test on Tuesday, the 18th!

History (Newton)

Having finished our study of the thirteen colonies, we will begin the study of the growing rift between the colonists and their king and their desire for independence.

Bible (Baker)

The students will continue learning about the relationship between God and man and how Jesus bridged the gap between us.

Memory Verse Quiz on Friday: Prov. 3:7.

Operation Christmas Child: Thank you so much for the donations! We ended up with four full boxes! I was also able to get tracking labels, so we'll be able to follow exactly where they go! Please join us in praying over these boxes, praying that God uses our gift and His Gospel to work miracles in the lives of these children!
