

The Day of the Dead (Dia De Los Muertos)

The Red Lion this year honoured the traditional Mexican celebration of Dia De Los Muertos, as we know it, The Day of the Dead.

It is not a spooky "Halloween" holiday, but it is a very vibrant Remembrance Day to cherish and honour ancestors and celebrate the continuity of life and death.

Families gathered at the local pub, children sugar skull painting, taking in the authentic festive decor (handcrafted by Klavdiya Underwood) and truly authentic Thai Cuisine the Red Lion is regarded for.

There was a range of young singers and performers from "Little Shop Productions" and Jezy Harley entertaining the festive event.

Thank you to everyone who came to play (kudos to those in costume) and support...and to those who shared a piece of their heart on the alter, bless:)

It was a night to remember, thanks to you all.
