Technical Documentation, Marketing Materials, Author, Web Services, Copy Editing

I've wanted to be a writer since college. The theatre programs and film/TV coursework introduced me to the joy of storytelling. Many of those friends made in both production and editing are still close 50 years later.

I formed a documentation firm with my wife called "TextPros" in 1980. By 1988 I was writing technical manuals for Hughes Aircraft and Digital Equipment Corporation while Joanne and I were publishing Catholic newspapers.

In 1991, I was hired to run the communication and marketing operation for Storage Solutions Specialists, which developed into my role as CEO at STORServer, Inc., beginning in 2000. I retired in 2015 to return to editing, writing, and mentoring writers through several online editing endeavors.

I am searching for a position where my skill stack of editing and management abilities can help a corporate environment to thrive in this evolving era of communication explosion.
